Containing the Freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtic.

The MANIFESTO publiſhed by Authority at Peterſburgh, giving a compleat Account of all the Motives which engaged the EMPRESS to aſcend the Throne of Ruſſia.

CATHERINE, &c. &c.

OUR acceſſion to the Imperial Throne of all the Ruſſias, is a proof, that God himſelf directs thoſe hearts which act ſincerely, and with good intentions.

"We never had any deſign or deſire to attain the Imperial power in the manner in which the impenetrable views of the Almighty have placed us on the throne of Ruſſia, our dear country. Immediately upon the death of our dear aunt Elizabeth Petrowna, of glorious memory, all true patriots (now our faithful ſubjects) lamenting the loſs of ſo tender a mother of her country, placed their only conſolation in obeying her Nephew, whom ſhe had named her ſucceſſor, in order that they might ſhew thereby a part of their gratitude to their deceaſed Sovereign; and although they ſoon perceived the weakneſs of his genius too narrow to rule ſo vaſt an Empire, they hoped he would be ſenſible of his own inſufficiency, and in the mean while they beſought our aſſiſtance in the government.

"But when abſolute power falls to the ſhare of a monarch, who has not virtue and humanity enough to confine it within juſt bounds, it becomes a fruitful ſource of the moſt fatal evils; this our country ſoon experienced, and with terror beheld herſelf ſubjected to a Prince, who being enſlaved to the moſt dangerous paſſions, thought only of ſatisfying them, without any concern for the welfare of the empire.

"In the time when he was Great Duke, and heir of the Ruſſian throne, he frequently cauſed the bittereſt chagrin to his auguſt Aunt and Sovereign (as all our court knows) reſtrained, however, by fear, in her ſight, he ſtill kept up ſome appearance of decency, but in his heart regarded the affection ſhe ſhewed him as a relation only, as an inſupportable yoke. Nor could he ſo well conceal his ſentiments, as not even then to ſhew, in the eyes of our moſt faithful ſubjects, the moſt preſumptuous ingratitude, which evinced itſelf ſometimes by perſonal contempt of the Empreſs, and ſometimes by an avowed hatred of the nation. At laſt, keeping no bounds, he rather choſe to give a looſe to his paſſions, than to behave like the heir of a mighty empire. In a word, not the leaſt remains of any ſenſe of honour were to be found in him. What were the effects?

"Scarce was he aſſured that his aunt and benefactreſs drew near her end, when he reſolved in his heart to do diſhonour to her memory; and his ingratitude went ſo far, that he caſt an eye of ſcorn on her body, expoſed in the Coffin; and when the neceſſary ceremony obliged him to approach it, he did it with looks of joy, and even ſhewed his ingratitude by words; nor would her obſequies have been at all worthy ſo great and magnanimous a ſovereign, if our tender reſpect for her, cemented by the ties of blood, and the extreme affection which ſhe had borne us, had not made us think it our indiſpenſible duty to take care of them.

"He imagined that he owed his abſolute power not to the ſupreme Being, but to chance alone; and that he held it, not for the good of his ſubjects, but for his own pleaſure. Joining, therefore, licenciouſneſs to power, he made all the alterations in the ſtate which the weakneſs of his genious ſuggeſted, for the oppreſſion of the people. Having effaced from his heart all traces of the orthodox Greek religion (although he had been ſufficiently inſtructed in the principles thereof) he firſt endeavoured to deſtroy the true religion, eſtabliſhed for ſo long a time in Ruſſia, forſaking the houſe of God and the public devotions; ſo that ſome of his ſubjects, moved by their conſcience, ſeeing his contempt for the rites of the church, or rather the raillery he poured upon them, ſcandalized by ſuch a conduct, ventured reſpectfully to remonſtrate to him on this behaviour, and with difficulty eſcaped ſuch reſentment as might be expected from a capricious Prince, whoſe power was not controuled by any human law.

"He had even a deſign to deſtroy the churches, and actually had ordered ſome to be pulled down; he forbad the having chapels in the houſes of thoſe perſons whom illneſs prevented from paying their devotions publickly in the houſe of God. Thus did he endeavour to oppreſs the faithful, and to quench the fear of God, which ſcripture aſſures us is the beginning of wiſdom.

"From this want of zeal for God, and this ſcorn of his law, proceeded a contempt of natural and civil laws; for having an only ſon, whom God has given us, the Great Duke Paul Petrowitz, he would not, when he aſcended the throne, declare him his ſucceſſor, his caprice having views which tended to our deſtruction and that of our ſon; being deſirous either entirely to ſubvert the order of ſucceſſion eſtabliſhed by his aunt, or to deliver the country into foreign hands, in oppoſition to that maxim of natural right, according to which no perſon can transfer to another a right which he has not received himſelf. Although, to our grief, we perceived his intention, we could not believe he would carry his perſecution of ourſelves and our ſon to ſo great a length; but all perſons of integrity perceived his deſigns to deſtroy us and our ſon, which already ſhewed themſelves by viſible effects; and ſeeing our forbearance, they warned us ſecretly that our life was in danger, to excite us to take up the weight of government. All this while he ceaſed not to exaſperate mens minds, by overthrowing all that the greateſt of Princes, our anceſtor Peter the Great, of immortal memory, had eſtabliſhed. He deſpiſed the laws and tribunals of the empire, he diſſipated the revenue by uſeleſs and hurtful expences. After a bloody war, he began another, contrary to the intereſts of Ruſſia. He took an averſion to the guards, who had faithfully ſerved his predeceſſors, and made innovations to the diſcouragement of thoſe valiant ſoldiers.

"He entirely changed the face of the army, and it ſeemed as if, by dividing it into ſo many parts, and giving the troops ſo many different uniforms, he was willing to make them doubt whether they all belonged to the ſame maſter. In ſuch circumſtances it was difficult for us not to be anxious for the dangers which threatened our country, and uneaſy under the perſecution which we and our ſon ſuffered, being almoſt excluded from the Imperial Family, ſo that all who had any affection for us, or rather courage to make it known, endangered their lives, or at leaſt their fortunes, by ſhewing us that reſpect which was our due as Empreſs. At laſt his efforts to deſtroy us broke out in public, and then blaming us for thoſe murmurs of which his own conduct was the cauſe, his deſign to take away our life was no longer concealed; of which being warned by ſome faithful ſubjects, who were reſolved to ſave their country or to die for it, we, ſtrengthened by our truſt in God, expoſed ourſelves with that courage which our country had reaſon to expect, in return for its affection for us. Armed therefore with the Divine Protection, we no ſooner had given our conſent to thoſe deputed from the nation to us, than all orders of the ſtate were eager to give us proofs of their fidelity."

[Then, after mentioning her ſetting out for Oranjebaum, the Empreſs proceeds thus:]

"Scarce had we ſet out from Peterſburgh, before he ſent us two letters, one immediately after the other; the firſt by our Vice-Chancellor, Prince Galitzin; the other by Gen. Iſmaeloff. In theſe letters he declared his willingneſs to reſign the crown, and deſired we would let him depart for Holſtein with Elizabeth Woronzoff and Godowich. Theſe letters, filled with flatteries, were ſent us ſome hours after he had given orders to kill us, as was reported to us by thoſe whom he had charged to commit the crime. He had it ſtill, however, in his power to reſiſt us, by arming the Holſtein troops; he could even have obliged us to grant him conditions hurtful to our country, as he had in his power perſons of diſtinction of both ſexes, to ſave whom we ſhould have inclined to riſk the return of ſome of the paſt evils, by an accommodation with him.

"Whereof, all the perſons of diſtinction about us, beſought us to ſend him a note, to propoſe to him, that if his intention was ſuch as he profeſſed, he ſhould ſign a formal voluntary renunciation of the Empire. We ſent him this note by Gen. Iſmaeloff, and in conſequence he ſigned and ſent us the following writing:

"DURING the ſhort time of my abſolute reign over the "Empire of Ruſſia, I have been really ſenſible that my abilities "were not equal to ſuch a burthen, and that it was above my "ſtrength to govern this Empire, not only ſovereignly, but in any "manner whatſoever. Accordingly I did perceive the tottering, "which would have been followed by its total ruin, and covered "me with eternal ignominy. Therefore, after mature reflection, "I declare, without any conſtraint, and ſolemnly, to the "Empire of Ruſſia, and to the whole world, that I renounce for "ever the government of the ſaid Empire, not wiſhing to reign "therein either ſovereignly or under any other form of government, "nor even hoping ever to attain it by any ſuccour whatſoever. "In witneſs whereof, I make ſincere oath before God and "the whole world, having wrote and ſigned this renunciation "with my own hand, this 29th day of June, 1762, (O. S.)

PETER."

"Thus, by favour of God, we have aſcended the throne without effuſion of blood. We aſſure our ſubjects we will beſeech the Almighty day and night to bleſs our ſcepter for the ſupport of the othodox religion; and we promiſe to make ſuch diſpoſitions in the Empire, that the government of the ſtate may always remain in force, and that all the parts of the government may be provided with regulations for maintaining good order at all times; and we aſſure our ſubjects of our Imperial favour.

Peterſburgh, July 6, O. S. CATHERINE."

Erfurth, Sept. 8. This morning, at eight o'clock, the Pruſſian Major Glaſenap arrived at our gates, with a detachment of 300 dragoons and black huſſars.----Soon after he entered the town with 80 men, and convening the magiſtrates, demanded a contribution of 700,000 crowns. This ſum he was told it was impoſſible to raiſe; whereupon taking with him four Counſellors of the Regency as hoſtages, he took the route of Langenſaltſa. His troops obſerved ſuch good diſcipline during their ſtay there, that none of the inhabitants ſuffered the leaſt injury.

LONDON,

Sept. 2. The Pruſſian Colonel de Langenow entered Colberg the 10th inſt. with a Pruſſian garriſon; and the Pruſſian troops again occupied Konigſberg and the fortreſs of Frederickſburgh in Pruſſia, where all things are put on the footing of the treaty concluded between the King and the late Emperor of Ruſſia.

Sept. 7. Wedneſday another box of gold was found at the Bank, belonging to the Hermione prize, and yeſterday there were two more; making in all 81,000 l.

Sept. 8. Some private letters in town, ſaid to come from a merchant at Peterſburgh, ſpeak of an attempt made there againſt the life of the Empreſs, by privily fixing iron ſpikes in her bed, which wounded her a little; but add, that the affair is kept as ſecret as poſſible, for fear of alarming the public, though ſtrict ſearch is making after the perpetrators.

Sept. 11. We hear that his Grace the Duke of Bedford, on his arrival at Paris, is to demand a categorical anſwer to the conditions of peace he carries over, and, if they are not complied with, will return immediately to England.

It is confidently aſſerted that an expreſs is diſpatched to the allied army in Germany, with orders to ſuſpend hoſtilities for three months.

The St. Domingo ſhip, ſent into Plymouth by the Lynn man of war, is computed to be worth 100,000 l.

A French frigate, of 26 guns, with 300 ſoldiers on board, bound to Newfoundland, is taken and brought into Plymouth.

We are informed, that the houſe hired at Whitehall for the Duke de Nivernois, his moſt Chriſtian Majeſty's Plenipotentiary to our court, is taken for three years.

Sept. 14. We hear the French Ambaſſador has near 100 men in his retinue.

They write from the Hague, that the Hereditary Prince is in a fair way of recovery.

The Portugueſe miniſter at the Hague has demanded the ſuccours of the States General which were ſtipulated by the treaty of 1703.

Sept. 17. The Elector of Cologn was unanimouſly elected Biſhop of the See of Munſter.

Sept. 18. On Sunday evening a French courier arrived at the Secretary of State's office from France, it is ſaid, with the agreement of the French court to ſome preliminary articles for a peace.

His Majeſty hath been graciouſly pleaſed to conſtitute the Right Hon. Edward Weſton, Eſq; William Sharpe, and James Rivers, Eſqrs. commiſſioners for executing the office of keeper of the Privy Seal, in the abſence of his Grace the Duke of Bedford.

Letters from the Hague ſay, that it is known for certain there, that every thing is agreed on between France and Great-Britain; that only the conſent of Spain is wanting; and that a propoſal had been made to hold a congreſs at the Hague. They even pretend to ſay, that if Spain ſhould not agree to the preliminaries, the two crowns will conclude a ſeparate peace.

The Pruſſians have made a freſh irruption into Bohemia, where, as the Auſtrians ſay, they have committed immenſe depredations, as well as levied heavy contributions. This is owing to the conduct of M. Daun, who continued retiring ever ſince the unfortunate affair of the 16th, which is ſaid to have occaſioned great conſternation at Vienna, and a report is ſpread, that the Emperor is gone in perſon to the army, with a view that his preſence may encourage the troops to make another attempt for the relief of Schweidnitz; the loſs of which important place, with ſo great a garriſon, muſt neceſſarily be attended with very fatal conſequences.

They write from Madrid, that M. O'Dunne, formerly the French miniſter at the court of Portugal, had arrived there from Paris in a journey of but ſix days and an half. That he immediately communicated to the King the preliminary articles of a treaty of peace, to which it was ſaid his Majeſty chearfully conſented, and that the miniſter was gone back to Paris.

Extract of a letter from Madrid, Sept. 3.

" Great is our uneaſineſs here on account of the Havannah, where there are much greater quantities both of goods and treaſure, than the government chooſe to own. The loſs of them will be heavily felt by many in this kingdom, and even the King himſelf will ſuffer very conſiderably by it. Yet, notwithſtanding this fatal ſtroke to our trade and navy (for according to all accounts the place is abſolutely gone) not one of our marine was ever ſent to its relief, and this circumſtance has cauſed great clamour againſt ſome perſons in power."

On the Duke of Bedford's arrival at Calais, he was received amidſt the loud acclamations of the populace, the garriſon were under arms, and the Governor gave an elegant entertainment to his Grace. Military honours were ordered to be paid him through every town he paſſed in his way to Paris.

On the Duke de Nivernois's arrival at Dover, he was ſaluted by the cannon, and as he paſſed through the great towns he was received by ſoldiers under arms. His Grace gave 100 guineas among the men belonging to the yacht that brought him over.

Sept. 21. The Pruſſian General Belling is making an incurſion into Bohemia, by Egra and the Upper Palatine.

Seven thouſand Pruſſians, under General Hulſen, have been at Wald-Saxen, and demanded an hundred thouſand florins, with proviſion and forage; but the contributions not being furniſhed in time, they carried off two prieſts of diſtinction as hoſtages.

Sept. 25. This morning a meſſenger arrived from France, who is ſaid to have brought ſome news that is not agreeable. Stocks have fallen two per cent.

They write from Dux, in Bohemia, that the Pruſſians have treated that town with great inhumanity, plundering it, deſtroying the doors and windows of the houſes, beating the inhabitants almoſt to death, pillaging the church, and deſtroying all the furniture of the caſtle; and that the damage done in thoſe parts is computed at above 80,000 florins.

We hear that his Royal Highneſs Prince William will ſoon be created a Duke, his title will derive from Cambridge or Lancaſter; the firſt has been poſſeſſed by the preſent Royal Family, the laſt was borne by the Glorious of the Plantagenets.

The Captain of the Dutch man of war brought into the Downs is ſaid to be nephew to M. Boreel, one of the deputies from the States General. He loſt a piece of his noſe in the engagement.

Sept. 28. The Prince of Wales appears dreſſed in white ſattin and gold, and enjoys a good ſtate of health.

Letters from Paris adviſe, that a courier, which had been ſent from that court to Spain, was, in the night between the 15th and 16th, ſhot at by three perſons, as yet unknown; but fortunately they only wounded him in the back.

CHARLES-TOWN, SOUTH-CAROLINA, October 30.

Our laſt Letters from Providence are dated the 14th Inſtant. They ſay, that on the 5th, there were about 40 Spaniſh, French and Engliſh Veſſels in the different Ports on Hiſpaniola, ready to ſail, without any Thing to convoy them but a few Dutch armed Sloops; and that Proviſions of all Kinds were exceſſive dear and ſcarce throughout that Iſland; at the Cape Flour ſold at 40 to 50 Pieces of Eight per Barrel, other Articles in Proportion.

The Garriſon of St. Auguſtine, according to ſome late Accounts, is in greater Diſtreſs than ever, for want of Proviſions, having had no Supplies from theſe Provinces ſince April laſt, except what Rice their Xebeque Privateer took in Capt. Butler's Veſſel, the 5th of laſt Month, upon this Coaſt: The 2 Schooners of Capt. Stuart and Capt. Williams, which were taken by the ſame Xebeque on the 13th and 15th, were with her, totally loſt, going in, and no Part of their Cargo ſaved; ſince which, the Rice taken in Butler being almoſt expended, the Spaniards are obliged to ſubſiſt chiefly on Fiſh. At the ſame Time the Garriſon dare not ſtir out for a Stick of Wood, for fear of the Creek Indians; and they are extremely uneaſy with daily Apprehenſions of a Viſit: However they were equipping 2 or 3 Privateers, to look out for more Proviſions this Way, which were to put to Sea the Beginning of next Month; one of them of 14 Guns (Carriage and Swivels) one of 12, and the third (if any) of leſs Force; of which we hope, his Majeſty's Sloop Bonetta, commanded by Capt. Carey (now ready to ſail on a Cruiſe) will ſoon give a good Account.

Yeſterday came in, a French Prize Sloop of 6 Guns, laden with Sugars and ſome Coffee, bound from Port au Prince on Hiſpaniola, for Coracoa; taken and ſent in by the Privateer Schooner Polly and Sally, of New-York, commanded by Capt. Lovet Thurſton.

Nov. 3. Letters received laſt Week from Auguſta and Savannah inform us, that the Enemy Choctaws had ſet upon ſome Traders from Auguſta, for the Chickeſaw Nation, with about 30 Horſes loaded with Goods, which they made Prize of: Their Shot went through the Clothes of ſeveral of the People, and wounded one of them, but none were killed or taken Priſoners.

Captain Butler, of the Polacco from New-Providence, for this Port, and Mr. Dickenſon, one of the Georgia Pilots, lately taken and carried into St. Auguſtine, are arrived from thence at Georgia, and ſay, that the Garriſon is in great Want of Proviſions: The Coaſting Schooner from Sunbury, and the Northward Schooner were, with the Privateer that took them, loſt on Auguſtine Bar. Mr. Dickenſon durſt ſcarce ſtir abroad all the Time he was there, for having ſaid that the Havannah was taken; a Frenchman was in Irons for the ſame Cauſe. When Mr. Dickenſon came away they had a Privateer ready to ſail, and talked of fitting out two others.

The Revenge Privateer of Rhode-Iſland, Capt. Cranſton, which put into Georgia, for Neceſſaries, was to ſail from thence laſt Week.

On Thurſday laſt arrived here from England, his Majeſty's Ship Epreuve, commanded by Peter Blake, Eſq; ſent hither with Outaſſite or Judd's Friend, and the two other Cherokee Indians, that went from Virginia in the ſaid Veſſel. Great Attention was paid to thoſe Indians in England by his Majeſty's Miniſters, of which they are very ſenſible, as well as of the Care Captain Blake has taken of them. Yeſterday Outaſſite had an Audience of his Excellency the Governor in Council, when he expreſſed his Attachment to the Britiſh Nation. His Excellency has ſent off a Meſſenger to the Cherokee Country with Accounts of their Arrival here; and has ordered Carriages to be provided for carrying up the preſents they received in England from the King. The Miniſtry was not a little embaraſſed, in Regard to thoſe Indians, by their Interpreter's dying ſoon after they left Virginia; and no Perſon capable of ſpeaking the Cherokee Language could be found in or about London, though all poſſible Means were uſed for that Purpoſe.

The 14th Inſt. Capt. Blake gave Chace to, and took, in Lat. 31 N. the Schooner Runner of Rhode-Iſland, John Hoile Maſter, from Port-au-Paix, on Hiſpaniola, bound for Rhode-Iſland, having on board 42 Caſks and 114 Bags of Coffee, all French Property. The ſaid Schooner ſailed from Rhode-Iſland the 23d of Auguſt laſt, laden with Flour, conſigned to a French Merchant at the aforeſaid French Port. The Prize is not yet arrived.

St. JOHN, in ANTIGUA, October 27.

The Reduction of the Havannah was celebrated here laſt Thurſday in the moſt joyous and loyal Manner. At Twelve o' Clock the Guns at Monk's-Hill and Fort James were diſcharged, and a public Dinner was provided on the Occaſion.

November 3. Cecil Scott, Eſq; late Commander of His Majeſty's Sloop the Antigua, died on the 23d ult. at Point Petre, in Guadaloupe, moſt juſtly and univerſally lamented as a brave and deſerving Officer. All the Regulars there attended his Funeral in military Mourning, and all the Ships in the Harbour fired Minute Guns upon the Occaſion.

The Antigua lately fell in with a Spaniſh Galley Privateer off Martinico, which carried Twelve-pounders, but was manned chiefly with Indians, whoſe Arrows wounded ſeveral of the Antigua's Men; but, after being engaged ſome Time, the Enemy called out that they were ſinking, and it being in the Night, a Boat was ſent to their Aſſiſtance, which returned without finding them, and it is believed they went to the Bottom.

WILLIAMSBURGH, October 29.

The Ship Lockhart, Captain Coats, from Glaſgow, is arrived in James River. About eighty Leagues off the Capes ſhe was taken by a French Frigate from the Miſſiſippi, bound home; who, after taking out moſt of her Proviſions (of which they were much in Want) and ſuch Goods as they ſtood in Need of, to the Amount of 500 l. beſides rummaging the Mens Cheſts for their Clothes, &c. ranſomed her for 4500 l. Sterling.

ANNAPOLIS, Nov. 18.

On Monday, the 8th Inſtant, His Majeſty's Ship Goſport, Captain Jervis, ſailed from Virginia, with a very conſiderable Fleet, but we cannot learn how many, under his Convoy; it is ſaid near Eighty.

A Privateer, ſaid to be the ſame that took Mr. Glaſſell, and others, in the Schooner Peggy, laſt July, has lately taken off from Cape Charles 14 Negroes, and likewiſe taken a New-England Veſſel, bound in to Virginia.

The latter End of laſt Month, the Sloop Young Speedwell, Thomas Budd Maſter, belonging to New-Providence, and bound to Philadelphia, with Sugar, Indigo and Fruit, was caſt away on Wreck Iſland, in Northampton County, Virginia, and the Cargo all loſt.

BOSTON, November 18.

We hear that Mr. William Clapham, a young Gentleman belonging to this Town, having been trading among the Weſtern Tribes of Indians at Detroit, was murdered by one of his Negroe Servants as he was croſſing Lake Erie in a Battoe on his Return, the Negroe who was in the Stern taking an Opportunity ſtruck him in his Back with a Tomahawk, and then threw him over board; as ſoon as he had done this horrid Deed, and got aſhore with the Battoe, he went to the Indians, and informed them of the Affair, imagining they would be pleaſed with it; inſtead of which he with the other Servant were ſecured and ſent to the Commanding-Officer at Pittſburgh, on the Ohio.

Since our laſt a Number of Troops belonging to this Province, who have been in his Majeſty's Service at Nova-Scotia, and at the regaining of Nefoundland, returned here in ſeveral Veſſels from Halifax: The Time of Service for which they inliſted having been compleated: A Detachment has re-inliſted to ſerve the Winter, in Nova-Scotia. We hear the Provincials who have been in his Majeſty's Service at Crown Point, &c. and whoſe Time was alſo compleated, are on their Return; a Number of the Troops have re-inliſted to ſerve that Way during Winter.

NEW-YORK, November 25.

On Monday laſt arrived here from the Havannah, in about 5 Weeks, the Ship James, Capt. Koffler, and three or four other Tranſports, with ſundry Officers and Men belonging to different Regiments of the Regulars and Provincials, ſome of whom came to raiſe Recruits, and others to recover their Healths. We hear ſome of the Sick are immediately ordered to Rhode-Iſland. The Ships are Part of the Fleet that left the Havannah under Convoy of the Intrepid, from whom they were ſeparated in a hard Gale of Wind on the Coaſt, about a Fortnight ago. We do not hear the Intrepid is yet arrived.

We hear that the Minerva Frigate, Capt. Payton, will ſail for England in a few Days with ſuch Ships as are ready to take the Benefit of her Convoy.

PHILADELPHIA, December 2.

Laſt Week were interred in one Grave, three Children of one Family in this City, who loſt their Lives by a moſt unfortunate Accident. It had been propoſed, it ſeems, to prepare their Bodies for the Small-Pox, by giving them ſome Cream of Tartar, which was accordingly ſent for to an Apothecary's Shop; by Miſtake Tartar Emetic was delivered and adminiſtred inſtead of it, which, by its Exceſs of Quantity, and violent Operation, ſoon brought on Death. The Grief of the Parents, who have no other Children, is inexpreſſible. " How careful ought the Venders of " Medicine to be, that none but diſcreet and intelligent Perſons " are ſuffered to attend and ſerve in their Shops."

Since our laſt ſeveral Veſſels have arrived here from the Havannah, by whom we have Advice, That 400,000 Dollars more have been lately diſcovered there; and that other valuable Diſcoveries of Goods, &c. were daily making: That the Mooie Caſtle was ſo far repaired, as that Thirty Cannon were mounted: That Commodore Keppel had ſailed for the Jamaica Station, with ſeven Sail of the Line: That Admiral Pocock was gone to England with ſeven Line of Battle Ships more, and ſeventy Tranſports: That Lord Albemarle was ſtill at the Havannah: And that the Army in general was growing more healthy.

The Ship Sarah, Captain Hardcaſtle, from this Place for St. Chriſtophers, was taken on her Paſſage by a French Frigate of 26 Guns, and ranſomed for One Thouſand Pounds Sterling. Captain Hardcaſtle loſt his Mate, and two Foremaſt Men, in an Engagement he had with the Frigate in the Night.

From Antigua we learn, that the Privateer Ship Britannia, Captain Robeſon, of this Port, has taken a large Spaniſh Ship, and carried her to Barbados.

The Ship Polly, Captain Corſer, from this Harbour for Jamaica, was taken ſoon after ſhe left the Capes.

The Privateer Snow General Shirley, Captain Wallace, of New-Providence, and bound here, was loſt in the Harbour in a Gale of Wind.

The Brigantine Tartar, Captain Kelſo, bound to Jamaica from Virginia, is taken.

The Captain of the HARRIOT PACKET-BOAT, has received Orders to hold his Ship ready to proceed from New-York to England at a Moment's Warning.

We hear that a Negroe Man was found laſt Tueſday in his Maſter's Cock-Loft, with a Piece of a Glaſs Bottle under him, with which he had cut his Throat in ſuch a terrible Manner, that notwithſtanding all the Aſſiſtance that could be had, he died in a few Hours; and after the Coroner's Inqueſt had pronounced him guilty of Self-Murder, his Body was immediately ordered, by Authority, to Dr. Shippen's Anatomical Theatre.

NEW-YORK, November 29.

From the Daily Advertiſer, September 4, 1762.

His Majeſty, out of his princely Zeal for the Advancement of Religion and uſeful Knowledge in every Part of his extenſive Dominions, hath been graciouſly pleaſed to authorize the making a Collection throughout the Kingdom, for the joint Benefit of the two Colleges and Seminaries of Learning lately eſtabliſhed in the Cities of New-York and Philadelphia; and hath granted a Royal Bounty of 600l. towards forwarding ſo good a Deſign.

Friday Night laſt Colonel Hunt, and ſeveral other Officers belonging to the New-Jerſey Provincials, arrived here from Niagara, by Way of Oſwego, and left both the Garriſons well and hearty.

The ſame Day Mr. Richard Allen arrived here from Niagara alſo, who informs us, That on Wedneſday the 14th Inſtant, in the Morning, about Half-way between that Garriſon and Albany, on the back Road, being in Company with William Newkirck and Joſhua Mines, all on Horſeback, they met with two Conuſta Indians, who received them very kindly, ſhook Hands with them, and parted in a very friendly Manner; but they had ſcarcely turned their Backs before the Indians diſcharged their Pieces at them, killed Newkirck and Mines on the Spot, and ſhot Allen's Horſe in the Shoulder; that Allen then rode off as faſt as he could, but was ſoon overtaken by the Indians, who mounted the other Horſes, was ſtriped naked, in order to be tomahawked, and was ordered to prepare for Death; but one of the Savages taking Pity on him, ſaved his Life: That he was left only an old Big Coat to cover him, until he got to a Caſtle belonging to the Six Nations, where he was kindly received; but had the Mortification to ſee the two Murderers treated alſo in the ſame Manner, they arriving at the Caſtle as ſoon as he did. He remained among the Indians for 10 Days, and at length procured two of them, for 25 Dollars, to conduct him to Sir William Johnſon's, which they faithfully performed.

Copy of a Letter from Lovit Thurſton, Commander of the Privateer Polly and Sally, dated off Cape-Nichola Mold, Sept. 25.

"After a tedious Paſſage of 30 Days I arrived at the Eaſt End of Porto Rico, where I took a fine new Sloop, of about 60 Tons, with little or no Cargo, the Spaniards having quitted her, which I ſent for Jamaica, but four Days after ſhe was taken by a French Polacco, bound to France, to Windward of Jackameal; and happily as Providence guided, came round the South Side of Hiſpaniola, and gave Chace to the Polacco, five Days after ſhe took the Sloop, then in Company with the Privateer Sloop Jane, Capt. Barclay, of Barbados, whom I joined to Leeward of Beata; and after a tireſome Chaſe of rowing (being calm) two Days and a Half, ſhe run aſhore about ſix Leagues to Windward of Jackameal, and there bilged; but retook the Sloop again, in Company with Capt. Barclay, and ſent her for Jamaica, and expect e'er this ſhe is arrived; from thence proceeded down to O'Coy's, where I fell in with two Privateers, viz. a Ship, Capt. Murray, and a Brig, Capt. Tucker, at the Iſle Aſh, there anchored for a Day and a Half; interim, reconnoitered the Harbour, and diſcovered three Ships, and many other Veſſels, almoſt loaded, who no Doubt will ſail ſoon; from thence quitted the above Privateer, and ran down to Cape Tiberon, where I fell in with a Sloop, of about 60 Tons, chiefly laden with Sugar, Coffee, &c. and about Eight o'Clock at Night (having rowed ſix Hours) boarded her; ſhe mounted ten Carriage Guns, but the Frenchmen quitted her in the Dark, being near the Shore; I have ſent her by Mr. Curſer, for York, and believe her to be a valuable Prize; I proceeded with her as far as Cape-Nichola Mold, where I ſcrubbed her Bottom, ſhe being very foul, alſo hove down the Schooner, and gave her a genteel Bottom; interim, on my coming in here, eſpied a formidable French Fleet, conſiſting of five double Deckers, two Frigates, and three Merchantmen, homeward bound, out of which took a new Sloop of about 50 Tons, compleatly equipped, in Company with Capt. Murray, and Capt. Tucker (only in Ballaſt) their Parts of which I purchaſed, and have appointed Mr. Shaw Prize-maſter; I intend to proceed with her (being on my Way) to Turks Iſland, there load her with Salt, and diſpatch her for York, which you'll pleaſe to diſpoſe of to the beſt Advantage. At preſent am ſhort handed, which will oblige me to proceed to Jamaica, where I ſhall make but a ſhort Stay, and after beat up for the O'Coys, in order to intercept (if I can) the Veſſels before mentioned.-------I would have cruized off the Spaniſh Main, but finding that Coaſt ſo crowded with Engliſh Privateers, I apprehended my cruiſing about Hiſpaniola would be more advantageous, and make no Doubt but ſhall be ſoon able to make a proſperous Cruize."

Sunday Morning about 3 o'Clock, the Earl of Halifax Packet, Captain Bolderſon, arrived here from Falmouth, with the September Mail, in 8 Weeks; but has brought no later News than what has already been publiſhed.

Yeſterday Morning a Seaman belonging to the Privateer Brig Mars, Capt. Wright, for this Port, came up in one of our Pilot Boats from Sandy-Hook, where he left a French Prize Snow, belonging to the ſaid Privateer, Capt. Sinnot of this Port, and a St. Kitts Man, which they took about a Month ago, as well as 7 others at the ſame Time, being Part of a Fleet of 25 Sail, under Convoy of a 40 Gun Ship, bound from Cape-Francois for Old-France, all loaded with Sugar and Indigo; that the Day after the above mentioned 8 Prizes were taken, the Privateers ſtill keeping Sight of the Remainder of the Fleet, they fell in with Commodore Keppel, who took them all, with the 40 Gun Ship, and carried them to Jamaica. Four of the Prizes are hourly expected in here.

We hear that the ſame Privateers have taken 9 outward bound Veſſels, and were left engaging a Dutch Fleet from Hiſpaniola, in Company with Capt. Sproull, in a Virginia Privateer.

Alſo one Breaſt Griſt-mill, chiefly kept for Merchants Work, at which a conſiderable Quantity of Flour is made yearly; a Saw-mill, for accommodating the Works with Boards, Stuff, &c. with about 100 Acres of Land; a Stone Dwelling-houſe, and two Log-houſes; 15 Acres of Meadow, and a Quantity of Swamp for making more Meadow; with a well frequented Stone Tavern and Stone Kitchen, the Houſe affording five Rooms and a Cellar; the ſaid Tavern is in the Croſs-roads, leading from Trenton and New-Brunſwick to the Forks of Delaware, &c. a Well of good Water at the Door, and a very good Spring not above 60 Paces diſtant: The Tavern, with ſome Meadow, and about 30 Acres of Land (15 whereof Wood-land) may be ſold ſeparate. Likewiſe to be ſold a Fulling-mill, and Stone Dwelling-houſe, with about 30 Acres of Land, about 4 Acres thereof Meadow. Alſo a Plantation of about 70 Acres of Land, a Stone Houſe and Log Addition, a young Orchard, and about 8 Acres of Meadow before the Door, with a good Spring near the Houſe. And a Plantation of about 60 or 70 Acres, a ſquare Log-houſe, a good Spring at the Door, and Spring-houſe, with ſome Meadow and ſome Wood-land. Likewiſe about 60 Acres of Wood-land to be ſold.

The Subſcriber has alſo for Sale, a Forge, with two Fires, for refining Pig Metal into Bar Iron, with 70 or 100 Acres of Land, together with a Coal-houſe, and other Houſes for accommodating Workmen, being capable of making about 50 Tons of Bar Iron yearly: The ſaid Forge lies very convenient to a Tract of Land called the Great Swamp, from whence it hath been ſupplied with a conſiderable Quantity of Coal-wood Gratis, and more is offered on the ſame Terms. A Part of the aforeſaid Premiſes being under Rent for near 200 l. per Annum, and the reſt, at a moderate Computation, might be rented at 125 l. per Annum. The Reaſon of its being divided into Parcels is to accommodate Purchaſers, as it was thought it might be a heavy Purchaſe for one Perſon; but if any ſuch Purchaſer ſhould preſent, it may all be ſold together. The whole pleaſantly ſituated in a little Country Village, convenient to Places of Worſhip of three different Denominations, viz. Church, Preſbyterians, and Quakers, the fartheſt not exceeding three Miles. The Terms of Sale will be, the Purchaſer or Purchaſers to pay Half down at entering on the Premiſes, and the Remainder in reaſonable Payments. A ſufficient Warrant and Deed will be made, on paying the one Half of the Purchaſe Money, and giving Security for the Remainder, by me Charles Hoff, jun. † 7s. 6d. tbc.

THE Partnerſhip of CARMALT and WILSON being expired above a Year, all Perſons indebted to them are once more requeſted to make immediate Payment, to prevent being troubled. Tbc. 6 W.

EIGHTY DOLLARS Reward.

Eſſex County, New-Jerſey, ſſ. TWO Priſoners eſcaped from Jonathan Hampton, High Sheriff of ſaid Eſſex County, as they were going to Baſkin-Ridge, where they lived, to get Bail for the Actions they were then taken upon, not known to the Sheriff to be for Felony and Forgery, as they ſince appear to be, which the Priſoners then knew, viz. WILLIAM HAMILTON, for Sheep-ſtealing, at the Camp on Staten-Iſland, born in Ireland, about 50 Years old, a luſty, dirty ſlouching Butcher, much Sun-burnt, wears a cut Wig, ſeldom combed; has an impudent Boy his Son, about 14 Years old, with him; he had ſeveral other Actions againſt him, for which Sylveſter Cole became ſpecial Bail, and unleſs he is ſoon taken, muſt pay the Debts and Coſts. His Wife and Children are ſince gone to him.

JOHN BARCLAY, for Forgery, born in Ireland, about 50 Years of Age, a ſhort chunkey Fellow, of ſandy Complexion, full of Palaver when drunk (which is as often as he can) talks thick and quick, is a Clothier by Trade. They both went to the Southward laſt Spring, were at Pequea laſt July, and would have been taken there if one Andrew M'Gown had not helped them to eſcape, and ſecreted them, well knowing they had left me, as above; M'Gown lately went from Baſkin-Ridge alſo.

Barclay's Wife, and ſome of her Children went in the Stage to Philadelphia and Lancaſter about two Months ago; ſhe is exceeding much Pock-marked, very brown, named Catherine, about 40 Years of Age, but looks much older, a very neat little Woman. It is thought they are ſomewhere between Pequea and Wills's Creek, but moſt likely about Saſquehannah; but if they are further Southward, even to Carolina, it is hoped they will be apprehended, as ſuch Villains ought not to be countenanced. Whoever apprehends and ſecures them, ſo that I may have them again, or brings them to me, or my Goal keeper, ſhall have for Hamilton Fifty Dollars, and for Barclay Thirty Dollars, and all reaſonable Charges, paid by JONATHAN HAMPTON, Sheriff.

N. B. A Letter ſent by Poſt, will immediately come to me. ¶

To be LETT for a Term of Years,

And may be entered on immediately, or next March, as may beſt ſuit the Tenant,

A Plantation, and Saw-mill, in Greenwich Townſhip, Glouceſter County, New-Jerſey, on the great Road that leads from Glouceſter to Salem; there is on the Premiſes a new two Story Stone Houſe, with a Cellar under the whole; a good Log-houſe near the Mill, and good Springs near each Houſe; likewiſe 50 Acres of Upland newly cleared, within good Fence, a new Barn, and other Conveniencies on ſaid Plantation; alſo about 100 Acres of Upland and Meadow Ground, within a good new Fence, Part of the Meadow cleared, and Allowance will be made for clearing the Remainder; the Land well furniſhed with White and Black Oak Timber for ſawing, and not above a Mile and an Half to haul to the Saw-mill, and but two Miles from the Mill to a good Landing. Any Perſon inclining to rent ſaid Plantation and Mill, may know the Terms, by applying to PRISCILLA HARRISON, on the Premiſes, or to JOHN GRIFFITH, near Glouceſter. ¶

CAme to the Plantation of Iſaac Carver, in Biberry Townſhip, Philadelphia County, ſome time in June laſt, a ſmall bay Mare, ſuppoſed to be about eight or nine Years old. She has already been advertiſed at ſeveral of the adjacent publick Places, but as no Owner has appeared, this public Method is taken, to deſire the Owner to come, prove his Property, pay Charges, and take her away. ⊕ ISAAC CARVER.

CAme to the Plantation of John Hill, and Benjamin Smith, in Buckingham, Bucks County, about the Middle of July laſt, a large brindle Bull, which was advertiſed ſome time ago, but no Owner appeared; and as ſaid Bull grew very miſchievous, by breaking into the Corn Fields and Meadows, he was appraiſed by two creditable Men, and afterwards killed, to prevent farther Miſchief. The Owner is deſired to come, and prove his Property, and he may have the Appraiſement-money. †

STrayed or ſtolen from the Subſcriber, living in Solebury, Bucks County, about the Middle of November laſt, a black Horſe, about 14 Hands high, a natural Trotter, ſeven or eight Years old, has a large bob Tail, a Star in his Forehead, and is inclined to ſtop when rid, ſhod before, Brand or other Marks not remembered. Whoever ſecures ſaid Horſe, and ſends Word to the Owner, ſo that he may get him again, ſhall have Thirty Shillings Reward, and reaſonable Charges, paid by JOSEPH ROBESON. ⊕

ALL Perſons having any Demands againſt the Eſtate of Thomas Hickombottom, late of the Southern Diſtrict, Bricklayer, deceaſed, are deſired to bring in their Accounts, atteſted; and all thoſe indebted to ſaid Eſtate, are requeſted to make immediate Payment, that the Accounts againſt the Eſtate may be adjuſted. JACOB POLLARD, and ELISABETH FALDEN, Adminiſtrat.

CAme to the Plantation of Mordecai Taylor, living in Springfield Townſhip, Cheſter County, on the 30th of October laſt, a bay Horſe, about 14 Hands high, no Brand nor Ear-mark, his hind Feet white, and has a large Blaze down his Face. The Owner coming and proving his Property, on paying Charges, may have him again. ¶

CAme to the Plantation of Benjamin Cocks, in Thornbury Townſhip, Cheſter County, about the Beginning of Ninth Month laſt, a dark brindle Steer, about four Years old, marked with a Crop on the near Ear. The Owner coming and proving his Property, on paying Charges, may have him again; otherwiſe he will be ſold to defray Charges, by BENJAMIN COCKS. §

LISBON, Auguſt 3.

LIEUTENANT LEVIS, who diſtinguiſhed himſelf at the taking of Valencia d'Alcantara, is expected here to-morrow, being ſent by the Marſhal Count de la Lippe, with the Spaniſh colours taken upon that occaſion, to be preſented to the King of Portugal.

Breſlau, Sept. 5. On the night between the 1ſt and 2d inſtant the Mine, or Globe de Compreſſion, as it is called, was played off, but not with the ſucceſs that was expected, owing in part to its being placed at too great a diſtance, and partly to the vigorous reſiſtance made by the beſieged, who ſallied out in the night between the 29th and 30th of Auguſt, and deſtroyed part of the gallery of the mine, by rolling of bombs and other combuſtibles into it, to which they ſet fire. This damage was, however, repaired the next day, and the night between the 31ſt of Auguſt and the 1ſt inſtant the garriſon made three different ſorties, but without ſucceſs. The Pruſſians have begun to work upon another mine, which it is expected will be finiſhed in a few days. We do not hear that the commandant of Schweidnitz has made any new propoſals of capitulation, ſince the rejection of thoſe which he offered before to his Pruſſian Majeſty.

Sept. 8. Count Daun continues quiet with his army in the county of Glatz, and keeps poſſeſſion of the Eul-Geburg, and ſome other heights on the frontiers of Sileſia. The King of Pruſſia remains at Peterſwaldau; and no alteration of any moment has been made in the poſition of his army ſince the 18th of laſt month. The troops that form the ſiege, ſuffer much by the enemy's fire. We hear that they have been reinforced by ſome battalions, as the garriſon is reckoned to conſiſt of full nine thouſand men. The mines are preparing with all expedition; the ſecond mine, it is ſaid, will be finiſhed by the 11th or 12th inſtant.

Hague, Sept. 21. The French armies under the Marſhals d'Etrees, de Soubize, and the Prince of Conde, having in vain attempted to diſturb the march of the confederates from the Horloff to the Ohme, have been obliged to ſtop ſhort in the neighbourhood of Marbourg. In their different attempts upon the rear guard, which Prince Ferdinand conducted in perſon, they were always repulſed with loſs; and notwithſtanding the exceſſive badneſs of the roads, occaſioned by violent rains, every thing arrived in order in the camp of Kirchhayn, except a few ponton carriages, and ſome waggons, which broke down, and were ordered to be burnt.

The deſign of the French appeared to be, to get round the right of Prince Ferdinand, through the county of Waldeck; for which purpoſe the Prince of Conde had been employed to open March Routes towards Frankenberg upon the Eder, which ſerved for the march of the confederate army inſtead of theirs, Prince Ferdinand having marched on the 16th by thoſe routes to Wetter, where the French had a garriſon, which was driven out, and the Prince of Conde obliged to repaſs the Lahne. His Serene Highneſs encamped at Wetter the ſame day, and his head quarters were ſtill there on the 17th.

Naples, Auguſt 10. By letters from Conſtantinople we learn, that the Empire of Perſia is in as great confuſion as ever; every Bey aſſumes to be a Sovereign, and every Khan to reign deſpotically. Trade is entirely at a ſtand, except the ſilk trade in the province of Ghilan, and ſome exports of goods and merchandizes, which are made by the Caſpian Sea. Fat-Ali-Khan ſtill keeps Pana-Khan beſieged in the Caſtle of Schuſe, which is ſaid to be impregnable. The Khan Kerin, who is maſter of Iſpahan, Surias, Aſtrabat, and all the Iran, marched to relieve the place; but was obliged to return, by advices he received of danger threatening his own dominions. Mehemet-Schach, formerly ſecretary to the famous Nadir, and who, by means of the immenſe treaſures he amaſſed, hath procured the Sovereignty of an extenſive country, had ſeized Maſchat, and three other important towns, from whence he was marching with a numerous army to Iſpahan; which, if he met with no unforeſeen obſtacles, he would reach in the end of May.

Amſterdam, Sept. 6. We have accounts that Henry Sturman arrived Dec. 22 at Batavia, after obtaining a great victory over the Rebel, or King as he is called, Siak Raja Mahomet, at Poelegombe, in the river Siak, belonging to the Peninſula of Malacca, and taken 130 pieces of cannon, eighteen pounders, 18 twelve pounders, 12 eight pounders, 8 ſix pounders, 4 three pounders, and 1 one pounder, beſides 40 veſſels, and 14 ſtandards.

Ratiſbon, Sept. 16. There is advice, that the ſiege of Schweidnitz is at preſent carried on under the direction of Gen. Ziethen, Gen. Tauenzin having been mortally wounded on the 8th with a cannon ball.

Berlin, Sept. 14. Letters from Breſlau adviſe, that the garriſon of Schweidnitz continued to defend itſelf the 11th inſtant, and was in no want of proviſions of any ſort, Marſhal Daun having provided it for upwards of three months, when he found he could no longer preſerve a communication with the place. Theſe advices add, that the beſiegers had ſucceeded in blowing up a mine, by which they had advanced as far as the palliſadoes, ſo that they were preparing to batter in breach. The King of Pruſſia has given orders to ſpare the ſoldiery, otherwiſe we might have made ourſelves maſters of the place before now.

Hague, Sept. 16. They write from Mentz of the 11th, that the evening before, the Count d'Etrees, and the Prince de Soubiſe, ſent the heavy baggage of their army to Oppenheim. All the accounts agree that the critical ſituation of affairs in the neighbourhood of Franckfort muſt terminate in a ſuſpenſion of arms, or in a deciſive battle.

The laſt courier from the Allied army brought advice, that Prince Frederick of Brunſwick having received part of the heavy artillery, was preparing to open the trenches before Caſſel the 12th inſtant, and that Prince Ferdinand was advancing with his army towards the Ohme, to cover the ſiege.

Ancona, Auguſt 30. We have certain advice that the Ottoman Porte had ordered 20,000 Spahis to be aſſembled, and march to Bender, and that a great number of armed veſſels are collecting on the Black Sea.

Madrid, Auguſt 24. Our court has given over the thoughts of beſieging Gibraltar. Monſ. de Valiere, one of the greateſt engineers in Europe, has declared, that the place is not impregnable, but that the difficulty would be to block it up by ſea, while it was attacked on the ſide by land. Our miniſtry will therefore content themſelves with reducing Portugal. Some people pretend that we ſhall have no occaſion to take that trouble, for that ſince the departure of Mr. O'Dunne for France, they are perſuaded that the King has conſented to the negotiation for peace, which is going to be ſent on foot between the courts of Verſailles and London, in conſequence of ſome preliminary articles, which they have agreed to as the baſis of the treaty. We cannot ſay whether his Majeſty has committed his intereſts to the care of the French miniſtry, or whether he will be a principal in the negotiation, and ſend the Marquis de Grimaldi to Paris as his Ambaſſador on this occaſion, or whether, without further ceremony, his Majeſty will content himſelf with acceding to the treaty when concluded. It is certain, that our court has but three points to ſettle with England, which are all relative to America. Our accommodation with Portugal will be a matter of no great difficulty.

Stettin (in Pomerania) Aug. 20. As ſoon as the Emperor Peter III. was dead, orders were given to re-commence the war againſt us, and it was ſignified by a manifeſto, dated the 16th of July, to the inhabitants of the kingdom of Pruſſia, that notwithſtanding the Emperor had diſengaged them from the oath of allegiance they had ſworn to the late Empreſs, they would be obliged to render new homage to the preſent one.

The next day ſome of the Senators examined, in the preſence of the Empreſs, the literary correſpondence of the Emperor with the King of Pruſſia, when they made no doubt but they ſhould find there wherewithal to juſtify the hatred they bore to Frederick; but, to their great ſurprize, they found juſt the contrary of what they expected. The Emperor had diſcovered to his Majeſty all his projects, and conſulted him about the greateſt part of them, eſpecially about one that concerned the Empreſs herſelf, and tended to make her unhappy, if it had been put in execution.

The King's letters contained the moſt wholſome council; he adviſed the Emperor to ſtay in his Ruſſian dominions, and not to come into Germany. To look upon his ſubjects as his children, and to give them no juſt cauſe of complaint. To make no alterations in the fundamental laws of the country. To maintain the clergy, church and religion, in the ſame ſtate he had found them in. To deſiſt from a war with Denmark, and not do undertake any thing againſt the Empreſs (who, they ſay, was in danger of being put into a Monaſtery.) At this ſhe burſt out into tears, and declared, ſhe muſt either be a monſter, or bear to the King of Pruſſia as much affection as ſhe had hatred to him before. Hereupon all the furious orders were countermanded, Pruſſia and Pomerania are ours again, and Frederick's wiſdom, magnanimity, and other qualities, which I cannot expreſs, have ſaved him and us from greater calamities than thoſe we have already ſuffered.

We have been aſſured by ſeveral letters from the army, that Count Czernicheff, after having received orders to retire with his troops, would fain have aſſiſted at the operations of the following day (concerted in order to cut off the Auſtrians from Schweidnitz, and oblige them to retire into Bohemia) but his Majeſty would not ſuffer it, and told him, if he would make ſome ſtay upon the top of a neighbouring hill he was to paſs over, he might be a ſpectator of the action. He ſaw indeed from thence, that what he was to lend a helping hand to, could be done without him.

LONDON.

Sept. 23. The Dutch account of the taking their man of war, lately brought into the Downs, is as follows.

Extract of a letter from Solomon Dedel, Captain of the Dutch Frigate the Dankbarheid.

"According to the orders I had received, I ſet ſail from the Texel the 22d of Auguſt, having four merchant ſhips, viz. two for Bourdeaux, one for Bilboa, and one for St. Sebaſtian, under my convoy. The afternoon of the ſame day the Engliſh ſloop the Hazard, of 10 guns, Capt. St. John, overtook me, and one of her officers coming in the ſhip's boat to me, told me his Captain had orders to viſit all ſhips bound to France or Spain, conſequently deſired my leave to viſit thoſe with me. My anſwer was, that none of my ſhips had contraband goods on board, and that I would not ſuffer them to be viſited. The Hazard kept up with me till towards night; ſome hours after, the Tryal of 16 guns, Capt. Cunningham, made the ſame demand, and received the ſame anſwer, but on a ſignal from the Tryal, the Hunter of 14 guns, Captain Vergis, bore towards her, and the two Captains conferred; ſoon after the Tryal bore away to the Downs, and the Hunter continued to follow me. The 24th, juſt as I entered the Streights of Calais, the Hunter made ſignals, with a deſign, no doubt, to bring ſome men of war to her aſſiſtance; and in conſequence of this, in the afternoon of the 25th, I ſaw myſelf ſurrounded by ſeven Engliſh ſhips, great and ſmall, among others was the Diana frigate, Capt. Adams, of 32 guns, and 220 men. The Captain made the ſame demand as the others had done, and I gave the ſame anſwer, adding, that I was determined, if violence was offered, to repel force by force.

"In the mean time I perceived one of the ſeven Engliſh ſhips was ſending her boat to viſit the Mary Elizabeth. I immediately fired with ſhot on the boat, and bore down to the Mary Elizabeth. An Officer and ſome ſoldiers then went, by my orders, on board each of my three other ſhips, to hinder the Engliſh from viſiting. The Engliſh, at laſt, after holding a council of war, having let me know that they would fire upon me if I oppoſed their viſiting the ſhips, I fired a broadſide on the boats, and the Diana returned the fire. The fight laſted a full half hour. Beſides the Diana, the Cheſter of 50 guns, and five other ſhips fired upon mine. My frigate was already damaged in her ſails, her ſhrouds, and the reſt of her rigging, two of my men were killed, and ten wounded, when a muſket ſhot wounded me in the face, put me out of condition to command, and we were obliged to ſtrike. The Engliſh boats, who had waited the event of the fight, then took poſſeſſion of the merchant ſhips, from whence Capt. Adams would not ſuffer the officers and ſoldiers, which I had ſent on board them from my ſhip, to withdraw; and even fired on the boat which we ſent to take them back. We are now at anchor in the Downs."

By Captain M'ILVAINE, arrived here in a ſhort Paſſage from Londonderry, we have the following Advices, viz.

From the LONDON GAZETTE EXTRAORDINARY.

WHITEHALL, September 30, 1752.

LAST Night Captain Nugent, and the Honourable Auguſtus Hervey, arrived from the Havannah, with the following Accounts from the Earl of Albemarle, and Sir George Pocock.

Copy of a Letter from the Earl of Albemarle to the Earl of Egremont, dated Head Quarters, near the Havannah, Auguſt 21, 1762.

My LORD,

I HAVE the Honour of informing your Lordſhip, that the Town of the Havannah, with all its Dependencies, and the Men of War in the Harbour, ſurrendered to his Majeſty's Arms by Capitulation on the 13th Inſtant.

Incloſed is a Copy of the Capitulation, various Returns, and the Chief Engineer's Continuation of the Journal of the Siege of the Moro Fort, which was taken by Storm the 30th of laſt Month, ſo much to the Honour and Credit of his Majeſty's Troops, and to Major General Keppel, who commanded the Attack, that I ſhould do them Injuſtice, if I did not mention them in a particular Manner to your Lordſhip. Our Mines were ſprung about One o'Clock, and a Breach made juſt practicable for a File of Men in Front. The Enemy was drawn up on the Top of it, in Force, with a ſeeming Determination to defend it: The Attack was ſo vigorous and impetuous, that the Enemy was inſtantaneouſly drove from the Breach, and his Majeſty's Standard planted upon the Baſtion.

I did not ſend a particular Expreſs with this good News to your Lordſhip, becauſe I flattered myſelf, that what has happened would ſoon be the Conſequence of our Succeſs at Fort Moro.

On the 11th in the Morning, by a Signal from the Fort, we opened our Batteries againſt the Town, and Punta Fort: The Guns and Mortars were ſo well ſerved by the Artillery and Sailors, and their Effect ſo great, that in leſs than ſix Hours all the Guns in the Fort and North Baſtion were ſilenced. The Governor hung out the white Flag, and beat a Parley; and at the ſame time ſent out an Officer to propoſe a Ceſſation of Arms for 24 Hours, in order to prepare the Articles of Capitulation.

I ſent on board the Namur to the Admiral, to inform him of the Governor's Propoſals.

Sir George Pocock immediately came to my Quarters, and we agreed to a Suſpenſion of Hoſtilities to the 13th at 12 o'Clock.

I ſummoned the Governor on the 10th. His Anſwer was very civil and proper; at the ſame time ſaid he would defend his Town to the laſt Extremity.

The Difficulties the Officers and Soldiers have met with, and the Fatigues they have ſo chearfully and reſolutely gone through, ſince the Army firſt landed on this Iſland, are not to be deſcribed. They deſerve from me the greateſt Commendations; and I muſt entreat your Lordſhip to take the firſt Opportunity of informing his Majeſty how much I think myſelf obliged to Lieut. General Elliot, and the reſt of the General Officers under my Command; to every Officer and Soldier in the Army; and to the Officers and Sailors of his Majeſty's Fleet, for the zealous Manner with which they have carried on the Service, and for the great Aſſiſtance I have received from them. Happy we ſhall all think ourſelves, if our Conduct meets with his Majeſty's Approbation.

Sir George Pocock and Commodore Keppel have exerted themſelves in a moſt particular Manner; and I may venture to ſay, that there never was a joint Undertaking carried on with more Harmony and Zeal on both Sides, which greatly contributed to the Succeſs of it.

Captain Nugent, one of my Aid de Camps, who has the Honour of delivering you my Diſpatches, can inform your Lordſhip of any Particulars you are pleaſed to learn from him. He has been very active, and preſent at every material Affair that has happened ſince the landing of the Troops. I muſt beg through your Lordſhip to recommend him to his Majeſty as a very deſerving young Man. He carries with him the Spaniſh Enſign taken at the Moro.

Colonel Carleton, who has acted as Brigadier ſince Lord Rollo left the army, had the Misfortune of being wounded on the 22d of July when the Enemy made a Sortie: He is at preſent in a fair Way of doing well.

I think it but Juſtice to Major Fuller, who is my eldeſt Aid de Camp, to ſay, that I ſhould have ſent him to England, if I had not thought it would be more agreeable to his Majeſty, to receive the News by one of his own Servants. I am, &c.

ALBEMARLE."

Copy of a Letter from Sir George Pocock to Mr. Cleveland, dated off Chorera River, near the Havannah, Auguſt 19, 1762.

SIR,

I Deſire you will accquaint their Lordſhips, that it is with the greateſt Pleaſure I now congratulate them on the great Succeſs of his Majeſty's Arms, in the Reduction of the Havannah, with all its Dependencies.

The Moro Fort was taken by Storm the 30th of laſt Month, after a Siege of 29 Days; during which Time the Enemy loſt above 1000 Men, and a brave Officer in Don Lewis de Valaſco, Captain of one of their Men of War, and Governor in the Moro, mortally wounded in defending the Colours Sword in Hand in the Storm: And on the 11th Inſt. the Governor of the Havannah deſired to capitulate for the Town, which was granted, the Articles agreed to, and ſigned (a Copy of which I incloſe) and we were put in Poſſeſſion of the Punta and Land Gate the 14th. With this great and important Acquiſition to his Majeſty, has alſo fallen 12 large Men of War of the Line, as per Liſt, 3 of which were ſunk, with a Company's Ship, in the Entrance of the Harbour; 9 are fit for Sea, and 2 upon the Stocks; a Blow that I hope will prove the more Capital to the Enemy, as they receive it ſo early in the War; and I may venture to ſay, will leave all their Settlements, in this Part of the World, expoſed to any Attempts that may be thought proper to be made on them. But however trivial, with the Poſſeſſion of the Havannah, it may appear, yet I cannot help mentioning the Diſcovery, and poſſeſſing the Harbour of Mariel, about 7 Leagues to the Leeward of this, and which we had made ourſelves Maſters of, though the Enemy had endeavoured to ruin it by ſinking Ships in the Entrance; and we had lately ſent near 100 Tranſports, with ſome Men of War there, for Security againſt the Seaſon, in which we are already advanced.

It will be as needleſs, as almoſt impoſſible, for me to expreſs or deſcribe that perfect Harmony that has uninterruptedly ſubſiſted between the Fleet and Army, from our firſt ſetting out. Indeed it is doing Injuſtice to both to mention them as two Corps, ſince each has endeavoured, with the moſt conſtant and chearful Emulation, to render it but one; uniting in the ſame Principles of Honour and Glory for their King and Country's Service. I am glad, on this Occaſion, to do Juſtice to the diſtinguiſhed Merit of Commodore Keppel, who executed the Service, under his Direction, on the Coxemar Side, with the greateſt Spirit, Activity, and Diligence; and I muſt repeat, that the Zeal his Majeſty's Sea Officers and Seamen exerted, in carrying on the Services allotted to them, is highly to be commended.

I ſhall now beg Leave to refer their Lordſhips to Capt. Hervey for all further Particulars, who I ſend with this Letter, and who has approved himſelf a brave and deſerving Officer in this Expedition; therefore think myſelf obliged to deſire their Lordſhips will recommend him to his Majeſty. I am, Sir, your moſt obedient humble Servant, G. POCOCK.

Paris, Sept. 21. Though Councils are frequently held, to conſider of concluding Peace, that ſalutary Work ſtill meets with Obſtructions. The King of Spain inſiſts on all his Claims; and notwithſtanding the Reſtitutions which it is ſaid England is to make, the Ceſſion of Canada will be ill digeſted both by Spain and this Court, it being their Intereſt to prevent the Aggrandiſement of the Engliſh in America. Another Embarraſſment to our Miniſtry, is the Difficulty of bringing the Empreſs Queen to accommodate her Differences with the King of Pruſſia. Her Majeſty, indeed, expreſſes great Concern at the Effuſion of human Blood; but, at the ſame Time, ſhe ſets forth how diſhonourable it would be for her, and her High Allies, to lay down their Arms, without any Indemnification for the immenſe Charges of the War. This Princeſs would be content with a Part of Sileſia, but ſhe inſiſts that the Elector of Saxony ſhould have the other Part, or an Equivalent, by Way of Indemnification.

Peterſburgh, Sept. 7. The Empreſs has declared her Intention, that the Eſtates that were taken from the Clergy in the late Reign, ſhall be reſtored to them; that the Board, called the Æconomical Chamber, which took Cognizance of the Affairs of the Clergy, ſhall be aboliſhed; and a new Board eſtabliſhed, compoſed of Eccleſiaſticks and Seculars, depending immediately on her Majeſty alone, whoſe ſole Buſineſs it ſhall be to ſettle the Affairs of the Clergy on a permanent Footing, agreeable to the Views of Peter the Great, and the Canons of the Church.

Warſaw, Sept. 16. The Khan of the Tartars, at the Head of a numerous Army, continues encamped on the Frontiers of the Ukraine. He ſtill inſiſts on Satisfaction for the Damages which he pretends ſome of his Subjects have ſuffered from the Vaſſals of Prince Lubomirſki, and ſome other Grandees. Commiſſaries are ſent to enquire into theſe Grievances; mean while the Garriſon of Kaminiec has been reinforced with four Regiments, and 300 Pieces of Cannon placed on the Ramparts.

We hear from the interior Parts of the Kingdom, that ſeveral Dyetines have broke up in Diſcord and Confuſion. At Plack and Zacrockzin the Ferment was ſo great, that they proceeded to Blows, whereby ſome Deputies were wounded, and others killed. Hence we expect no Good from the approaching General Dyet, and it is even doubtful whether it will meet.

It is publickly ſaid here, that Count Biron, late Duke of Courland, is going to repoſſeſs himſelf of that Dutchy; and that the Empreſs of Ruſſia has granted him her Protection, and ordered one of her Regiments of Cavalry to march to Mittau, and ſupport him in his Enterprize. We know not yet what Expedient the King and the Republic will have Recourſe to, in order to avert a Revolution ſo diſagreeable to Prince Charles.

Vienna, Sept. 22. The Army was ſtill encamped at Scharfſeneg the 19th Inſtant, and Schweidnitz continued to make a brave Defence, which is the more to be admired, as it is a Fortreſs, at moſt, but upon the ſecond Rank in Point of Strength. If Marſhal Daun doth not make ſome Effort to preſerve ſuch brave Fellows, and ſo important a Place, what will he do when it is taken? It will be too late then for a Battle, and he can only act on the Defenſive, which will in no Reſpect forward our Affairs.

Marche of Brandeburgh, Sept. 27. According to the laſt Letters from Breſlau, the Count de Guaſco, Commandant at Schweidnitz, continued to defend the Place with all poſſible Vigour, in Hopes that Marſhal Daun may yet be able to make a Diverſion, by Means of which that Place may be preſerved.

Berlin, Sept. 25. We are tired with ſpeaking of the Siege of Schweidnitz. The Commandant not being able at firſt to obtain Leave for the Garriſon to march out freely, nor ſince to have his Troops immediately exchanged, is reſolved to defend the Place to the laſt Extremity.

Bamberg, Sept. 17. The Corps of Troops of the Empire, under the Command of Gen. Roſenfeld, arrived at Benk, near Bareith, the 11th Inſtant. The ſame Day a Courier arrived there from Dreſden, with Advice, that divers Detachments of Pruſſians were in the Circles of Egra and Ellebogen, in Bohemia; that General Belling had fixed his Head Quarters at Topel; and that he had ſent Parties as far as the Gates of Pilſen.

Berlin, Sept. 28. Letters from Saxony import, that the March of the Troops, under the Command of General Count de Schmettau, which were detached from the King's Army towards Gorlitz, has obliged the Enemy to change their Situation. They are watched by General Luzinſky, who commands 6000 Troops of the Empire, but he ſeems to decline coming to an Action. Every Thing beſpeaks a great Alteration in the Operations in that Electorate.

Gottingen, Sept. 20. Above 1000 Peaſants are employed in repairing the Fortifications of this City.

Francfort, Sept. 29. The Situation of the two great Armies in Heſſe was Yeſterday the ſame, and while it continues ſo, it is ſaid that the French will not dare to attack the Allies. The latter are poſted upon riſing Grounds, which give them a great Advantage over the Enemy. The French are getting together great Quantities of Proviſions at Gieſſen, and are frequently removing their heavy Artillery.

Paris, Sept. 27. The Duke of Bedford has frequent Conferences with our Miniſtry; but as the Court is going to Fontainbleau, and will remain there till the Feaſt of St. Martin, the Negociations are thought not to be in great Forwardneſs.---The Governor of Martinico, as well as the Governor of Guadaloupe, is committed to the Baſtile; thoſe Gentlemen having mutually accuſed each other.

Naples, Sept. 10. We hear that there are at Malta ſeven French Ships of the Line, and two Frigates; and at Meſſina two of the Line, and one Frigate.

Madrid, Sept. 14. Our Officers, who were taken Priſoners at Valencia d'Alcantara, greatly extol the Behaviour of the Commanding Officer of the Engliſh Forces, when he ſurprized that Place; Don Miguel d'Irumberry, the Commandant, and the reſt of the Officers of the Garriſon, being permitted to take with them all their Baggage, &c. They were ſolely obliged to the Commanding Officer of the Engliſh for this generous Treatment, the Portugueſe being diſpoſed to have ſeized all that belonged to them.

A conſiderable Detachment of our Troops, commanded by Lieutenant General Don Carlos de la Riva Aguero, and Major General Don Marcos de Mendoza, marched in two Diviſions, the 5th and 6th Inſtant, towards the Confines of Eſtremadura, on the Side of Alcantara, in order to watch the Enemy, and oppoſe their Enterpriſes in thoſe Parts.

On the 11th the Count d'Aranda removed his Camp from Aldea Nova to Cardeira, about three Leagues diſtant; and the next Day he was to march to Sabogal, and continue his Route towards the Enemy, whoſe principal Forces are ſtill aſſembled near Abrantes.

Prague, Sept. 20. The Pruſſians employ 20 Batteries againſt Schweidnitz. The Garriſon is in no Want of Proviſions or Refreſhments; and, to animate the Soldiery, Brandy is given them every Morning, and Wine at Noon.

Craſſen, Sept. 23. The Inhabitants of Schweidnitz don't ſuffer much, the King having ordered the Houſes to be ſpared as much as poſſible, and not ſuffering any hot Balls to be thrown into the Town.

Brandebourg, Sept. 26. Tho' the Letters from Berlin, of the 21ſt, give us Room to expect every Hour the News of the Surrender of Schweidnitz, it is not yet received. There certainly was a Parley for a Capitulation; but the Commandant of the Place could not agree with our General upon the Articles; ſo that the Attack and Defence have been renewed with freſh Vigour. Some Letters inform us, that the King has been in the Trenches, to ſee himſelf how the Seige goes on.

Vienna, Sept. 18. Marſhal Daun's Aid de Camp was ſent back Yeſterday, and a Report is ſince ſpread, that he carries the General Orders to make a ſecond Attempt for the Deliverance of Schweidnitz.

General Haddick, who ſucceeds the Count de Serbelloni, in the Command of our Army in Saxony, has ſent the Court a new Plan of Operations againſt the Pruſſian Troops commanded by Prince Henry. From the Activity and Abilities of that General, it is expected that Affairs in that Country will ſoon take a Turn in our Favour.

Franckfort, Sept. 26. French wounded Soldiers are continually bringing in, ſo that we know not where to lodge them. The Allies carry theirs to Munden, and other Places in the Electorate of Hanover.

The Caſtle of Amonebourg muſt certainly be a Poſt of extreme Importance, ſince there have been ſo many Sacrifices made on one Side to take it, on the other to preſerve it. The Behaviour both of the French and Britiſh Troops, on this Occaſion, is ſcarcely to be parallelled. For 15 Hours together they valiantly ſupported the moſt obſtinate Cannonade that perhaps was ever ſeen or heard of; whole Rows of Troops were mowed down at once by Cannon Balls on both Sides, and yet nothing but Night could part them.

Notwithſtanding this Check, the Allied Army has not fallen back one Step. It continues to occupy the Heights of Wetter, as far as Hombourg, on the Ohme. Duke Ferdinand has his Head Quarters at Kirchhayn, and the two Marſhals have eſtabliſhed theirs at Bauerbach.

The Corps of the Prince of Conde is ſtill at Goesfeld; that of the Count de Luſace on the Side of Haarſhauſen; and the main Body of the Army between them, oppoſite the Allies.

Carthagena, Sept. 4. We have not heard any thing of the Squadron of Don Auguſtin d'Idiaquez, ſince it failed from hence the 27th of Auguſt, to cruize off the Coaſts of Oran.

Genoa, Sept. 13. The Malecontents of Corſica, who were in the Caſtle of Padollella, have delivered it up to our Troops, and Orders are gone to the Sieur de Matra to fortify that Poſt with all poſſible Diligence.

Paoli's Credit amongſt the Malecontents is diminiſhed conſiderably. There have been many Commotions in Campoloro, and the Fermentation becomes general in the interior Poſts of the Iſland.

LONDON, September 25.

Extract of a letter from the Hague, Sept. 14.

Letters received this day from Paris bring the following advices. 'We talk at preſent more than ever of an approaching accommodation; and the arrival of the Duke of Bedford ſerves to corroborate all that is ſaid on that head, and make us hope that the preſent negotiation will have a better iſſue than the laſt. Mean while the houſe of Auſtria warmly ſolicits our court not to haſten this affair; and Spain is in ſuſpence, eſpecially as her troops, now that Almeida is reduced, can ſoon make themſelves maſters of the greateſt part of Portugal. Beſides, there is an implacable animoſity between the two nations of Spain and Portugal; and if we may give credit to a letter wrote from Naples to a merchant in this city, Spain is certainly not inclined to peace. This letter is as follows: "Sir, You were ſo kind as to ſend me in your laſt ſome news of your country: I cannot in return ſend you any thing that is intereſting from this, excepting that it is ſtrongly reported, that the Catholick King hath come to a reſolution to engage our government in the preſent war; his Majeſty being determined, it is ſaid, to make himſelf maſter of all Portugal, coſt what it will; and that, notwithſtanding the ſtrong repreſentations that have been made to the court of Spain, to permit us to remain neuter, we ſhall be obliged to enter into their meaſures. If his Catholick Majeſty be abſolutely determined to continue to wage war with the Portugueſe, againſt whom he is highly incenſed, we could certainly give him great aſſiſtance by ſea. Mean while, it is the opinion of thoſe who know moſt of the ſecret of affairs, that our government will not engage in the war till the laſt extremity, but try every method to avoid it.

'Thus we ſee that all the propoſals of peace, which have been ſo much talked of, and all the good diſpoſitions of the belligerant powers, are every moment liable to change and vaniſh.'

Extract of a Letter from Dantzick, September 1.

"The deferring the coronation of the Empreſs of Ruſſia to the 10th of next month, gave occaſion at firſt to much ſpeculation: But we are now certainly informed, that the reaſon of this delay was, that all was in combuſtion at Peterſburgh; from whence they write, that the Guards, who partly contributed to place Catherine II. on the throne, are ſorry that they were ſo precipitate in that affair; that the Party which is formed for Prince John daily gathers ſtrength; and that it hath already been inſinuated to the Empreſs, and even ſpoke publickly in the ſtreets, that ſhe had no natural right to the crown; ſo that it is to be apprehended that this Princeſs's reign will not be long, notwithſtanding the wiſe precautions ſhe hath taken to eſtabliſh her throne. It remains to be ſeen whether a ſtop can be put to this ferment, when all the forces are returned into the Empire."

Sept. 28. Advices from Holland import, that all their letters from Paris are full of the impatience of the public to have the peace with England concluded; but that no mention was made of any preliminary article being ſigned; that, on the contrary, it was more and more apprehended, that the negotiation would be drawn out to an unmeaſurable length by Spain; and that in two or three conferences which the Marquis de Grimaldi had with the Duke of Bedford, which turned on a ſuſpenſion of arms between Spain and Portugal, Grimaldi ſaid, that he had no orders to conclude any thing relative to that point, and that the Catholick King was ſo piqued at the haughty contemptuous manner in which the Moſt Faithful King had ſpoke of the Family Compact, that it was not probable that hoſtilities would ceaſe in Portugal, till the King his maſter ſhould have received ſatisfaction.

Letters from Vienna, by Way of Ratiſbon, adviſe, that the Empreſs Queen hath rejected all the offers of peace that have been made to her, and that ſhe hath declared that ſhe will make one effort more, and augment her armies next campaign with 45,000 men.

Letters from Peterſburgh intimate, that the government there ſeems to be very unſettled; that there is a deal of private caballing among all degrees of people, who are not at all pleaſed with the preſent Empreſs, though ſhe does many things for the good of the publick, to gain their affection and eſteem: But that, in general, the Ruſſians are of ſo untractable and turbulent a diſpoſition, and ſo apt to love fiſhing in troubled waters, whenever an occaſion offers, that it is imagined they will not be long quiet. Prince John is the perſon who is ſaid to be moſt approved of by them, and many ſcruple not to declare publickly, that they hope to ſee the day when he ſhall mount the Imperial Throne of his anceſtors, which, according to this writer, does not ſeem to be far off.

September 30. The Squadron fitting out at Port l' Orient is intirely blocked up by ſome of our Men of War, ſo that nothing from thence can eſcape our Notice. The Sage Man of War, of 64 Guns, in attempting to come out, ran aſhore, but was got off again without much Damage, by throwing ſome of her Guns over.

Extract of a Letter from Paris, September 21.

"Yeſterday Noon a Courier arrived here from England, with Diſpatches to the Duke of Bedford from that Court, ſoon after which a Grand Council was ſummoned to attend this Day. The Nature of theſe Diſpatches is not known, but from the Hurry in which the Council has been aſſembled, and the ſtrict Injunctions that have been given the ſeveral Members not to be abſent, it is imagined they contain ſome Articles of very great Importance.

Monday twelve Cheſts of Medicines, weighing three Tons and a Half, were ſent from the White Hart Inn in Southwark, in order to be ſhipped at Portſmouth for the Uſe of our Forces at the Havannah.

Extract of a Letter from Plymouth, Sept. 26.

"Yeſterday was ſent in by the Æolous Frigate, Capt. Hotham, the Formidable, a Sloop from Bourdeaux for St. Domingo, with Wine and Flour. By this Prize we have an Account of the Æolus having about ten Days ſince drove two large Spaniſh Weſt-Indiamen aſhore on the Coaſt of Spain, one of which, after ſilencing a Battery, they burnt; ſhe was laden with Cocoa, Coffee, Hides, and Indigo. While Capt. Hotham was doing this Service, the other Ship, by throwing Part of her Cargo overboard, floated, and got clear off.

"About two Days after this, the Æolus fell in with a French Ship of the Line, three Frigates, and four Merchantmen, bound to the Weſtward with Troops. She kept them Company ſome Days, but at laſt loſt them.

"This Day was ſent in by the Venus and Lark Frigates, Le Duc de Penthievre Privateer of Bayonne, of 14 Guns, and 160 Men; ſhe had been out but five Days, and had taken nothing."

We are informed that the King of Portugal has granted to Captain M'Namara, Commander of the Lord Clive Privateer, the Liberty of going into any of his Ports in America, and ſent Orders to his Governors to give him all the Succour he may occaſionally want, which will give him an Opportunity of annoying the Spaniards both by Sea and Land, and probably alſo to acquire for himſelf and People immenſe Sums, as there are many rich Places, and eaſily aſſailable by a few brave and reſolute Men, who have the alluring Proſpect of pecuniary Advantages in View.

Yeſterday an Expreſs arrived from Ireland, and we hear the Troops are ſailed for Portugal.

Yeſterday a large Quantity of Military Stores were ſhipped at Woolwich for Portugal.

They write from Conſtantinople of the 17th ult. that the Cham of Tartary, being a very turbulent Prince, had aſſembled 40,000 Men, who had taken the Field about two Months, and that they had juſt then received Advice, that theſe Troops had made an Irruption into Poland. It is added, that Beker Pacha, Governor of Grand Cairo, was dead.

They write from Cadiz of the 27th ult. that an Order arrived that Day from Court to releaſe all the Dutch Ships which had been brought to Algezires, it appearing that they had not on board any Proviſions deſtined for Gibraltar, as was ſuſpected.

Her Grace the Dutcheſs of Bedford ſet out this Day for Paris.

October 2. Laſt Night there were great Illuminations, upon the joyful News of taking the Havannah.

The Joy expreſſed by all Ranks on this Occaſion, is unbounded; not only as this Acquiſition is in itſelf great, and gives an additional Luſtre to his Majeſty's Arms, already ſo formidable over all the Globe; but as it has a Tendency to impreſs our Enemies, eſpecially our moſt recent one, with a due Senſe of the ſingular Ardour and Intrepidity of the Britiſh Soldiers and Sailors, to whoſe undaunted Valour no Enterprize, however dangerous, has been found ſuperior; and muſt ſpeedily diſpoſe them to liſten to equitable Terms of Accommodation.

Yeſterday the Colours taken at the Havannah were preſented to his Majeſty at St. James's, by the Right Hon. the Earl of Halifax.

Captain Hervey, in the Dragon, in his Paſſage home from the Havannah, fell in with, and took a large French Frigate, from Old France, bound to Newfoundland, having on board Powder and Ball, with other warlike Stores, alſo Soldiers, two Indian Chiefs, with a great many Scalping Knives, Hatchets, &c.

October 9. Yeſterday's Poſt brought Advice from Liverpool, of the Loſs of His Majeſty's Ship Scorpion on that Station. It is ſaid the whole Crew periſhed, and 73 dead Bodies have been caſt aſhore at the Iſle of Man.

By Letters Yeſterday from the North, there is an Account of ſeveral Ships being loſt in the Storm of Saturday Night and Sunday laſt; but the Particulars were then not known.

About 17 light and laden Colliers are on Shore to the Northward of Yarmouth.

They write from Ratiſbon, that M. de Chavigny, the French Ambaſſador to the Swiſs Cantons, is ordered to repair to the King of Pruſſia's Head Quarters, at the Requeſt of the Court of England, which France is at preſent much diſpoſed to oblige. This they conſider as a freſh Proof that there will be no general Congreſs.

According to Letters from Vienna, dated Sept. 17, during the preſent Languor of the military Operations in Sileſia, all political Converſation turns on the Negotiations of Peace between France and England; which, notwithſtanding their promiſing Appearance, many there are of Opinion will end without Effect. The Connections of the two Crowns with their Allies will oblige them, they think, to make one Campaign more. The Empreſs Queen, to whom France has promiſed that ſhe will make no Peace without her Conſent and Participation, is employing every Method to prevail with the Courts of France and Spain to continue Hoſtilities, her Majeſty being determined to make one Effort more, to compel the King of Pruſſia to propoſe more reaſonable Terms: He offers little, or ſcarce any, Indemnification to the King of Poland, Elector of Saxony; and this Prince employs all his Influence at the Court of France to prevent their ſigning any Treaty till he ſhall be put in Poſſeſſion of his Hereditary Dominions, and be amply indemnified by his Pruſſian Majeſty.

Among other Reaſons alledged in Holland to prove that Spain is not diſpoſed to Peace, one is, the Diligence with which, they pretend Spain is labouring to augment her Forces both by Sea and Land. The Spaniſh Miniſter at the Hague is almoſt daily in Conference with the Bavarian Miniſter, on the Subject of hiring 12,000 Bavarians for the Service of Spain.

We hear from Spain, that the French Miniſtry have been for ſome Time paſt inſtigating the Miniſtry of Madrid to attack the Portugueſe Settlements in Brazil. Their Force at Buenos-Ayres is not ſufficient to over-run the Portugueſe Provinces: They depended on a Fleet and Succours from the Havannah. But we have happily defeated their Views in that Part of the World.

Extract of a Letter from Liſbon, dated Sept. 14.

"Mr. Salema, our Ambaſſador at the Hague, having, as he was directed, laid before the States the Demand made by his Maſter, of the Succours ſtipulated by Treaty, and being put off, on Account of their pretended Inability to comply with the ſame; it is ſaid he replied, that he had Orders to declare that his Moſt Faithful Majeſty would look upon Refuſal as a Violation of the Treaties of Commerce ſubſiſting between them, and therefore add the Privileges granted them by the ſaid Treaties to thoſe already enjoyed by the Engliſh, who, though involved in a bloody and expenſive War with two powerful Nations, yet had been ſtaunch enough to ſhew themſelves his faſt Friends in Time of Need."

By the Thetis Cartel Ship, arrived at Plymouth from St. Maloes, we have Advice, that there were great Rejoicings at that Place on Sunday the 26th ult. on Account of the ſuppoſed Advantage gained over Part of the Allied Army at Amonebourg the 21ſt. It was given out there that the Loſs of the Allies amounted to 30,000 Men.

For ſome Days there has been an uncommon Preſs for Seamen on the River and on Shore; the Men intended for the Eaſt-India Ships compoſed a great Part of thoſe impreſſed.

By the laſt Accounts, the City of Caſſel was blockaded in ſuch a Manner, by the Allies, that the Garriſon could receive no Supplies. The French, it is ſaid, had not Bread to ſerve them beyond the 30th ult. ſo that it was thought that the Garriſon muſt ſoon ſurrender for Want of Proviſions, if not relieved.

They write from Francfort on the Mayne, that the taking of Amonebourg Coſt the French 1200 Men, 400 of whom were killed, and 800 wounded; that the Wound received by the Marquis de Caſtries, and that of the Chevalier Saarsfield, are both very dangerous; and that Lieut. Gen. Segur, and Marſhal St. George, had each a Horſe wounded under them. That Brigadier Chamborant has, ſince the Action, taken Priſoners near Brillon a Squadron of the Regiment of Ardorff Dragoons of the Britiſh Legion, and 30 of Scheiter's Hunters; and alſo 100 Horſes. They add, that the Garriſon of Amonebourg conſiſted of 11 Officers and 553 private Men.

They write from Brunſwick, of the 28th ult. that the Hereditary Prince's Wound would be quite cured in a Day or two from that Date.

They write from Marſeilles, of the 15th ult. that within a Week fifteen Veſſels were arrived there, with ſundry Merchandize; ſince which the Price of Sugar was conſiderably fallen.

The Ruſſian Miniſter at the Hague has received a Courier from his Court, with Letters dated the 14th of September, adviſing, that the Empreſs ſet out from Peterſburgh the 12th, and went to a Country Houſe about two Leagues from the Capital, from whence ſhe continued her Route the Day of the Date of theſe Letters for Moſcow, where her Imperial Majeſty, unleſs any unforeſeen Accident prevented it, would be crowned on the 10th or 12th of October at fartheſt. The foreign Miniſters were alſo ſet out from Peterſburgh for Moſcow, to be preſent at the Coronation.

The Courier which the Ruſſian Miniſter had diſpatched in Haſte to Paris (and which occaſioned a Variety of Conjectures at the Hague) returned laſt Sunday.

Admiralty Office, Sept. 27. His Majeſty's Ships the Venus and Lark have ſent into Plymouth the Carnabel Privateer, of St. Sebaſtians, of 8 Carriage Guns, and 80 Men, which they took the 15th Inſtant, in the Latitude of 47: 47. longitude Weſt from London 14: 20. the Ram-Head bearing North 68: 10 Eaſt, diſtant 137 Leagues.

NEW-YORK, December 2.

On Tueſday laſt arrived here the Prize Snow Active, taken about a Month ago, by the Privateers Mars, Capt. Wright, the Monckton, Capt. Sennet, of this Port, and the Loyal Revenge, Capt. Tucker of St. Kitts. Her Cargo conſiſts of 131 Hogſheads, 46 Tierces, and 35 Barrels beſt white Sugars, 75 Tierces of Coffee, and 5 Tierces of Indigo.

By the People on board this Prize we are informed, that ſhe was one of the Fleet of 23 Sail, including 3 French King's Frigates, which were their Convoy, and one Merchant Frigate, of 18 Guns, all bound from Cape Francois to France. Of which one Brig was taken by the Mars, the Royal Charlotte, and one Providence Privateer; ſent for New Providence.

One Ship and one Snow by the Mars and the Monckton (Capt. Sennet) and ſent for New-York.

Eighteen Sail, including the Frigates, taken in Conſort by the Mars, the Royal Charlotte, the Monckton, the Loyal Revenge, the King George, and two Providence Privateers. That this whole Fleet was taken by the above Privateers, and after the Prizes were manned, Commodore Keppel's Squadron, which were, during the Engagement, 3 Leagues to Leeward, came up, took the ſaid 18 Prizes away from the Captors, and ſent them for Jamaica.

Names of the King's Frigates. L'Expedition, an old 50, but had only 24 Guns. Le Volant, 22, and L'Etourdir, 20 Guns.

The Harriot Packet Boat, with the Mail for Falmouth, ſailed Yeſterday.

Capt. Thurſton, in the Privateer Polly and Sally of this Port, had on the 25th of September laſt, taken 3 Prizes, one of which he had ſent for Jamaica, and the other two for this Port.

PHILADELPHIA, December 9.

The Ship Cæſar, Captain Martin, of 20 Guns, belonging to Briſtol, and in the Tranſport Service, foundered in her Paſſage from the Havannah for New-York. The People were taken up by Captain Dewick from New Providence, and brought in here.

On Monday laſt Captain Lake arrived here, in 37 Days Paſſage from Liſbon. The Eleventh of November he ſpoke with Captain Ruſſell, in the Ruby, from Lancaſter for Martinico, and had been then out 22 Days, who told him, that the Negociations for a Peace were over, and that our Miniſter, the Duke of Bedford, was recalled from France.

Captain Lake alſo informs us, that the Night before he ſailed, the Packet arrived from England, and brought the News of the taking the Havannah, and re-taking Newfoundland; upon which there were great Rejoicings at Liſbon: That 400 Horſe, for the Service of the King of Portugal, had arrived from England: And that the Spaniards had taken ſome ſmall Places from the Portugueſe ſince the Reduction of Almeida, but of no great Conſequence.

The Polly, Captain Erickſon, from this Port for Jamaica, was taken on his Paſſage, and carried to Port-au-Prince.--And the Brig Fanny, Capt. Robert Smith, alſo from this Place, and bound to Jamaica, was likewiſe taken, and carried to the ſame Port.

The Privateer HERO, Captain APPOWEN, of this Port, has lately taken a Sugar loaded Sloop, bound to Bourdeaux, from Hiſpaniola.

The Snow Vaughan, Captain Foſter, from Briſtol, is aſhore on the Shears, in our Bay, bilged, and almoſt full of Water.

And a Ship from the Havannah, is alſo aſhore on a Shoal called the Flogger, in the Bay.

*

By the NEW-YORK POST laſt Night we received Advice of the Arrival of the PITT PACKET, Capt. GOOTRIDGE, from Falmouth, at New-York, in ſeven Weeks Paſſage; but by her there is nothing very material, excepting the following Account, viz.

Camp of Brucker-Muhl, near Rodecker, upon the Ohme, September 24.

ABOUT Six in the Morning of the 21ſt, the Weather being extremely foggy, the Enemy attacked the Poſt at the Brucker-Muhl, which they cannonaded, and attacked with Small Arms. On the Fog's clearing up, it was perceived that they had both Cavalry and Infantry formed on the Height beyond the Bridge. Our Cannon being ready, their Cavalry was cannonaded and diſperſed: Their Infantry likewiſe gave way, but were ſoon ſupported by freſh Troops. The Cannonade and Fire of Small Arms continued very ſevere on both Sides. In the mean Time, Gen. Waldegrave (who had taken the Command of the Reſerve, on Lord Granby's being ill of a Fever) was ordered to ſupport the Brucker-Muhl. This Succour came juſt in the proper Time, as the Hanoverian Troops had already ſuffered much, and their Ammunition of every Kind was almoſt ſpent. The firſt Battalion of Britiſh Guards marched immediately down to relieve them, and the Enemy kept conſtantly throwing in freſh Troops in a little Work which they had beyond the Bridge. Our heavy 12 Pounders arrived at this Time, and played with great Succeſs. The Enemy, on their Part, ſtill kept bringing up more Cannon. The Duke ordered up ſix heavy 12 Pounders, and 3 Hawitzers from the Army, which arrived juſt at the Time, when, from ſome of our Guns being diſabled, and the growing Scarcity of Ammunition, our Fire began to abate. Four Heſſian Battalions were likewiſe ordered up. The Fire on both Sides was kept up (both of Cannon and ſmall Arms) with the utmoſt Severity, and moſt determined Reſolution, till dark Night at laſt put an End to it. There was no Attempt on either Side to paſs the Bridge; but freſh Troops were ſent to ſupport the Poſts, which each had on the oppoſite Banks of the River, as faſt as the former Reliefs had expended their Ammunition. The whole Affair laſted 14 Hours, without one Moment's Intermiſſion. Never did Troops bear with more Firmneſs and Reſolution. Our Loſs is between 7 and 800 Men in killed and wounded; that of the Enemy, by all Accounts, is much greater.

GEORGE R.

INSTRUCTION

To Our Truſty and Well-beloved JAMES HAMILTON, Eſquire, Deputy Governor of Our Province of PENNSYLVANIA, in America. Given at Our Court at ST. JAMES'S, the firſt Day of October, 1762, in the Second Year of Our Reign.

WHEREAS We have been pleaſed, by Our Order in Council, dated the 17th Day of September laſt, to declare Our Pleaſure, That in the Morning and Evening Prayers, in the Litany, and in all Parts of the public Service, as well in the Book of Common Prayer, where the Royal Family is appointed to be particularly prayed for, the following Form of Words ſhould be uſed, viz. "Our Gracious "Queen Charlotte, their Royal Highneſſes George Prince of "Wales, the Princeſs Dowager of Wales, and all the Royal "Family." Our Will and Pleaſure therefore is, That in all the Prayers, Litanies and Collects, where the Royal Family is prayed for, and which are uſed within Our Province of Pennſylvania, under your Government, the ſame Form and Order of Words be uſed as follows, viz. "Our Gracious Queen Charlotte, "their Royal Highneſſes George Prince of Wales, the Princeſs "Dowager of Wales, and all the Royal Family." And for the better Notice hereof in Our ſaid Province, it is Our further Will and Pleaſure, that you cauſe the ſame to be forthwith publiſhed in the ſeveral Pariſh Churches, and other Places of Divine Worſhip within Our ſaid Province; and that you take Care that due Obedience be paid thereto accordingly.

G. R.

BERLIN, September 11.

WE hear from Breſlau, that ſeveral waggons, eſcorted by a detachment of Coſſacks, are arrived there, loaded with preſents to our Sovereign, from the Empreſs of Ruſſia.

Hamburgh, Sept. 14. We are informed that the Tartars retired from the frontiers of Ruſſia, as ſoon as they learnt that all the Ruſſian forces were returned home.

Prague, Sept. 19. The ſiege of Schweidnitz goes on, but we no longer hope to ſee any attempt made to relieve it. The only advantage we derive from the bravery of the garriſon is, that we gain, and the enemy loſes time: So that it is not probable that the King of Pruſſia, after reducing that place, will be able to beſiege Glatz.

Paris, Sept. 24. The Duke of Bedford, during his ſtay here, will reſide in the hotel of Ambaſſadors Extraordinary, formerly the palace of Bourbon. Count Caunitz, during his embaſſy, paid 25,000 livres for it. The Engliſh Miniſter will pay nothing. The two Kings are, moreover, giving one another marks of their eſteem. Our Monarch, it is ſaid, gives the King of England complete furniture for one of his palaces, and his Britannic Majeſty makes a preſent to the Moſt Chriſtian King of fifty of the fineſt horſes in his kingdom, and other rarities.

Hague, Oct. 1. Letters from the army of the 25th paſt, bring an account of a very obſtinate and bloody affair, which happened on the 21ſt, between the corps under the Marquis of Granby, and General Zaſtrow, poſted at the Brucker-Muhl upon the Ohme, near Amonebourg, and a part of the French army. The French Generals de Caſtries, and Sarsfeldt, are ſaid to have been dangerouſly wounded therein; but we have as yet no other particulars of their loſs.

The following is the moſt exact accounts that we have hitherto received of that action.

The enemy having on the 19th of laſt month conſiderably reinforced their right by marching the whole corps de reſerve towards Deckenbach, and poſting the greateſt part of their army between Hotzhauſen and Bauerbach, Gen. Wangenheim had taken poſſeſſion of the heights of Dannerode, with Ahlefeldt's, and Goldacker's brigades, 8 ſquadrons of Hanoverians, and 7 battalions of the ſame troops which had compoſed the corps under the Hereditary Prince; four ſquadrons of General Bock's corps, and the carabineers, occupied the heights of Rodeken; Beckwith's brigade, thoſe of the Engliſh guards and of Malſburg, the heights of Langenſtein; and General Wiſſenbach that of Staugenbach. The reſt of the army remained in its former poſition, from Bodenhauſen to Bettgeſdorff, whilſt the corps under Luckner, Conway, and Gilſae, lay between Watzebach and Wettern.

In the night between the 20th and 21ſt, the enemy reſolved to get poſſeſſion of Amonebourg, which was defended by one battalion of Cruſe, and 200 Commande's. With this view they raiſed ſeveral batteries, and took poſſeſſion, in the night, of the Brucker-Muhl, where they raiſed a ſmall breaſtwork, and a kind of trench, to ſecure the entrance.

A redoubt on this ſide of the river, and juſt oppoſite the bridge, was defended by 100 men, whom they attacked in the morning, but without being able to carry it. They planted at the ſame time ſome cannon, at the foot of the hill of Amonebourg, about 200 paces from the bridge, in order to bear on the redoubt. It appeared, that their intention at firſt, in taking poſſeſſion of the mill, was only to cut off our communication with Amonebourg; but the fog, with the fire of their cannon, giving it the appearance of a deſign of more conſequence, we brought up ſeveral pieces of artillery. Lord Granby's whole corps moved that way: Gen. Wiſſenbach marched to Kirchayn, and eight battalions, and four ſquadrons, into the Wood of Stautzenberg. In proportion as the number of our cannon increaſed, that of the enemy did ſo likewiſe, till they had brought up twenty pieces of heavy artillery. On our ſide all the Heſſian, and Buckeburg, and half of the Hanoverian artillery, was placed upon the height of Brucker-Muhl; and from break of day till dark night, a moſt terrible firing continued without intermiſſion. We maintained the redoubt, and the enemy the mill*. Hiſtory, I believe, can ſcarce furniſh an inſtance of ſo obſtinate a diſpute; in which the loſs on either ſide may eaſily be conceived to be conſiderable. The troops in the redoubt were conſtantly relieved, after having fired 60 charges; and towards the cloſe of the day, ſeventeen complete battalions had been employed on that ſervice. The redoubt was expoſed to the fire of the enemy's artillery, at the diſtance of about 300 paces; and to that of all their ſmall arms, within 30 paces diſtance; beſides that the troops, coming and going, were obliged to march near 400 paces, expoſed to the enemy's cannon, loaded with grape ſhot. The enemy's ſituation was nearly the ſame, excepting that the mill afforded them rather more ſhelter. This, in general, is the whole affair. The oldeſt ſoldiers ſay, they never ſaw ſo ſevere a cannonade; ſince, though there were near 50 pieces of cannon employed, their execution was confined to the ſpace of about 400 paces; and not only the fire of the artillery, but the muſquetry too of the two oppoſite poſts, was not intermitted a ſingle inſtant, for near 15 hours. Towards the concluſion of the affair, the number of the killed and wounded, at the entrance of, and in the redoubt, on our ſide, ſeemed to exceed 500; ſo that the troops, which came there late in the day, made uſe of the dead bodies to raiſe the parapet a little, which was almoſt levelled; and within a very ſmall compaſs, 1700 of the enemy's cannon balls have been ſince taken up.

While the enemy were attacking the redoubt, they played likewiſe ſome batteries on Amonebourg, and aſſaulted it three times, but without ſucceſs. On the 22d every thing was quiet, and the works on both ſides were repaired without the leaſt moleſtation. We raiſed a conſiderable work on the height, exactly over againſt the ſtone gallows.

The entrance of Kirchayn is fortified in the ſame manner; and Lord Granby's whole corps is between the Kleine and Schweinſberg: General Wiſſenbach is on the height of Kirchayn; and the main body between Stautzenberg and Schonſtadt.

After a fire from the enemy, which laſted all night, and by which they had made a practicable breach, the garriſon of Amonebourg ſurrendered priſoners. In conſequence of which, on the 23d, the enemy puſhed forward the right of their camp, and poſted a body between Amonebourg and Kleinſeelheim.

Dantzick, Sept. 22. In this country we are at preſent very quiet, the Ruſſians having already diſpoſed of all their magazines, &c. and being pretty far advanced on their march homewards; ſo that his Pruſſian majeſty is again in full poſſeſſion of all his territories in Pomerania, as well as Poliſh Pruſſia, and already receives from the latter a conſiderable number of recruits.

Breſlau, Sept. 22. It is confidently reported, but we have no certainty of it, that the Commandant of Schweidnitz is now actually treating, and has offered to ſurrender himſelf and the garriſon priſoners of war, with this condition, That they ſhould not be ſent into Pruſſia, but immediately exchanged againſt an equal number of Pruſſian priſoners.

We are informed that Major General Schmettau, who was detached towards Hirſchberg, has taken poſſeſſion of Zittau and Gorlitz; and ſome letters received here ſay, that the Auſtrians have occupied Budiſſin.

Head-quarters at Kirchayn, September 22. By the returns of this day, the number of our killed and wounded, in the affair of Brucker-Muhl, does not amount to 800. Twelve officers, and about 150 men, remained on the ſpot.

Sept. 23. Captain Cruze, who had commanded at Amonebourg, was this day ſent back with his garriſon, as priſoners of war; and he gave ſuch reaſons for capitulating, as ſatisfied the Duke. A large breach had been made in the wall of the caſtle, where he was poſted (a detachment from the army being charged with the defence of the town) by which an officer and 50 men had got into the court yard of the caſtle, and others were following them, when they were ſo much galled by the fire of our people, that ſeveral of them were killed there, and the reſt, in endeavouring to get back, were taken priſoners. This was the briſk firing we heard the night of the 21ſt. The morning of the 22d they made a ſhew of ſtorming again with many batteries; but firſt ſummoned the place. The Commandant, on ſuch a formidable apparatus, having no proviſions, and very little ammunition, capitulated. We obſerved, that the greateſt part of the enemy's army was, ſince the taking of Amonebourg, encamped in the plain behind it.

Sept. 25. The enemy has made a regular communication on the other ſide of their redoubt, by which they can come into it by the hill of Amonebourg under cover. Our redoubt by the gallows was almoſt finiſhed, and others on the right and left begun. The Ohme being now fordable in many places, we have collected all the harrows we could find in the adjacent villages, and placed them in the moſt practicable fords.

Sept. 26. The Duke having intelligence that the enemy had detached a corps towards Alsfeldt, ordered Lord Granby to march in the evening with 17 ſquadrons, a brigade of infantry, and ſome heavy cannon, to attack them. General Wangenheim, whoſe corps was part of the troops that were under Lord Granby's orders, on this occaſion, marched with them. Beckwith's brigade replaced Wangenheim's infantry on the heights of Danrot. Some other movements were made on our right, but of no conſequence; one brigade only taking up the ground, which another was ordered to leave, for preſerving the communication.

Sept. 27. The Duke having had intelligence laſt night, that the Prince of Conde's corps was to march to Siegen, his Serene Highneſs ordered Gen. Conway to occupy the heights of Wetter, and Gen. Gilſae to replace him on thoſe of Melnau. Luckner's corps was at the ſame time to march to Watzenbach, to prevent the enemy coming by the Gorge of Culmbach into General Conway's rear. The enemy's main army continued in the ſame poſition they have been in for ſome time paſt. Their grand guards were poſted on the hills above the Wetter, but fell back upon the approach of our troops.

Sept. 28. Deſerters, who came in laſt night, affirm, that it was intended to attack our left this morning; and the ſtory was ſo probable, that the Duke ordered three battalions from the right to reinforce our left, and his Serene Highneſs went at day-break to Neider-Uffleiden; but finding every thing quiet, he returned hither, and ordered the three battalions, which we met on their march, and who had left their tents ſtanding, to return to their former poſition.

Three battalions marched yeſterday to reinforce Lord Granby.

Sept. 29. Lord Granby returned to his former poſition, as did the other troops. His Lordſhip arrived at Romrodt the 26th at midnight. The 27th he had an account that the enemy had puſhed on towards Zeigenhayn, and that they had fallen back to Eyſa in the evening; upon which he marched to Alsfeldt. They retired in the night, and he had orders to return.

They had puſhed a conſiderable detachment of cavalry to eſcort waggons to Zeigenhayn, and thought themſelves ſtrong enough to force Major General Freytag; but he attacked them, and purſued them to Alsfeldt, killing, wounding and taking, 400 Men. It is ſuppoſed that their intention was to load their waggons with meal, of which they have great quantities at Zeigenhayn; and to endeavour to ſupply the garriſon of Caſſel, which is ſaid to be in great diſtreſs. M. de Poyanne commanded this corps.

Sept. 30. There being intelligence, that part of this corps was in the neighbourhood of Elrickſtein, Major-General Alsfeldt was detached, at two this morning, with two battalions, and eight ſquadrons, and ſome pieces of cannon from General Wangenheim's corps, to attack them.

The enemy having likewiſe occupied Bergemunden, Major General Freytag, whoſe corps was at Mulbach, ſince his purſuit of the 27th, was ordered to attack that poſt this morning. We attended the Duke to the heights of Hombourg before noon, and heard ſome cannonading in our way there, but it ceaſed before our arrival; and an officer was ſent to inform his Serene Highneſs, that the enemy was diſlodged, but that a conſiderable corps was then encamping by Neider-Ohme. We ſaw ſome cannon ſhot fired not far from Elrickſtein, which muſt be by General Alsfeldt; but the Duke had not a report from thence at eight this morning.

Hague, Oct. 5. Prince Ferdinand's head quarters were ſtill at Kirchayn on the 1ſt inſtant. The army under his command extends from behind Merlan on the left, as far as Watzenbach on the right. The French from Merlan on their right, to Caldern on their left.

The two Marſhals had, ſince the affair of the 21ſt paſt, contented themſelves with making detachments on the right and left of the Allied army, in order thereby to open again their communication with Caſſel, and facilitate the means of throwing proviſions into the place, which began to be in very great diſtreſs for want of them.

It is confeſſed by their own accounts, that their loſs in the cannonade of the 21ſt, greatly exceeded that of the Allies. And we hear from Francfort, that 1800 wounded men had been ſent to the hoſpital there, beſides a great many, who not being able to ſupport their journey thither, were carried to Marbourg, Gieſſen, and other places nearer at hand.

We are likewiſe informed, that the foreign regiments in the French ſervice have ſuffered greatly this campaign, by deſertion and ſickneſs; and their army in general is repreſented to be in a bad ſtate, and in want of proviſions and forage.

Magdebourg, Sept. 28. We are aſſured, that the face of affairs in Saxony will ſoon change. The Auſtrians, unable to ſave Schweidnitz, will turn their attention to that Electorate. This is at leaſt a probable conjecture. The ſeaſon being far advanced, both ſides muſt think of winter quarters. If Prince Henry can maintain his ground at Freyberg, he will have good quarters, with this additional conveniency, that he will be able to open the next campaign where the center of his army is at preſent; which will give him a great advantage over the enemy. The Auſtrians, therefore, will do their utmoſt to diſlodge him; and hence there is reaſon to expect to ſee the main force of both parties brought into Saxony. The detachments lately made by the King of Pruſſia and Marſhal Daun, ſerve to make this ſtill more probable.

Vienna, Sept. 25. It is reported that M. Daun is to march with a diviſion of his army into Saxony.

Hague, Oct. 7. The French and Allied armies in Heſſe are ſeparated only by the Ohme and the Lahne. Prince Ferdinand ſeems determined to maintain his preſent poſition, becauſe it covers the blockade of Caſſel.

Bruſſels, Oct. 4. Six companies of the regiment of Los Rios, in garriſon here, are ordered to hold themſelves ready to march. Some ſay that they are deſtined for Oſtend and Nieuport; and others, that they are to garriſon Guelders, Weſel, &c. when thoſe places ſhall be evacuated by the French, in purſuance of the treaty with England.

Some letters adviſe, that the French have deſtroyed the manufactory for making Spaniſh cloths in Portugal.

Paris, Oct. 1. An embarkation is ſtrongly talked of. All the young fellows that are in goal for offences not capital, are to be ſent to Breſt, to be embarked. This bears not the mark of peace.

The governor of one of our ſettlements, who defended it badly, either through Ignorance or knavery, hath been degraded from the rank of Nobleſſe; all his eſtate and effects are confiſcated, and he is to be confined for life, in the iſland of St. Margaret, near Antibes.

They write from Bourdeaux, that an officer, who was arreſted at Rochefort, on his return from St. Domingo, and carried priſoner to Caſtle Trompette, is put on board, to undergo his puniſhment where his offence was committed.

Milan, Oct. 18. The religious houſes in this ſtate are carrying the plate to the mint, to raiſe the money demanded from them by the Empreſs Queen.

Copenhagen, Sept. 25. Our Eaſt-India company have learnt, with much ſurpriſe, by the ſhip the Prince Charles, lately arrived from Bengal, that no European Nation is permitted to trade with the natives of that country. The Engliſh have made themſelves abſolute maſters of the trade, and oblige all other Europeans to buy from them only, or return without a lading.

Edinburgh, Sept. 13. For above this week paſt, ſince his return from Glaſgow, where he preached every day, the Reverend Mr. WHITEFIELD hath been preaching daily here to very thronged auditories; and on Thurſday laſt for his great ſervices was preſented with the freedom of the City; and this morning after ſermon ſet off for England.

LONDON, SEPTEMBER 30.

YESTERDAY being the Feaſt of St. Michael, came on at Guildhall the Election of a Lord-Mayor; and after the Recorder had ſpoken as uſual concerning the Buſineſs of the Day, Mr. Alderman Beckford advanced from his Seat, with an Intention to addreſs the Livery; but after making ſeveral Attemps to ſpeak, he retired again to his Seat, as he found it impoſſible to be heard. The Lord-Mayor and Aldermen then went into the Court of King's Bench, as is cuſtomary, leaving the Sheriffs on the Huſtings to proceed to the Election. Upon holding up of Hands, there appeared a great Shew in Favour of Mr.

* This is a freſh confirmation of Marſhal Saxe's remark, That the French never ſtand their ground but when they are covered by ſome poſt.

Alderman Beckford, and Mr. Alderman Bridgen, who were returned to the Court of Aldermen; and upon their Scrutiny, there were found eighteen Votes for Mr. Beckford, and one (which was ſuppoſed to be Mr. Alderman Beckford) for Mr. Bridgen. The Lord-Mayor and Aldermen then returning to the Huſtings, the Recorder, after intimating that the Court of Aldermen had made Choice of William Beckford, Eſq; immediately declared him duly elected Lord-Mayor of this City for the Year enſuing. Two Officers then put the Gold Chain on William Beckford, Eſq; which done, his Lordſhip Elect advanced forward, and addreſſed himſelf in a Speech to the Livery, purporting, ‘ That if it had been their Pleaſure to hear him before, he ſhould have deſired they would excuſe his taking upon him the Office of Lord-Mayor, as the ill State of Health he had been in for ſome Years paſt, and the Multiplicity of Buſineſs which he had on his Hands, rendered him incapable of diſcharging the Office, which he looked upon to be of great Dignity and Importance, in the Manner that it ought to be: That he has alſo the higheſt Veneration for the Name of Citizen; that his Family were Citizens; that ſome of them had borne the higheſt Offices for a Century paſt; and that as the Livery had elected him, he was determined to ſerve the Office to the beſt of his Abilities, let the Conſequence to himſelf be what it might, &c. &c.’

The Galia privateer of St. Sebaſtians, of 6 guns and 60 men, is taken by his Majeſty's frigate Juno, and brought into Plymouth.

They write from Berlin, that as ſoon as Schweidnitz ſurrenders, the King of Pruſſia will keep on the defenſive, to ſpare his men, leſt he ſhould be obliged to continue the war.

They write from Prague, that a boy of 12 years of age had been taken up there, and impriſoned, on a diſcovery that he had been gained by the Pruſſians to ſet fire to the Auſtrian magazine at Braunau. If we may credit theſe letters, the King of Pruſſia's army was in ſuch want of proviſions and warlike ſtores, that his Majeſty might poſſibly be obliged to change his poſition; which Marſhal Daun only waited for, to attack him, and relieve Schweidnitz.

Some accounts ſay, that the preſent diſcontents at Peterſburgh have been fomented by the Courts of France and Vienna, who have inſinuated that the exact neutrality which the new Empreſs hath reſolved to obſerve is contrary to the intereſts of the Ruſſian Empire, which thereby loſes the conqueſts which coſt ſo much blood.

According to the laſt letters received at Hamburgh from Peterſburgh, the Empreſs had been counſelled to cauſe the young Prince her ſon, to be acknowledged lawful heir to the crown, and to be crowned, and placed on the throne in her room; and to declare, that, during his minority, ſome of the principal nobility and members of the ſenate ſhould act in conjunction with her as regents.

Advice is ſaid to be received, that on Sunday the 19th inſt. the French Miniſter ſent notice to the Duke of Bedford, that on the Thurſday following, he ſhould have the pleaſure to ſign with his Grace the preliminary articles of peace. But in the interval between Sunday and Thurſday a new difficulty was ſtarted, or pretended to be ſtarted, by Grimaldi the Spaniſh Miniſter; of which tergiverſation the Duke of Bedford ſent an account to London by the laſt expreſs which arrived from Paris.

Oct. 2. The Duke de Nivernois dined on Wedneſday with the Earl of Bute; and before the Company broke up, the news from the Havannah was brought to Lord Bute.

Yeſterday arrived an expreſs from Count de Lippe, with ſome freſh news concerning the operations of our army in Portugal; and it is ſaid, he intends to invade Spain, and draw the war out of the territories of the Portugueſe; but at the ſame time deſires to be reinforced for that purpoſe.

Letters from Portugal by yeſterday's mail ſay, that a Secretary and an Interpreter were ſent in irons to Liſbon, by order of the Count of Buckebourg, on account of ſome very great miſdemeanour at Valencia de Alcantara.

Whatever ſums ſhall be thought neceſſary to proſecute the war will be chearfully raiſed, immediately, by the Citizens of London and others, aſſurances of which will be given on Monday.

Oct. 5. When the French attacked the poſt occupied by Gen. Zaſtrow at Amonebourg on the 21ſt ult. we hear that the Marquis of Granby's corps (which conſiſted of 3 battalions of guards, two of Britiſh Grenadiers, and two of Highlanders) was about three miles diſtant; that his Lordſhip being ill in bed, it was marched immediately by Gen. Waldgrave to the ſupport of M. Zaſtrow. However, the great magnanimity of the Marquis not ſuffering him to ſtay behind, he immediately got up, dreſſed, and joined his corps juſt before it came up with the enemy. We have the pleaſure to add, that Lord Granby is not worſe in health ſince the action.

They write from Cork, that they had received an account by his Majeſty's ſhip Blaſt, Capt. Hay, arrived at Kinſale from Belleiſle, that a conſpiracy was formed to betray that iſland to the French the 12th ult. but was found out the day before; a Prieſt, ſome of the French inhabitants, and about 20 Engliſh ſoldiers, were the principals; which was diſcovered by one of the latter. Their plan was to ſpike down a battery of 12 guns, that defends a bay a little to the eaſt of the citadel, a good landing-place, where a large body of French troops, ready on the main to ſail as ſoon as the ſignal agreed on was given, were to diſembark. When the ſhip failed from Belleiſle the trials of thoſe traitors were begun. Since this diſcovery, the Governor had ordered that none of the boats ſhould fiſh.

Admiralty-Office, Oct. 1. Capt. Adams, of his Majeſty's ſhip the Diana, gives an account in his letter of the 29th paſt, dated in Yarmouth Roads, that the day before, the North Foreland bearing W. by N. diſtant 8 leagues, he ſaw a ſail in the N. E. to which he gave chace, and at half paſt 6 came up with, and took her. She proves to be a French ſnow privateer, called the Count de Flandre, belonging to Dunkirk, of 10 carriage guns, and 70 men, commanded by Simon Hermuite of that port, and had taken nothing ſince ſhe came from thence.

Admiralty-Office, October 6. His Majeſty's ſhip Venus, commanded by Capt. Harriſon, and Lark, Capt. Shirley, being on a cruize, gave chace to a ſail on the 23d paſt, in the latitude 49 : 2, the Ram Head Eaſt by North 130 leagues; and in 12 hours the Venus came up with her, when ſhe ſtruck, and proved to be the Galgo, a Spaniſh privateer, of 14 guns, but pierced for 18, with 136 men.

St. James's, Oct. 1. This day the following Addreſs was preſented to his Majeſty, and read by Dr. Fothergill, accompanied by a Deputation from the People called Quakers, introduced by the Lord of his Majeſty's Bed-Chamber in waiting.

To GEORGE the Third, King of Great-Britain, and the Dominions thereunto belonging,

The humble ADDRESS of his Proteſtant Subjects, the People called QUAKERS.

May it pleaſe the KING,

THE ſatisfaction we feel in every event that adds to the happineſs of our Sovereign, prompts us to requeſt admittance to the throne, on the preſent intereſting occaſion.

The birth of a Prince, the ſafety of the Queen, and thy own domeſtic felicity increaſed, call for our thankfulneſs to the ſupreme Diſpenſer of every bleſſing; and to the King our dutiful and unfeigned congratulations.

In the Prince of Wales we behold another pledge of the ſecurity of thoſe ineſtimable privileges, which we have enjoyed under the monarchs of thy illuſtrious houſe: Kings, diſtinguiſhed by their juſtice, their clemency, and regard to the proſperity of their people: A happy preſage, that under their deſcendants, our civil and religious liberties will devolve, in their full extent, to ſucceeding generations.

Long may the Divine Providence preſerve a life of ſo great importance to his royal parents, to theſe kingdoms, and to poſterity; that, formed to piety and virtue, he may live beloved of God and man, and fill at length the Britiſh throne with a luſtre not inferior to his predeceſſors.

Signed on behalf of the ſaid people in London, the 13th of the Ninth month, 1762.

To which Addreſs his MAJESTY was pleaſed to return the following moſt gracious anſwer.

I TAKE very kindly this freſh inſtance of your duty and affection, and your congratulations on an event ſo intereſting to me and my family. You may always rely on my protection.

St. James's, October 4. This Day the Right Hon. the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons, of the City of London, in Common Council aſſembled, waited on His Majeſty, and being introduced to His Majeſty by the Right Hon. William Finch, Eſq; Vice-Chamberlain, made their Compliments in the following Addreſs, which was ſpoken by Sir William Moreton, Knight, the Recorder.

Moſt Gracious SOVEREIGN,

WE Your Majeſty's ever dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons, of Your City of London, in Common Council aſſembled, humbly beg Leave to congratulate Your Majeſty upon the late ſignal Succeſs with which it has pleaſed the Almighty to bleſs Your Majeſty's Arms, in the Reduction of the Havannah and its Dependencies (moſt properly ſtiled the Key of the Spaniſh Weſt-Indies, and long deemed impregnable) under a Capitulation that does Honour to the Spirit and Humanity of the Britiſh Nation.

It is with the higheſt Pleaſure we reflect upon the Value and Importance of this Conqueſt, attended with the Acquiſition of immenſe Riches, and an irreparable Blow to the Trade and Naval Power of Spain. A Conqueſt, that gives additional Luſtre to an already glorious and ſucceſsful War; and which cannot but ſtrike Terror into an Enemy, not only unprovoked, but inſenſible to the repeated Inſtances of Your Majeſty's Good-will, Friendſhip, and Moderation; and convince him, that there is no Attempt, how arduous ſoever, but what, planned and directed by the Wiſdom of Your Majeſty's Councils, may, under the Divine Providence, be effected by the Harmony, Activity, and Abilities of ſuch Commanders, and the Valour, Zeal, and Emulation of Your Fleets and Armies, regardleſs of any Fatigues or Dangers, wherever the Glory of their King and Country is concerned.

May the Poſſeſſion of this very valuable Conqueſt, together with other happy Conſequences of Your Majeſty's Meaſures, thus wiſely and vigorouſly purſued, prove the Means of effectually defeating the ambitious Views of Your Majeſty's Enemies, and of for ever diſſolving the late alarming Compact of the Houſe of Bourbon, calculated to deſtroy the Commerce of Your Subjects, and replete with Danger to the Exiſtence of Your Majeſty's ancient and natural Ally, and to the Independance of the Reſt of the Powers of Europe.

And we beg Leave humbly to aſſure Your Majeſty, that Your faithful Citizens of London, animated by the warmeſt Senſe of Duty to Your Majeſty, and their Country, will, with unwearied Chearfulneſs, contribute their utmoſt Efforts to ſtrengthen Your Majeſty's Hands, until Your Enemies, moved by their own repeated Loſſes and Diſtreſſes, ſhall be diſpoſed to liſten to ſuch Terms of Accommodation, as Your Royal Wiſdom ſhall think adequate to our glorious Succeſſes; and ſuch as may effectually ſecure the Trade and Navigation of Your Subjects; and prevent the Calamities of a future War.

To which ADDRESS His MAJESTY was pleaſed to return the following moſt gracious ANSWER.

I Return you My cordial Thanks for this very dutiful and loyal Addreſs, and for the continued Proofs you give Me of your Attachment to My Perſon and Government.

The able Conduct, unwearied Activity, and exemplary Harmony, of My Commanders by Sea and Land, and the intrepid Valour of My Fleets and Armies, have never been more Conſpicuous than on the preſent Occaſion, and have acquired additional Glory to the Britiſh Arms.

The ſteady Affections of my People, and their Zeal for the Honour of my Crown, will, I truſt, under the bleſſing of God, enable Me to terminate this juſt War by an equitable, glorious, and laſting Peace.

The Proſperity of the City of London, and the extenſive Trade and Navigation of My faithful Subjects, are, and ever will be, the conſtant Objects of My unwearied Care and Attention."

They were all received very graciouſly, and had the Honour to kiſs His Majeſty's Hand.

His Majeſty was pleaſed to confer the Honour of Knighthood on Thomas Challener and Henry Bankes, Eſqrs. Sheriffs of the City of London.

Oct. 7. Monday evening, after the city's Addreſs was preſented, a Council, it is ſaid, was held at St. James's, and an expreſs ſent to the Duke of Bedford with new inſtructions on account of our ſucceſs at the Havannah, and the ſenſe of the nation thereon.

When the letters came away from Plymouth, his Majeſty's frigate Venus, Captain Harriſon, had juſt brought into that port a French privateer of 16 guns, and 120 men. She had taken the Southampton, Pearſon, from Senegal for London, with 80 tons of gum on board, which, if the weather had permitted, would have been loaded on board the privateer. This is the third privateer taken by the Venus during this cruize.

The Rev. Mr. WHITEFIELD came to town on Monday laſt and preached at the Tabernacle, and we hear preaches this evening at his chapel in Tottenham Court Road.

October 8. The loſs of ſo many Britiſh officers in Germany on the 21ſt paſt, is greatly to be regretted, eſpecially as ſo much blood was ſhed on ſo trifling an affair.----How different are the fortunes of men under the diſpenſation of Providence; we ſee one eſcape through a thouſand military perils, enriched by his valour, honoured by his King, and beloved by his country; yet his brother periſhes in his firſt attempt againſt the enemy.

A ſerjeant in the Allied Army, in a letter to his friend in London, dated the 24th paſt, ſays, that in the late engagement the French, according to their uſual treacherous cuſtom, fired combuſtible matter at our troops, to ſet fire to their cloaths, which had its deſired effect on many.

The laſt letters from Peterſburgh ſay, that all the foreign miniſters there, who had received freſh credentials ſince the revolution, had been admitted to an audience of the Empreſs, the French miniſter alone excepted.

October 9. An officer who was in the action near Amonebourg, in his letter dated the 25th of September, ſays, " We now lie on the ground in camp oppoſite the paſs, and the French on the other ſide the river. We have made very ſtrong batteries, and they have done the ſame. God knows what will be the end of it, but no conſiderable advantage has been gained on either ſide, tho' there has been ſo great an effuſion of blood. We lay in the battery with the dead all night."

Some letters from Paris, by the way of Holland, ſpeak of a peace (which a week or two ago was looked upon as good as concluded) as meeting with ſo many obſtacles, that they were not now able to gueſs when the preliminaries would be ſigned.

The Dutch politicians differ greatly in their conjectures about the negotiation on foot between France and England. Some of them look upon the whole as a meer farce of the French and Spaniards, in order to gain time, and wonder that the Duke of Bedford is not already returned.

By our freſheſt advices from Portugal, the Spaniards are bringing all their forces into the field, in order to make a grand puſh againſt the Engliſh and Portugueſe, on which account they have drawn all their troops out of Chaves, as alſo the garriſon of 6000 men out of Almeida.

Letters from Oporto ſay, it is very much feared that place will fall before the end of the month.

It is ſaid that in the late action near Amonebourg, the French engineers fired off large bags filled with gunpowder, and other combuſtibles, in order to ſet fire to our ſoldiers cloaths, and thereby throw them into confuſion; but though theſe bags had their intended effect on many, yet ſuch was the ſteadineſs of the Britiſh ſoldiers, that they ſtood it without flinching, or betraying the leaſt ſigns of diſorder. Perhaps our enemies took the hint from what they ſuffered themſelves, during the ſiege of Liſle, in Queen Ann's wars. The town being in great want of powder, the French generals, who lay near with their army, ordered a party of horſe, with fifty pounds weight each of gunpowder, tied in a bag behind them, to break through our troops, and force their way into the place; this a few of them did, but the powder behind the reſt taking fire, they were for the moſt part blown up, and thus periſhed miſerably by their own devices.

By advices in town it is certain, that our negociations with the miniſters of France and Spain, is delayed, partly on account of the latter's demanding a reſtitution of the iſland of Cuba, which our court is determined not to agree to, without an equivalent ſatisfaction to defray the expences of the war, into which they fooliſhly hurried themſelves, through the chicanery of France.

A certain officer has offered a bett of 500l. that there is no peace within 12 months from this day, to 100 guineas. He is a gentleman of great abilities, and well acquainted with affairs.

Extract of a letter from Liſbon, dated the 18th ult.

" Laſt week came down priſoner Count de Lippe's linguiſt, a Portugueſe, for carrying on a correſpondence with the Spaniards, and informing them of every proceeding of our army, and deceiving the Count in reading letters that he received from the Portugueſe governors, officers, &c. By which the Count, and a number of troops, had near fallen into an ambuſcade, and been cut off.

The news of a battle in Portugal is every day expected. On this action will depend whether there is to be a peace or war, as in all probability it will prove nearly deciſive in its conſequences.

By a gentleman that arrived within this day or two from Spain, we are informed, that the Spaniards expreſſed great uneaſineſs at being drawn into a war on account of France; that they expreſſed great uneaſineſs at our expedition againſt the Havannah; and he verily believes, that when they come to be informed of the loſs of that important place, they will not ſuffer a Frenchman to be in Spain.

Extract of a letter from Lieut. Rich, to his father the late Sir
William Rich, Bart. dated Sept. 28, 1762, at ſea.

HON. SIR,

" I have the pleaſure to acquaint you, that I am on board my old ſhip the Torbay, Capt. Brett, brother to Sir Piercy. We are now at ſea, expecting the enemy from Newfoundland. We have taken a frigate richly freighted for that place, with two millions of livres to pay the army, and for other uſes."

The laſt letters received from France, by the Way of Holland, inform us, that what ſtopt the negociation was, that when the Duke of Bedford propoſed a ceſſation of arms in Portugal, under the guaranty of France, the Marquis de Grimaldi declared, that though he was charged with full powers, he could not agree to that propoſal without further inſtructions from his court. The return of the courier he had diſpatched for them was impatiently expected.

October 12. Tranſports are preparing to receive ſome horſe and foot forces on board, deſigned to reinforce the Britiſh army in Portugal; and we are aſſured ſome other tranſports will ſoon be contracted for, to carry ſome troops to the coaſt of Spain, where a deſcent is intended to be made as ſoon as poſſible, by way of a diverſion in favour of Portugal.

Letters from the Allied army adviſe, that the French garriſon in Caſſel is reduced to the neceſſity of eating a kind of bread made half of oats and half of rye, and that they are almoſt without proviſions of any kind; ſo that the place muſt ſoon ſurrender.

Excluſive of the great advantage ariſing to this nation from the conqueſt of the Havannah, as the key to the Weſt-Indies, the number of capital ſhips in that harbour, equals (within one) the number that was taken, loſt, or deſtroyed, during the whole of laſt war, which amounted to no more than 15, from 60 to 74 guns, ſix of which were deſtroyed at Carthagena, five taken in ſeparate engagements, two loſt in the Weſt-Indies, and two in purſuit of Admiral Anſon's ſquadron to the South Seas; the Hermione may be ſet againſt the South Sea expedition; and the ſmall men of war taken in going to the Havannah, and the merchant ſhips and treaſure taken in that harbour, more than equal all the ſmaller veſſels and captures during that tedious war of nine years continuance.

This morning an expreſs arrived at the Admiralty, with the agreeable news of the retaking the iſland of Newfoundland from the French.

The laſt letters from Paris mention only the impatience of the public for the return of Grimaldi's courier from Madrid, and their ardent longing for the concluſion of a peace.

From Berlin we learn, that the Britiſh court having again ſignified to the King of Pruſſia, that it would give them the higheſt ſatisfaction to learn that he had accompliſhed his differences with the Empreſs Queen; his Majeſty hath written a letter with his own hand to the King of Great-Britain, in which he mentions, among other things, that he was reſolved not to ſheathe his ſword whilſt the Empreſs Queen refuſed to accept of the offers that had been made her, which ſhe might one day repent: That he hoped not only to drive the Auſtrians out of Sileſia, when he ſhould once be maſter of Schweidnitz, but alſo to winter a great part of his army in Bohemia, and on the frontiers of that kingdom; and that he was determined to keep the field till he ſhould have accompliſhed his deſigns.

Theſe letters further add, that the magnificent preſents which the King of Pruſſia received laſt month from Ruſſia, were not intended for him by the late Emperor Peter III. as hath been ſaid in ſome foreign gazettes; but came from the preſent Empreſs, who at the ſame time aſſured his Majeſty, that if ſhe could not, by her good offices, prevail with the Empreſs Queen to liſten to reaſonable terms of peace, and reſtore tranquillity to Germany, a body of between 40 and 45000 Ruſſians ſhould next campaign join his Pruſſian Majeſty, in order to compel her to it by force.

They write from Prague, that the Auſtrians are raiſing recruits and buying up horſes in the Hereditary countries, with as great diligence as at any time ſince the war began. Theſe letters add, that Marſhal Daun was to detach a body of forces to Torgau, with a view to oblige the King of Pruſſia to divide his troops.

WILLIAMSBURGH, Nov. 26.

Laſt Sunday evening the following barbarous, and unheard of piece of cruelty, was perpatrated at Portſmouth, by a Number of ſailors, moſt of them belonging to his Majeſty's ſhip Arundel, now lying there; a tranſport ſhip from the Havannah, having on board a conſiderable number of Spaniſh ſoldiers and ſailors, among whom was the ſecond in command of the ſea ſervice, with his family, and ſeveral other officers of diſtinction, put into Hampton road to refit, having ſprung a leak at ſea. Accordingly the Spaniards were allowed to go on ſhore, until ſuch time as the veſſel got ready to proceed on her voyage, and they have behaved extremely well ſince their arrival; but a quarrel happening between ſome of the man of war's men, and ſome of the Spaniſh ſoldiers or ſailors, the former called in others to their aſſiſtance, and they at laſt got together in a large body, drove the Spaniards to the houſe where they lodged, and not ſatisfied with this fired in upon the poor people, killed one, and wounded ſeveral others, one of whom is ſince dead. They alſo burſt into the commandant's houſe, beat himſelf and one of the captains ſeverely, and all his domeſticks, excepting two, who hid themſelves, are much wounded; they alſo plundered and robbed the houſe of money, and ſeveral other things of conſiderable value. They likewiſe ſet fire to the houſe in which the people had locked themſelves; and ſome of them actually went for powder to blow them up, but happily the extent of their fury was not accompliſhed; their rage, however, would have been attended with ſtill more horrid and fatal conſequences, if capt. Manwarring, hearing of it, had not come and diſperſed his people, on which many others that were concerned went off alſo. The gentlemen in Portſmouth did every thing in their power to quiet the riot, but in vain; and one gentleman in particular, at the hazard of his own life, reſcued a lady and two gentlemen from the hands of the barbarians. As ſoon as the alarm was given at Norfolk, the militia was immediately ordered over to Portſmouth, who diſcovered the greateſt alacrity in aſſiſting theſe unhappy people. Some of the rioters have been taken up and committed to goal, and the utmoſt diligence is uſed in apprehending all concerned in this ſcandalous affair. The commandant, Don Pedro, has been very bad of his wounds; but it is thought will recover; however, this affair has put him and his family into ſuch a conſternation, that they have removed to Norfolk, where every body ſeem pleaſed with their agreeable and polite behaviour, and do every thing in their power to make their reſidence agreeable. The principal view of the ſeamen, in this villainous tranſaction, ſeems to have been nothing more than plundering the Spaniards, who, they underſtood, had a good deal of money with them; however, it is to be hoped, the ringleaders will be found out, and made examples of.

NEW-YORK, December 9.

We hear from Boſton, that a Boy on the 21ſt ult. had fallen into the Water, and remained under Water above a Quarter of an Hour, and being ſtiff, and ſeemingly dead, was, upon being conſtantly rubbed with fine Salt, and wrapped in warm Blankets, and by the Injection of a Cliſter, brought to Life, and perfectly recovered.

Laſt Week arrived his Majeſty's Ship Intrepid, Capt. Hale, in 40 Days from the Havannah. He left that Place Convoy to about 30 Sail of Tranſports, moſt of which are arrived at the ſeveral Ports they were bound to. The Ship Duke, Captain Sparrow, foundered at Sea, but the Men were taken out by Capt. Hale.

By a Veſſel arrived at Martha's Vineyard, from the Havannah, we have Advice, That the Biſhop of Cuba, and ſome other of the principal Spaniards, under his Influence and Direction, had formed a horrid Conſpiracy, which was to be executed immediately after the Admiral's Sailing. The Biſhop had collected a great Number of Men (ſome ſay ſeveral Thouſands) in a remote Place, a conſiderable Diſtance from the City, and upwards of 3000 Stand of Arms, and near 5000 Spadoes, in one of their Churches; and as ſoon as the Admiral and General were ſailed, a general Maſſacre was to be made of all the Engliſh in the Place; but the Earl of Albermarle being informed of it, in a polite Manner ſent an Aid de Camp, with a Chariot, to wait on the Biſhop, deſiring to ſpeak with him; but he in a very inſolent Manner diſregarded the Summons; on which his Lordſhip ordered the Chariot back, with a Number of Soldiers, who brought the Biſhop to the City, and after a full Examination, the Facts appearing evidently againſt him, he was conducted on board the Namure, ſome Accounts ſay in Irons, and failed for England with the Admiral.

This Day is publiſhed, and ſold by ANDREW STEUART, at the Bible-in-Heart, in Second-ſtreet, Philadelphia,

A Narrative of the unhappy Life and miſerable End of SAMUEL STODDARD, late of Egg Harbour, in the County of Burlington, and Province of Weſt New-Jerſey; who was tried at a Supreme-Court, held at Burlington aforeſaid, on Saturday, the Sixth of November, 1762, for the barbarous, cruel and inhuman Murder of Jacob Gale, late of Egg-Harbour aforeſaid; of which Crime he was found guilty, and, according to Sentence, was executed at the City of Burlington, on Tueſday, the 23d of the ſame Month.

¶ This Narrative, which is written with his own Hand, lays before you a Series of unheard-of Villainies, and moſt attrocious Crimes:-- It appears, by his own Confeſſion, that he was a crafty, ſubtle Fellow, and carried on his ſinful Practices by Art and Diſſimulation, eſpecially with the Women.

Together with a moſt ſurprizing Dream or Vision, which he had about 18 Months before his Death. And his laſt Speech and dying Words, which he ſpoke to the People, and delivered to the Sheriff, in his laſt Moments. To the whole is added, an Account of his Trial, before the Hon. Robert H. Morris, Eſq; Chief Juſtice of the ſaid Province.

FOUR DOLLARS Reward.

NEW-YORK, November 13.

Extract of a Letter from an Officer at the Havannah.

"So many whizzing Meſſengers of Deſtruction have terrified my Ears in ſome of our Attacks, that the greateſt Uſurer you have, had he known the Danger I ſtood in, would have been unwilling to have given ſix Hours Purchaſe for my Life in an Annuity. When (at laſt) the Spaniards were ſo terribly troubled with the Falling Sickneſs, that not one Man in five was able to keep on his Legs four Minutes at our advancing, Death, like an ill-natured Fellow, having made the Ground ſo ſlippery; and Providence afforded us nothing but the Scent of Sweat, Blood, and Gun-powder to refreſh our Noſtrils with. In ſo dangerous a Situation, it was very ſurpriſing to obſerve the Courage of our brave Fellows in this hot Work; for in every Attempt, though never ſo difficult, their Reſolution and Bravery ſtill procured them Succeſs. I was very much ſurpriſed at the Hardineſs of one Fellow in the 72d Regiment, who was very near Col. K-----, and had his left Arm taken off by a Cannon Ball from the Moro Caſtle, upon which he muttered out theſe Words: "What an unfortunate Son of a Whore was I, to put my Tobacco-box in my left Pocket, that now I cannot come at it eaſily with my Right-hand, to refreſh myſelf with a Chew."

Containing the Freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtic.

PHILADELPHIA, ſſ.

THE Twenty-ſeventh Day of November, Anno Domini 1762, before me WILLIAM PETERS, Eſq; one of His Majeſty's Juſtices, aſſigned to keep the Peace of the City and County of Philadelphia, perſonally appeared Captain John M'Pherſon; and being duly ſworn, on the holy Evangeliſts of Almighty God, did declare and depoſe, That he, this Deponent, being ſome Time paſt Commander of the Private Ship of War called the Britannia, did take, and bring into the Port of Philadelphia, to be condemned as Prizes, two certain Sloops, one called the Harlem, commanded by Louis Duprat; and the other called the Queen of Bohemia, or Queen Abigail, commanded by Jean Baptiſta La Tore; which Sloops, being libelled in the Court of Vice Admiralty of the Province of Pennſylvania, with their Cargoes, &c. the ſaid Sloop Harlem, with her Cargoe, was, by the Decree of the ſaid Court, adjudged to this Appearer, and the Owners, Officers and Mariners of the ſaid Ship Britannia, as lawful Prize; from which Decree the ſaid Louis Duprat did appeal: And the ſaid Sloop, called the Queen Abigail, or Queen of Bohemia, with her Cargoe, was, by the Decree of the ſaid Court, adjudged to be reſtored to the Claimants; from which Decree he, this Appearer, did appeal; and the ſaid two Sloops, and their reſpective Cargoes, were afterwards, by Virtue of a ſubſequent Decree or Order of the ſaid Court, ſold by the Marſhal thereof. And this Deponent doth declare, that he hath been informed, that after the Sale of the ſaid two Sloops, and their reſpective Cargoes, the ſaid Captain Louis Duprat did produce to the Deputy Regiſter of the ſaid Court of Vice Admiralty a Liſt of ſundry Goods and Effects, of conſiderable Value, which the ſaid Louis Duprat did, on his Oath (taken by the ſaid Deputy Regiſter) declare were on board the ſaid Sloop Harlem, when taken by the ſaid Privateer Ship Britannia, and were not accounted for by the Marſhal of the ſaid Court, in the Account of Sales of the ſaid Sloop and her Cargoe; but were, as the ſaid Duprat did ſuppoſe, embezzled by ſome of the Officers and Crew of the ſaid Ship Britannia, or to that Effect: And that therein was mentioned a Sum of Money, ſaid to be taken from the Carpenter of the ſaid Sloop Harlem, by this Deponent: And that he hath alſo been informed, that the ſaid Jean Baptiſta de la Tore did alſo produce to the ſaid Deputy Regiſter a Liſt of ſundry Goods and Effects, of conſiderable Value, which the ſaid Jean Baptiſta de la Tore did, on his Oath (taken before the ſaid Deputy Regiſter) declare were on board the ſaid Sloop Queen Abigail, otherwiſe Queen of Bohemia, at the Time of her Capture, and were not accounted for by the Marſhal of the ſaid Court, in his Account of the Sales of the ſaid laſt mentioned Sloop and her Cargoe; but were, as the ſaid de la Tore did ſuppoſe, embezzled by ſome of the Officers and Crew of the ſaid Private Ship Britannia: And that this Appearer being informed that Mr. John Relfe, of the City of Philadelphia, Merchant, had ſhewn the ſaid two ſeveral Liſts unto divers Gentlemen, Inhabitants of this City, which this Deponent apprehended might be of Prejudice to his Character, he applied to the ſaid Deputy Regiſter, to procure Copies of the ſaid Liſts and Depoſitions; and at the ſame enquired why he had taken thoſe Depoſitions, without Notice to this Appearer; and deſired to be furniſhed with Copies of the ſaid Liſts and Depoſitions, that he might know what was the Charge therein contained, to enable him to anſwer the ſame: That the Deputy Regiſter anſwered, that he was applied to by Mr. John Relfe to take the ſaid Depoſitions, but had declined doing it at firſt, and deſired Mr. Relfe to apply to the Judge: That the ſaid Mr. Relfe afterwards informed him, the ſaid Deputy Regiſter, that he had applied to the Judge, who would not take the Depoſitions, but ſaid they muſt be taken before the ſaid Deputy Regiſter, or to that Effect; and that thereupon he, the ſaid Deputy Regiſter, did take the ſaid Depoſitions, without Notice to this Appearer, as the former Depoſitions, during the Suit in the ſaid Court, were always taken ex Parte: That he, the ſaid Deputy Regiſter, expected thoſe Depoſitions would be laid before the Judge, who would order Copies to him, this Deponent, if applied for, as the ſaid Mr. Relfe ſuggeſted that he would proceed on them, againſt the ſaid Appearer, in the Vice Admiralty Court; and that therefore he, the ſaid Deputy Regiſter, had permitted the ſaid Mr. Relfe to take the ſaid Depoſitions and Liſts away, and that he had not kept Copies of them: That this Appearer deſired the ſaid Deputy Regiſter to obtain him Copies, that he might be enabled, by knowing the Particulars charged, to vindicate himſelf, and the Officers and Crew of the ſaid Privateer; at the ſame Time complaining of the Injuſtice of being charged with Facts ſecretly, without an Opportunity of defending himſelf, and that it was like ſtabbing a Man in the Dark: And that afterwards the ſaid Deputy Regiſter acquainted this Deponent, that he had applied to Mr. Relfe for Copies of the ſaid Depoſitions, which the ſaid Mr. Relfe would not give: That this Deponent afterwards applied to Mr. Shippen, Judge of the Court of Vice Admiralty, for Copies of the Depoſitions and Liſts, who told this Deponent that he had them not; that Mr. Relfe had applied to him, the ſaid Judge, about taking the Depoſitions; that he refuſed, and ſaid he would have nothing to do with taking Depoſitions in a Matter not before him; by which this Deponent concludes, that the Judge gave no Orders to have them taken, as the ſaid Mr. Relfe did inſinuate to the Deputy Regiſter. And this Appearer doth further declare, that he knoweth not that any Goods, Merchandize, Effects or Money, which were, or was on board the ſaid Sloop Harlem, and Queen of Bohemia, otherwiſe Queen Abigail, or either of them, when taken, was embezzled or taken away, and converted to their private Uſe, by himſelf, or any of his Officers or Crew of the ſaid Privateer Ship Britannia, ſave and except that the Proviſions on board the ſaid Sloops, from the Time of their Capture to their Arrival in this Port, were expended by the Prize Maſters of the Britannia's People that navigated them, and ſuch of their own Crew as remained on board; and that the People on board the Sloop Queen of Bohemia having Yams inſtead of Bread, ſome of the Yams were taken on board the Britannia, and a much greater Quantity of Bread reſtored in its Stead: That an Anchor and Part of a Cable was loſt in Delaware River, by a Veſſel running foul of the Harlem while riding there, and while Captain Duprat was on board: That two Muſkets, belonging to the ſaid Prizes, were given to two of the Privateer's Crew, being the accuſtomary Reward as firſt Deſcryers of the Prizes: That a French Carpenter of one of the Sloops delivered, as this Deponent hath been told, his Carpenters Tools to the Carpenter of the Britannia, as Plunder belonging to him: And that ſome Money was taken from the Carpenter of the Harlem, which was delivered to this Appearer's Clerk, Thomas Smith, on a Debate ariſing among ſome of the Crew concerning the Diviſion of it; but this Appearer knoweth not how it hath been ſince diſpoſed of, the ſaid Clerk being at preſent at Sea, nor can tell what was the Sum, but believes it about fifteen or ſixteen Dollars; but he avers, that no Money, or other Effects whatever, was taken by himſelf, or by his Orders, or by him received from on board either of the ſaid Sloops, or from any Perſon belonging to the ſame; neither did he know of the taking of the abovementioned Money, until many Days after the ſame had been taken.

JOHN M'PHERSON.

And alſo before the taking the above Depoſition the Deponent, M'Pherſon, further excepted two Spy-glaſſes, and a ſmall Looking-glaſs, which by his Order were taken out of the Sloop Harlem, and afterwards delivered to Mr. Mitchell, Marſhal.

Sworn and taken before me,
WILLIAM PETERS, Juſtice, &c.

ON the ſaid 27th of November, 1762, before me, the abovenamed WILLIAM PETERS, Juſtice and Notary, alſo appeared William Price, late Firſt Lieutenant, and Solomon Wilſon, late Maſter of the Privateer Ship, called the Britannia, in her late Cruiſe abovementioned, and ſeverally made Oath on the Holy Evangeliſts, that they have now heard the above Depoſition of their late Captain, John M'Pherſon, read, and poſitively declare and aver (each for himſelf) that they know not, nor believe, that any Goods, Merchandizes, Effects or Money, or other Thing whatſoever, taken or found on board the ſaid Sloops, or either of them, were or was embezzled or taken away by, or converted to the private Uſe of, the ſaid Captain M'Pherſon, theſe Deponents, or any other of the Crew belonging to the ſaid Ship Britannia, ſave and except, as the ſaid Captain M'Pherſon hath above declared and ſet forth; and particularly, theſe Deponents further ſay, that what the ſaid Captain M'Pherſon hath above declared, concerning the Money taken from the Carpenter of the Sloop Harlem, they know to be true.

Taken and Sworn

THE two preceding Affidavits were peruſed by Meſſieurs Alexander Lunan, John Malcom, and Charles Pettit, Owners of the Britannia Privateer, and why they did not communicate the ſame to Capt. M'Pherſon, is beſt known to themſelves; but it is very certain they muſt operate in Favour of the Dutch Captains, as appears by the Act of George the Second, 1758, viz. "If any Perſon or Perſons ſhall purloin or embezzle any Goods, "Merchandize, Furniture or Apparel, before Condemnation there-"of, every ſuch Perſon ſhall be ſubject to ſuch Pains and Forfei-"tures as are inflicted by Law upon Perſons purloining or em-"bezzling Goods out of any captur'd Ship."

JOHN RELFE.

BOSTON, December 6.

On Monday Evening laſt departed this Life, after a ſlow and hectic Diſorder, having juſt entered the 61ſt Year of his Age, Mr. JOHN DRAPER, Printer to his Excellency the Governor, and the Honourable his Majeſty's Council of this Province; and who for a great Number of Years was Publiſher of The Boſton News-Letter. By his Induſtry, Fidelity, and Prudence in his Buſineſs, he rendered himſelf very agreeable to the Public---His Charity and Benevolence; his pleaſant and ſociable Turn of Mind; his tender Affection as a Huſband and Parent; his Piety and Devotion to his MAKER, has made his Death as ſenſibly felt by his Friends and Relations, as his Life is worthy Imitation.----His Remains were decently interred laſt Friday Afternoon.

NEW-YORK, December 16.

IT being ſtipulated by the 7th Article of Capitulation, that no Promotions ſhould be made in the Church without the Approbation and Conſent of the Governor, his Excellency the Earl of Albermarle, having on ſeveral Occaſions demanded of the Biſhop a Liſt of the Eccleſiaſticks in his Dioceſe, in order that his Excellency might be able to judge of the Merits of ſuch Perſons as ſhould be recommended for Preferment.

And whereas the Biſhop, in a very diſreſpectful Manner, having always denied complying with his Excellency's Demand, and in a Letter of the 2d of this Month, not only abſolutely refuſed to ſend the Liſt demanded, but threatened, in a very unlawful and imperious Manner, that he would complain to the Courts of Great-Britain and Spain of the irregular Demand, as a Breach of the Capitulation; and made Mention in ſaid Letter of the reſpective Courts and Sovereigns in a very ſeditious Mannner, forgetting not only his being Subject to Great-Britain, and conſidering himſelf a Subject of his Catholic Majeſty, notwithſtanding the Capitulation.

Wherefore his Excellency the Earl of Albemarle thinks it abſolutely neceſſary to move the Biſhop from this Iſland, and ſend him to Florida, in one of his Majeſty's Ships of War, in order that the Tranquility of this City may be preſerved, and that Harmony and good Underſtanding may be preſerved between his Majeſty's Old and New Subjects, which the Biſhop, in ſuch a flagrant Manner, has endeavoured to interrupt.

His Excellency, with great Regret, finds himſelf obliged to make Uſe of his Authority, and the Power with which he is inveſted, not only by the Conqueſt, but alſo by the 11th Article of the Capitulation. But notwithſtanding ſuch irregular Proceedings of the Biſhop, his Excellency is determined to continue to protect the Church, and preſerve its Members in all their Rights and Privileges, as ſtipulated by the Articles of Capitulation, altho' thoſe have not been ſtrictly complied with on the Part of ſome of the Magiſtrates within the Diſtrict and Juriſdiction of the City of the Havannah. Signed, ALBEMARLE.

Havannah, By Order of his Excellency,
November 3, 1762. Signed, J. HALE, Secretary.

Extract of a Letter from Capt. Chriſtopher Sinnot, Commander of the Privateer Brig General Monckton, of this Port, dated at Sea, off Cape Nichola, November 6, 1762.

"I take this Opportunity by Capt. M'Alpine, of Philadelphia, to inform you of my taking, in Company with the Mars, of New-York, and Capt. Tucker, of St. Kitts, a French Snow, richly laden; likewiſe in Company with Oman and Wright, of New-York, and Kemp, Dean and Kennedy, of Providence, one Snow, and one Brig, of the ſame Fleet, being 23 Sail in all, Dutch and French, and ſhould have made a great Cruize, had not Commodore Keppel's Squadron hove in Sight, and having no Signal, left the Fleet, although we could have taken a Ship and a Brig in 2 Hours more Chace. The Men of War took 8 Sail of French, and one Dutch Veſſel: I am in hopes the Snow is arrived before this; if ſhe ſhould not, I would not have any of the Gentlemen concerned be uneaſy about her, as Capt. Tucker, the Brig concerned, fell aboard her, and carried away her Boltſprit, which may occaſion him to go into ſome Port to refit; but he has been ſpoke with ſome Days ago, with a good Jury Boltſprit, and well fitted. Mr. Willdridge is on board her, ſo that I am quite contented, as I am well aſſured he knows well what to do with her; the other two are gone to Providence, their Spars being not ſufficient to go to the Northward. We have an Account of 50 Sail of Veſſels from Bourdeaux, two of the Fleet being already taken, ſo that I hope ſoon to ſend you ſome good Claret. I am inſtantly going off the Cape, where I am determined to lay for ſome of them, as moſt of the Fleet is bound there."

TO be ſold by publick Vendue, on the 27th of December, at the London Coffee-Houſe, at Six o'Clock in the Evening, Two Lots of Land, containing 40 Acres, be the ſame more or leſs; lying on the great Road leading from Philadelphia to Martin's Mill, near Oxford Church, about 7 Miles from Philadelphia, the greateſt Part well-timbered, the reſt cleared, being a very convenient Situation for a Gentleman's Country Seat. Any Perſon inclining to purchaſe before the Day of Sale, may apply to Jacob Duffield, in Buſſeltown, or to Thomas Gregory, at the Horſe and Groom, in Strawberry Alley, Philadelphia.

N. B. Said Gregory has a likely Negroe Boy, about 17 Years of Age, to ſell, fit for Country Buſineſs. ¶

VIENNA, September 18.

THE chief engineer at Schweidnitz is one Criboval, a Frenchman. The King of Pruſſia hath committed the direction of the ſiege to one Le Febre, another Frenchman, who hath long carried on a paper war with Criboval, on the attack and defence of fortreſſes. They are now ſtriving to confirm their theories by practice.

Madrid, Sept. 7. We this moment received advice, that a diviſion of Spaniards, and all the auxiliary troops of France, are in full march towards Oporto. The reſt of the troops, who were employed in the ſiege of Almeida, are marching towards Abrantes, with full orders to give battle to the Portugueſe.

Celorico, an advantageous poſt, near Frejeda, has been abandoned by the enemy.

Warſaw, Sept. 9. His Poliſh Majeſty has oppoſed to the Letter written him by the Empreſs Catherine the Second, dated the 3d of Auguſt, relative to Duke John Erneſt Biron, an Anſwer, dated the 3d Inſtant, in which he expoſtulates, in the moſt pathetic and reſpectful Terms, on the Hardſhip of depriving his Son of the Dutchy of Courland; and inſiſts that the late Duke John ſhould be delivered up to him, and the Republic, as his ſole lawful Sovereigns and Judges, beſeeching her at the ſame Time, to change her meaſures, and to return to the ſentiments of her predeceſſors upon this ſubject.

To this Anſwer is annexed a memorial, in the name of the Empreſs Elizabeth, dated October 23, 1758, and ſigned by the Sieur Groſs, then her miniſter at the Court of Warſaw, in which her Imperial Majeſty declares, that for reaſons eſſential, ſhe was invariably determined not to conſent to the re-eſtabliſhment of Monſ. de Biron and his Sons, in the Dutchy of Courland, and that it would be extremely agreeable to her if the conſtitution of that Dutchy was reſtored, by the States proceeding to the election of his Son Prince Charles.

Sept. 16. Great diviſions prevail among the States and nobility of Courland. Some of them are ſtrongly attached to Prince Charles, the preſent reigning Duke, whilſt ſeveral others eſpouſe the intereſt of the old Duke Erneſt John, which laſt being ſupported by the Court of Ruſſia, it is thought will prevail. This proceeding of the Court of Ruſſia appears the more extraordinary, as it is not at all natural that the King ſhould, in favour of a ſtranger, act againſt his own Son, and conſent to diveſt him of his Fiefs and Dutchy, with which his Majeſty himſelf inveſted him. Nevertheleſs the Duke de Biron, relying on the powerful ſupport of the Empreſs, has aſſumed all the titles he had before his diſgrace, and is preparing to leave Peterſburgh, and ſet off for Courland, in hopes of being ſoon put into the poſſeſſion of that Dutchy, in the room of Prince Charles, who is now in actual and lawful poſſeſſion thereof.

From the Head-quarters of the Marſhals of France, at Bauerbach, Sept. 29 1762.

" The day before yeſterday, Prince Ferdinand retook his old camp at Wetta; on which occaſion there was a furious cannonade between his troops and ours, who, upon his retreat, had advanced thither. We retired, however, without any loſs. The Chevalier de Levy, who had advanced as far as Battenberg, is returned hither, and ſo is the Marquis de Poyannes, who has alſo made ſome priſoners, and amongſt them a Lieutenant Colonel of Huſſars. Theſe two expeditions had been announced in a former account, as things of great conſequence, and from which much was to be expected."---There is a long detail of the taking the town and caſtle of Amonebourg; at the cloſe of which, it is confeſſed, that they coſt the French 60 officers, and 1000 or 1200 men; after which they are juſt where they were.

LONDON, SEPTEMBER 25.

As the Ceremonial and Etiquette of kneeling down and kiſſing hands, is ſo uſeleſs and incommodious, both to Sovereigns and ſubjects, numbers of ſenſible men wiſh for its diſuſe and abolition by order in all Courts, as already in France, Pruſſia, &c.

His Majeſty was attended at his enthronement, at Windſor, by 17 Knights of the Garter, the greateſt number ever known to attend on any ceremony of that kind.

Sept. 30. The following is part of a letter to a perſon of diſtinction from Peterſburgh, dated Auguſt 21. " The troubled ſtate of things here ſtill continues. All are anxious to know their iſſue, and it is far from being eaſy even to conjecture what that iſſue will be. The party of Prince Ivan (or John) ſhew themſelves daily with leſs reſerve, and their ſilence hitherto, is rather attributed to the depth of their councils, than to any conſciouſneſs of the vanity of their proſpects. The ſtep taken by Catherine II. in declaring herſelf Empreſs, inſtead of Tutreſs of the heir apparent, has inflamed her enemies, and, upon reflexion, been looked upon as imprudent, even by her friends. The pecuniary arguments with which ſhe has ſtopped many mouths, open many more; and as ſuch reſources are far from being inexhauſtible, they are inſufficient to ſuppreſs the voice of faction. Some days ago the voyage to Moſcow was put off; the preparations for the coronation ſuſpended; and the whole attention of the Miniſtry employed to fix her Majeſty firmly on the throne. The method propoſed for that end is, as it is now publickly ſaid, a treaty of marriage with the young Ivan; whom the Empreſs is gone to viſit in his retirement, to ſee whether ſuch a conſort will ſuit her taſte, or be conducive to her intereſt. This incognito voyage is much talked of; certain it is, that her Imperial Majeſty has not appeared for ſeveral days paſt in this metropolis. The Accounts of Ivan are various; but thoſe who ſpread or give credit to the reports of his ſimplicity or idiotiſm, are certainly miſtaken. It is well known that this Prince has had the advantages of a good education, added to his natural talents and endowments; and that his confinement has been alleviated by an application to thoſe branches of ſcience that are ſuitable to his rank. Even the late Empreſs (who beheld in Ivan a rival, whoſe pretenſions were more than ſpecious) was careful and attentive about his education, and appointed maſters to inſtruct him in the ſciences that become a Prince. Should the preſent Empreſs take this illuſtrious exile to her bed and throne, this would be, no doubt, one of the beſt means of uniting all parties, of healing all diviſions, and of adding to her domeſtic comfort, national tranquility and concord.

" The Baron de Breteuil, Miniſter of France, is arrived here: He is a polite, inſinuating man; and he will indeed have occaſion for all his dexterity and addreſs, to ſucceed in his negociations here, or, rather, to obtain even the moſt remote appearance of ſucceſs."

The London, of 110 guns, building at Chatham, is in great forwardneſs for launching, as are a 90 and 84 gun ſhip unnamed, and 3 large ones repairing in the Wet Dock there.

Col. Eſdorf's Hanoverian dragoons had their ſtandard taken from them by a French officer at the late battle where the Hereditary Prince was wounded. A young recruit, who joined the regiment but in June laſt, retook it; for which bravery the Col. ordered him to be publickly thank'd at the head of the regiment, to be rewarded with 12 Louis d'Ors, and his name and the act to be engraved in ſilver, and put round the ſtandard.

Oct. 2. When the Duke of Bedford landed at Calais, M. Becquet de Cocove, Preſident of the Court of Juſtice at that place, attended by all the King's officers, waited on his Grace at the inn, and complimented him in the following terms.

My LORD,

" It would betray in us a diſregard to the welfare of mankind in general, and to that of the two Crowns of France and England in particular, ſhould we omit this opportunity of teſtifying our joy for the important commiſſion entruſted to your Grace, to put the finiſhing hand to the great work of peace. Who could have been nominated more capable than your Grace, to reconcile ſo many different intereſts, and remove ſo many difficulties? Yes, my Lord Duke, your wiſdom will ſurmount all difficulties; the two nations of rivals you will make friends, by inſpiring them with the ſpirit of union and concord. They have in all ages, mutually eſteemed each other; it was, perhaps, reſerved for your Grace to change this eſteem into a happy ſympathy. May we ſoon ſee you repaſs, my Lord, with the olive branch in your hand, going to reap the happy fruits of your wiſe mediation, after gaining the eſteem of our Maſter, and meriting the favour of your own Sovereign. Theſe are the wiſhes of the King's officers of juſtice at Calais, who beg leave to aſſure your Grace of their moſt profound reſpect."

Extract of a letter from the Hague, Sept. 24.

" Our laſt letters from Sileſia do not ſeem to promiſe a very ſpeedy concluſion to the ſiege of Schweidnitz. A convoy with proviſions for the Pruſſian camp, has been intercepted by an Auſtian detachment, the fire of the beſieged is ſtill vigourous, and it is even ſaid that Marſhal Daun will immediately make a ſecond attempt to relieve that place. But as that modern Fabius over-acts the part of the ancient one, and is ſo exceſſively prudent and deliberate in his motions, little is expected from that quarter."

Extract of a letter from Liſbon, Sept. 18.

" Almeida might have been defended three weeks longer, having proviſion for that time, and plenty of ammunition. There were about 70 men wounded during the ſiege, moſt of whom died for want of Surgeons to attend them. It ſeems the Engliſh and German officers proteſted againſt capitulating, but to no purpoſe. The place was given up, and the Spaniards have a fine and ſtrong fortification for magazines, and an open road into the kingdom, though attended with many difficult paſſes, and they can march to any place except this city, which will be difficult for them to come at; but Porto, Coimbra, Virue, &c. run a riſque of falling into their hands.

" Since the Spaniards have taken Almeida, they are marching towards Coimbra and Porto, but our troops are deſtroying the roads, and puting the difficult paſſes into a ſtate of defence, ſo as to prevent their coming forward."

October 5.

Commodore Man is cruizing off Breſt with ſix ſhips of the line, and Commodore Dennis has ten capital ſhips at Baſque Road.

Yeſterday three magificent coaches, brought over from Paris, for the French Ambaſſador, arrived here.

As England allows to the ſhips of her friends the Dutch the liberty of covering the goods of her enemies the Spaniards, Spain likewiſe hath granted to the Dutch this privilege.

Oct. 8. Laſt Thurſday his Royal Highneſs the Duke of York ſailed from St. Helens, in his Majeſty's ſhip Princeſs Amelia, with the Magnanime, Eſſex, and Pearl frigate, in queſt of 5 French ſhips that are ſailed from Cape-Francois. The Hon. Capt. Harvey gave the Duke the intelligence, on which his Royal Highneſs ſaid he would ſail immediately. We hope to give a good account of them ſoon.

They inform us from Holland, that the Count de Welderen, the new Dutch miniſter at this Court, hath inſtructions to renew all the treaties that ſubſiſt between the two powers.

The following is ſaid to be an authentic anecdote, relating to the death of the late unhappy Emperor Peter III.---When the late Emperor of Ruſſia ſurrendered himſelf to his wife, who came, Amazon-like, at the head of 10,000 men to demand his reſignation, he was immediately confined, and all viſitors denied admittance to his perſon.

When he found there were no hopes left for his liberty, he requeſted two things to be allowed him; one was, that he might have the Pruſſian uniform, the other, that a very favourite ſervant, a Negroe, whoſe name was Utowitz, might attend him. The humane Emperor adding, that he was certain the poor fellow would pine himſelf to death, if he was to be ſeparated from his maſter.

In two or three days, after this Negroe had been properly inſtructed, he was ſent to wait upon his maſter, and one of his firſt acts of duty was, to give Peter the Third a melon, which was properly prepared, according to the (as we may ſuppoſe) proper political ſcheme.

The doſe was violent, the diſpatch extraordinary quick, and the body immediately opened.

The entrails were taken out, that nothing might appear to the eyes of the world, nevertheleſs his face appeared very red; and this was the reaſon, it is ſaid, that the Empreſs was not ſuffered to ſee him.

It is ſaid that this black fellow now keeps an equipage, lives high, and has many acquaintance of the better ſort.

October 9.

We hear that there will be no addreſs from the merchants on the taking of the Havannah, it not being uſual for them to addreſs on ſuch occaſions.

Letters from Madrid adviſe, that the French troops had deſtroyed a large Portugueſe manufactory, and made themſelves maſters of Povillano, and taken 140 mules laden with cloths, gold croſſes, and other ornaments of great value.

We learn from Germany, that a late ſally of the garriſon of Schweidnitz was made to favour the eſcape of certain perſons who happened to be in that city, and who are ſuppoſed to be the Baron de Forgatſch, and two accomplices in an attempt made ſome time ago to carry off the King of Pruſſia's perſon. The governor having refuſed an honourable capitulation, he is ſuppoſed to have very great confidence of being relieved. It is again reported, that Saxony will ſoon be evacuated, in order to ſpare the city of Dreſden.

By the moſt exact eſtimation that could be made, when the laſt letters were diſpatched from the Havannah, the money and effects at that place, belonging to the King of Spain, will amount to four millions ſterling. It is rumoured that his Majeſty hath very graciouſly given up his ſhare to the captors; and that part of it will be appropriated for the benefit of the widows, children, or heirs of the brave men who fell in this glorious expedition; for whom, by our preſent defective regulations, no proviſion is made; but while the captain of the Stirling-Caſtle ſhares equally with Capt. Hervey of the Dragon, the ſorrowful widow of the gallant Capt. Gooſtree receives not ſo much as mourning for her deceaſed huſband; and the only favour ſhewn to the widows of thoſe men who loſt their lives in mounting the breach at Moro Caſtle, is the grant of a paſſport to prevent their being whipt as vagrants, if found out of their proper pariſhes.

Letters from Vienna, of the 25th ult. mention, that an Engliſh Gentleman of diſtinction had been there ſome time incognito; that he was charged with a very weighty commiſſion; and was, in a very ſhort time to aſſume a public character.

Capt. John Campbell, who ſo gallantly fought under Sir Edward Hawke, on board the Royal George, in the combat with Marſhal Conflans, hath commanded his Majeſty's ſhip Dorſetſhire, of 70 guns, under Sir Charles Saunders, in the Mediterranean, ever ſince war was declared againſt Spain.

Oct. 12. Letters from Croſſen of the 30th ult. adviſe, that the Governor of Schweidnitz continued then to make a brave defence. That on the 27th and 28th ult. there was a moſt terrible firing on both ſides, from their cannon, mortars and ſmall arms, which laſted each day from morning till night, without intermiſſion.

They write from Hanau of the 1ſt inſtant, that both armies remained in their former poſition. But the diſpoſition making by the French, by ſending back their heavy artillery, waggons, &c. and mending the roads towards Gieſen where they are filling their magazines with forage, &c. denote that they will ſoon go into winter quarters, without being able to relieve Caſſel, which is blockaded by the Allies.

Many perſons of ſome rank think we ſhall have another year's war, unleſs the Spaniards and French approve of our conditions.

NEW-YORK, December 16.

Since our laſt the Neptune Tranſport arrived here from the Havannah; in which Ship Col. Brewerton, and ſeveral other Provincial Officers, came Paſſengers; a Snow of the ſame Fleet is arrived at Rhode-Iſland.

A Tranſport Ship, and a Sloop, are aſhore on the South Side of Long-Iſland.

The Earl of Halifax Packet Boat, Captain Boulderſon, is to ſail for Falmouth this Day about Noon, Wind and Weather permitting.

PHILADELPHIA, December 23.

By Captain Foſter, in a ſhort Paſſage from Madeira, we have Advice, that ſome of the Tranſports, with Spaniſh Troops on board, from the Havannah, had arrived at Cadiz, and carried the firſt Advice of the Reduction of that Place: That the Spaniſh Army, in Portugal, had gone into Winter Quarters, having ſuffered greatly by Sickneſs, &c. but that it was feared, if the War continued, they would overrun the whole Country, it being impoſſible, it is ſaid, to make the Portugueſe face the Enemy: And that a Number of Light Horſe were arrived in Portugal from England, which made the Number lately ſent from that Quarter about Seven Hundred.---Captain Foſter, on the Sixth of November, ſpoke with a Veſſel from Liverpool for the African Coaſt, which had then been out twelve Days, and no Peace in England when ſhe ſailed; but he heard nothing of our Ambaſſador being recalled from France.

From New-Providence we have Advice, that their Privateers were largely concerned in the taking of the French Fleet lately from the Cape, tho' it was thought their Share would be but ſmall, as ſo many Men of War happened to come up with them; but that they had ſent in a Brig and Snow that belonged to that Fleet; and had taken a large Ship, mounting 26 Guns, from Old France for the Cape, richly laden with Wines, &c.

The Ship mentioned lately in this Paper to be taken by the Britannia Privateer, Captain Robeſon, of this Port, and carried to Barbados, was a French Veſſel, of twelve Six-pounders, and 50 Men, bound to Cayenne from Rochelle with Soldiers, and naval Stores, which had been accordingly put aſhore there, and ſhe was proceeding to the Cape.----The Frenchman engaged Captain Robeſon for ſome Time in the Night, killed two of his Men, and loſt four of his own. The Cargoe on board the Ship reckoned worth about One Thouſand Pounds Sterling.

Somerſet County, Maryland, Nov. 15, 1762.

" On the 11th Inſtant departed this Life, at his own Houſe in this County, The Reverend and Pious HUGH HENRY, a Preſbyterian Miniſter, univerſally lamented; who, by a remarkably pious Life and Converſation, gave a Sanction to thoſe holy Doctrines he delivered from the Pulpit; and was not more diſtinguiſhed for a zealous, pious and ſucceſsful Preacher of the Goſpel, than for all thoſe amiable Virtues that complete the Character of the Father, the Huſband, and the benevolent Friend."

" The NEW ORGAN, which is putting up in ST. PAUL'S CHURCH in this City, will be in ſuch Forwardneſs as to be uſed in Divine Service on CHRISTMAS DAY: It is of a new Conſtruction, and made by Mr. PHILIP FYRING, Muſical Inſtrument-maker, in this City, who may, with Juſtice, be ſaid to be the beſt Hand at that ingenious Buſineſs on the Continent."

 On Saturday, the 11th of this Inſtant, a young Man, named ARCHIBALD WILSON, was drowned about Nine o'Clock at Night, as he was ſtepping into a Boat out of a Sloop, lying almoſt in the Stream, oppoſite to Cheſtnut-ſtreet Wharff; he was about ſix Feet high, a well made Man, had on a new Pair of Buckſkin Breeches, a blue Coat, one Silver and one black japanned Buckle in his Shoes, and had in his Pocket a conſiderable Quantity of Paper Currency; his Corpſe are not yet found. Whoever will make Search and find the Corpſe, and take Care of the Money, which muſt be in Danger of periſhing, ſhall be handſomely rewarded, by applying to JAMES BELL, in this City, near the Drawbridge, or by WILLIAM M'KENNAN. ¶

 " On Friday Night laſt, as an induſtrious Woman was returning to her Home, about 10 o'Clock in the Evening, near the Houſe of Mr. Charles Cox, in Second-ſtreet, ſhe was ſet upon by Six Youths, in the Dreſs of Gentlemen, who behaved very rudely to her; threw her down, and bruiſed her, but ſhe being ſtrong and active, got hold of one by the Throat, and tore the Shirts of others, till at length ſhe got clear of them.

Might it not be of Service to the Public at this Time, to ſend theſe couragious Youths into his Majeſty's Service, that they may learn Courage of a nobler Kind?

SAMUEL ORMES."

For the Entertainment of the CURIOUS,

A COURSE of ELECTRICAL EXPERIMENTS, with explanatory LECTURES, is propoſed to be exhibited at the College, in this City, on Wedneſday and Thurſday next, provided the Air be dry enough; or, if not, on the two firſt dry Days after.

By EBENEZER KINNERSLEY, M. A. Profeſſor of Engliſh and Oratory in the College and Academy of Philadelphia.

This Courſe will be divided into two Lectures; in which, among many other Particulars, it will be ſhown, that the ELECTRIC FIRE, produced by the Friction of Glaſs, or any other Electric Subſtance, is not the ſame with CULINARY FIRE, but is real LIGHTNING, the very ſame, in all Reſpects, with that which is ſeen and heard in a THUNDER-GUST; and that our Bodies, at all Times, contain enough of it to ſet a Houſe on Fire.

Above fifty curious Experiments will be made on LIGHTNING; the principal Laws by which it always acts will be exhibited and explained; and a practicable Method ſhewn, and an Inſtance given of the happy Succeſs thereof in this City, whereby Houſes, Ships, &c. may be preſerved from being damaged by LIGHTNING.

As no one need feel the Effect of any of theſe Experiments but thoſe who chooſe it, and as the Quantity of LIGHTNING made Uſe of will be but ſmall, the moſt timorous Perſon need not apprehend being either hurt or terrified. But, as the Knowledge of Nature tends to enlarge the human Mind, and give us more noble, more grand and exalted Ideas of the Author of Nature, it is preſumed that this Courſe will be, to ſome, an agreeable Entertainment.

Thoſe who deſire to have their Dwellings effectually ſecured from the deſtructive Violence of one of the moſt awful Powers of Nature, may, by theſe Lectures and Experiments, learn more of the Nature and Properties of LIGHTNING than was ever known in the World till lately; and, at the ſame Time, be fully convinced that the Method propoſed for their Security will, if put in Practice, be attended with the deſired Succeſs; and, conſequently, that Mankind, inſtead of having any juſt Objection thereto, have great Reaſon to bleſs GOD for ſo uſeful a Diſcovery. For, "A prudent Man foreſeeth the Evil, and hideth himſelf; but "the Simple paſs on, and are puniſhed." Prov. xxii. 3.

The Lecture to begin, each Day, preciſely at Eleven o'Clock. Tickets to be had at the London Coffee-Houſe, or at Mr. KINNERSLEY's Houſe, in Market-ſtreet; Price Half a Dollar for each Lecture.

Newtown, Bucks County, Dec. 20.

St. JOHN, in ANTIGUA, November 24.

Whether the French Inhabitants of the conquered Iſlands are concerned or not in the Privateers, under Spaniſh Commiſſions, which have ſo much infeſted thoſe Iſlands, yet it is certain ſuch Privateers have been too much countenanced there. They have been hove down, refitted, and found every Aſſiſtance they ſtood in Need of; and have ſeveral Times cut Engliſh Veſſels from the Out-bays, under ſuch Circumſtances as would hardly have been ventured upon, without good Correſpondence with the People on Shore. Theſe Proceedings have at laſt been followed at Martinico by ſuch an Event as might have been expected. A Number of the moſt abandoned Negroes have been ſpirited up to take Arms, headed (as it is ſaid) by Privateers Men. As, in the Beginning of Inſurrections it can never be known who are Enemies, the Governor took every Precaution, and even the Engliſh Merchants were obliged to keep Guard. The Admiral, and ſome of the cruiſing Ships, have moved that Way; and we have now nothing to apprehend but the Trouble of puniſhing the Delinquents.

On Sunday laſt his Majeſty's Brig Virgin, William Rodney Bloyd, Eſq; Commander, brought in a Schooner under Daniſh Colours, which loaded at Cape Francois, with Sugars, Coffee, &c. and was bound to St. Euſtatius. The Virgin ſailed from hence on the 13th ult. in Queſt of two Spaniſh Privateer Sloops, which hove down at St. Bartholomew's; but they had ſailed before ſhe arrived there. Captain Bloyd was informed that they were both taken, ſoon after they ſailed, by Capt. Lafory, of the Levant; and a little to the Northward of St. Euſtatius the Virgin ſaw the Levant, with two Sloops in Company, which is belived to be the above mentioned Privateers; one of which mounted 8, and the other 6 Guns.

By a Gentleman arrived here on Sunday laſt from Guadaloupe, we are informed, that that Iſland is ſo infeſted with Privateers that there is no going to or from it, without the greateſt Danger of being taken; the Privateers anchoring in the Bays round the Iſland, in Security. A ſmall Schooner (a Spaniſh Privateer) called the Mary Ann, and well known to that Iſland, ſailed ſo near the Shipping in the Road of Baſſeterre laſt Friday, that ſhe was fired at from Fort Royal; ſhe had her Spaniſh Colours out, and rowed with 18 Oars.

BOSTON, December 13.

By a Veſſel from Liſbon, arrived at Marblehead, we have Advices from thence to the Middle of October laſt, which are to the following Purport, that their Affairs wear a bad Aſpect; that the Spaniards had forced the Paſſes through the Mountains, which the Portugueſe had undertaken to defend, and where they thought to have ſtopt the Spaniards; that they had advanced, with their Army, to within 80 Miles of the City of Liſbon on the River; that the Portugueſe were very fearful of the Conſequences, unleſs a ſpeedy Peace ſhould take Place; and that they every Moment looked for a Packet from England, which they expected would bring them the agreeable News of a Peace, or Ceſſation of Arms; and if neither, they dreaded the Effects of the Progreſs making by the Spaniards.-----

NEW-PORT (in Rhode-Iſland) December 13.

Laſt Friday Morning the Privateer Diana, commanded by Capt. Job Eaſton, returned from a Cruize of about 7 Months; during which he has, partly in Company with other Privateers, and partly by himſelf, made 14 Captures, one of which was a Spaniſh Privateer from St. Jago de Cuba, with 4 Carriage and 8 Swivel Guns, and 46 Men.

NEW-YORK, December 20.

We learn by Letters from Montreal, that the Right Hon. the Lords Commiſſioners of his Majeſty's Treaſury, having given Directions to the Commiſſioners of his Majeſty's Cuſtoms, for the eſtabliſhing a Cuſtom-Houſe in that City: A Cuſtom-Houſe is accordingly eſtabliſhed there, where all Veſſels bound to that Port are to unload, and pay Duty for the future, inſtead of unloading at Quebec. Thomas Lamb, Eſq; is appointed to preſide over the Cuſtoms at Montreal, and Mr. Richard Oakes, to be Waiter and Searcher.----Veſſels from 150 to 200 Tons, may go up to Montreal with Safety. Capt. Dean, in one of his Majeſty's Ships of War, with the Troops from Quebec on board their Tranſports, went up there the Year Canada ſurrendered to his Majeſty's Arms.

Extract of a Letter from a Perſon of Diſtinction at Montreal, dated October 23, 1762.

"The 9th Inſtant I arrived here; I judge you won't take it amiſs if I endeavour to inform you of the great Plenty this Country abounds in at this Time, which will differ greatly from the enormous Ideas we formed of it while in Poſſeſſion of our enemies.

"Wheat is ſold at this Place for 3s. New-York Currency per Buſhel, Oats at 1s. Indian Corn at 2s. Hay from 24s. to 30s per Ton; a good Turkey at 2s. Geeſe, Fowls, Mutton, Beef &c. in the like Proportion; in ſhort, there are but few Species of Proviſions or Merchanzize but what are cheaper at this Place than elſewhere in America, ſo that the Soldier in this Country may eat, drink, and enjoy the Fruit of his Labour; we are generally in perfect Health, and ſuffer for nothing ſo much as the want of Employment.

"The Inhabitants are extremely happy with the Conſtitution of their Government, and would be generally ſatisfied if the Country ſhould upon a Peace be ceded to the Crown of Great-Britain, which I hope will be the Caſe in a very ſhort Time."

The Betſey, Hutton, a Tranſport, belonging to Philadelphia, was the Ship we mentioned in our laſt to have been caſt away on the South Side of Long-Iſland.

WILMINGTON, Dec. 17.

An Extract of a Letter from an Officer to his Relation here, dated at Fort Detroit, October 26, 1762.

"This Settlement is about fifteen Miles long (the Fort contains very near as many Houſes as Wilmington) the Land extraordinary good, and the People might live very happy, were they induſtrious; but inſtead of cultivating the Land, they pay a moſt exorbitant Price for almoſt all the Neceſſaries of Life, and only carry on a little dirty Trade with the Indians.

"The Nineteenth of this Month was the moſt extraordinary dark Day, perhaps, ever ſeen in the World. At Nine in the Morning it was ſcarce lighter than at Break-of-Day, and ſo continued till about Twelve o' Clock, the Air being very full of Smoke, accompanied with a ſtrong Smell, as of Wood, Straw, and other Combuſtibles, when burning. At half an Hour after One it was ſo dark, that we were obliged to light Candles to dine by: At this Time it rained a little, with which fell ſuch a Quantity of black Particles, like Aſhes, as turned every Thing it fell upon black; even the River, which is twice as wide as Chriſtiana, was covered with a black Froth, which, when ſcummed off the Surface, reſembled the Lather of Soap, with this Difference, that it was (and as black as Ink) more greaſy. At Seven in the Evening the Air was more clear, and the diſagreeable Smell was now almoſt gone.-----We have been ſince informed, by People who were twenty Miles from hence that Day, that the Darkneſs, Rain and Smell, was the ſame with them."

TO be ſold by publick Vendue, on Wedneſday, the 29th Inſtant, at 10 o'Clock, at the London Coffee Houſe, a Parcel of Indian, or Half dreſſed Deer-Skins.

TO be ſold at public Vendue, the 30th of this Inſt. BOSTON, December 13.

The following Extract of a Letter from a Gentleman of Credit, now in London, to his Friend here, containing the Subſtance of Mr. Pitt's SPEECH in Parliament, in Anſwer to Lord G---ge S--k--lle, and others that ſpoke before him, relating to the Supplying his Majeſty with an additional Sum for carrying on the War in Germany, and aſſiſting the King of Portugal, we imagine needs no Apology to our Readers for having a Place in this Paper.----

SIR, London, Thurſday, May 12, 1762.

THROUGH the Introduction of a very worthy Gentleman, a Member of Parliament, I gained Admiſſion in the Houſe of Commons, to hear the Debates which were to come on that Day, and was furniſhed with a very convenient Seat, fronting our late worthy Patriot Miniſter, the Right Honourable WILLIAM PITT, Eſq; The Subſtance of which Debates I will endeavour to give you, as well as my Memory will allow, together with the Aſſiſtance of a good Friend who was alſo there, and has helped me with what I could not recollect.

After a few Votes paſſed touching ſome private Bills, a Meſſage was read from his Majeſty, deſiring the Houſe to ſupply him with One Million, towards defraying the Exigencies of State during the Receſs of Parliament, and to enable him to aſſiſt Portugal.

Upon which Lord B-rr--g-on, Chancellor of the Exchequer, opened the Debate: He was for aſſiſting the King of Portugal, but at the ſame time mentioned the vaſt Expence the Nation had been at, and would not allow of any additional Burthen, unleſs an End be put to the War in Germany.

Mr. W--ks roſe up next, but ſpoke ſo low, that much of his Diſcourſe was loſt, though enough was underſtood to ſhew his Aim was chiefly to expoſe the preſent Miniſtry.

Alderman B--kf--d ſucceeded him on the ſame Deſign, and in the moſt bitter Manner treated the Miniſtry with the greateſt Contempt, ſaying, he hardly knew what to make of them; that they were an odd Medley, made up partly of the old, and partly of the new Miniſtry; told them, they imagined no Body knew any thing but themſelves; and that they had done nothing for many Years but purchaſe Boroughs to ſend Members to Parliament; inſinuated that what had been done, was by Mr. P-tt, for that nothing had been done ſince his Reſignation; accuſed them of Irregularity in their Plans, and Irreſolution and Timidity in the Execution of them. He ſpoke like an honeſt Man, without Fear or Dread of any One, but nothing of that Flouriſh or Oratory which we found in ſome that ſpoke after him.

Mr. Gl-v-r, a Merchant of London, ſpoke next; he endeavoured to repreſent the King of Portugal as having violated his Engagements relative to the Engliſh Merchants, eſpecially in the Wine Trade, there having been Complaints tranſmitted from ſaid Merchants; but he had Reaſon to think thoſe Complaints had not been attended to by the late Miniſtry; arguing from this Breach of Treaty, that the King of Portugal had no Right to expect any Aſſiſtance from England.

Mr. L-gge then ſtood up, and ſaid very little, but that little was to the ſame Purpoſe; tho' he took ſome Pains to perſuade us of the Neceſſity of making Peace; that the War ſhould be contracted; and that the Difficulty of raiſing new Supplies would be, if not quite, almoſt inſurmountable.

Mr. G---v-lle ſpoke next, and enedeavoured to enforce what Mr. L-gge had ſaid; that the Expences the Nation had been put to were ſo heavy, that they would not be able to raiſe the next Year's Supplies, ſhould the War be continued; he denied what Mr. B--kf--d had ſaid of the Miniſtry having been idle, or done little or nothing for many Years paſt; and as a Proof to the contrary, mentioned the many Acquiſitions we had made this War; which, in Fact, was only confirming what was ſaid in Favour of Mr. P-tt by Mr. B--kf--d.

" Lord G----e S--k--lle (who, tho' not the beſt of Men, is to be reckoned among the beſt of Speakers) ſtood up next, and tried, with all the Sophiſtry of the ableſt Head, to ſhew the Difference in the Expence of the late Queen Anne's War, and the preſent; that tho' in the former we had near 180,000 Troops employed on the Continent, and in the preſent not above one Half that Number, yet the Expence now was much greater than at that time, which he ſaid muſt be owing to Want of Oeconomy in the Managers of the Germany War, and inſinuated ſomething which might be conſtrued to the Prejudice of Mr. P-tt; he told the Houſe, he was of the Opinion with Mr. L-gge, the Honourable Gentleman who ſpoke laſt, that the Expence the Nation had been at was ſo great, it was impoſſible to raiſe any further Supplies, and that he feared he ſhould ſee the Time when we ſhould come to a full Stop for Want of Money to carry on the War, and that he bled to ſee his Country in ſuch diſtreſſed Circumſtances, and concluded with ſaying, he hoped we ſhould not ſee the Time when we, as a conquering Nation, ſhould be obliged to aſk a Peace of thoſe who ought to beg it of us.

Mr. P-tt, our late worthy Miniſter, next roſe from his Seat, and like an Angel diffuſed a Light throughout the whole Aſſembly; he ſpoke for 73 Minutes, which, when over, ſeemed like a Moment of Tranſport: He made a moſt glorious Speech; I was charmed with the noble Sentiments, the honeſty of Heart, the tender Regard for his King and Country, which breathed forth in every Word he ſaid; ſuch enchanting Muſick I never heard before; I forgot all my Misfortunes, and did not anticipate thoſe to come; while he was ſpeaking I was completely happy, if there be ſuch a Thing on Earth; he convinced every one, who was not more than an Infidel, it was abſolutely neceſſary to continue the German War, and aſſiſt the King of Portugal; that it was his Opinion there was no ſupporting a War without a continental Connection, that it had ever been found political, except in the four unhappy Reigns of the Stuarts [this Exception was thought not a little ſevere on my Lord B-te, who is of that Family] and in a very jocular Way turned to different Parts of the Houſe, and ſaid, you that are for continental Meaſures, I am with you; and you that are for aſſiſting the King of Portugal, I am with you; and you that are for puting an End to the War, I am with you alſo; in ſhort, I am the only Man to be found that am with you all (which occaſioned a general Laugh throughout the Houſe.) He then pointed out the Succeſſes which had attended the Britiſh Arms in all Parts of the World, and the immenſe Advantage gained in our Trade, which would more than compenſate for the large Expence we had been at, and was a Conſideration (as he obſerved) paſſed over unnoticed by thoſe who were complaining of the heavy Burthen of War; and in Regard to what Mr. L-gge and G---v-lle ſaid, upon contracting the Expences, he entirely agreed with them, and ſaid, whoever ſhould effect this ſalutary Work, would deſerve the higheſt Encomiums; but that he hoped a Diſtinction would be made between contracting the Expence, and contracting the Operations of the War, and deſired any one preſent to ſhew how the latter could have been, or might ſtill be done with Safety: He then told us he did not find any leſs Expence attended the Nation now, than when HE unworthily held the Seals, or that more was done; and turning to the Marquis of Granby, did him that Juſtice which was his due, by telling him, he knew his Zeal for the Good of his Country was ſuch, that if he had received his Orders, he was ſure he would not then be where he was; and as to what that noble Lord G---ge S--k--lle ſaid, no one doubted his Capacity, if his Heart was but as good; that for his Part he could not tell the Reaſon of the continental Expences being more now than in Queen Ann's Time, unleſs it was becauſe Provender and every Thing elſe in Germany was dearer now than then, and wiſhed the noble Lord had explained Part of his Speech, for that he did not properly know what to make of it; it carried a Something! a Suſpicion he did not well underſtand! but if he meant that there had not been fair Play with the Money, he knew nothing of it, and then, ſtretching out his Hands, and moving his Fingers, told us, they were clean, there was none of it ſtuck to them! and that he would ſecond any Member of the Houſe, who ſhould move for an Inquiry into the Money Matters, he wanted to know how it was appropriated, that the whole Truth might come out: He obſerved the noble Lord had told the Houſe, that he bled for his Country, and he did not wonder at it; that it was his Opinion, he ought to throw his Body at his Majeſty's Feet, and there bleed at every Pore.

" He then repreſented, that in Conſequence of withdrawing our Troops from Germany, Portugal and the Low Countries would become a Prey to the French and Spaniards; that in Point of Policy we were obliged ſtill to maintain them, but that he did not mean to bear Portugal on our Shoulders, but only to ſet him on his Legs, and put a Sword in his Hand; that the French were almoſt a ruined Nation, having expended in the laſt Year Eight Millions, and been on the loſing Hand; and that he knew the Finances of France, and what they were able to do, as well, if not better, than any Man in England, let his Abilities be what they would, and that we, by our Succeſſes, were repaid for our Expence; that 'twas wrong and unjuſt to repreſent Great-Britain in ſo deplorable a State, as unable to carry on the War (for there were always Strangers in the Gallery, who wrote their Friends in Holland what paſſed in the Houſe, and the Dutch forwarded it to the French, and 'twas by this means Affairs mentioned in Parliament came out in the French and lying Bruſſels Gazette) whereas, 'twas well known, England never was better able to ſupport a War than at preſent; that the Money for this Year (the laſt was paid this Day) was raiſed, and he would anſwer for it, if we wanted 15 or 20 Millions for next Year, we might have it, and recommended their granting a Million and an Half, inſtead of the Million his Majeſty deſired; that he knew the Cry in Parliament for three Years laſt paſt was, You wont be able to raiſe Money to continue the War another Year, and yet now they all ſaw the contrary; that one Campaign might have finiſhed the War; [alluding, I ſuppoſe, to his Propoſal for demanding a categorical Anſwer of Spain, by a Fleet of Ships, and attacking Cadiz] and in Anſwer to Mr. G-l-v-r, touching the Complaints of the Portugal Merchants not being attended to, he ſaid, ſo far from being unattended to, he had ſpent many Nights on them, and referred that Gentleman to what had paſſed between him and the Ambaſſador of the Court of Portugal, wherein that Point had been adjuſted to the Satisfaction of all Perſons. He then recommended Union and Harmony to the Miniſtry, hoped there were no ſuch Things now ſubſiſting as Whigs and Tories, declaimed againſt Altercation, which he obſerved was no Way to carry on the public Affairs, and urged the Proſecution of the War with Vigour, as the only Way to obtain an honourable, ſolid, and laſting peace; and proved, from the Readineſs with which Supplies had been granted, there would be little Danger of a Stop on that Account, ſo long as the Money was properly applied, and attended with Succeſs, which latter indeed no Man could anſwer for; nor was it expected that any ſhould be accountable, farther than the Meaſures purſued were looked upon as beſt to obtain the End propoſed; and that thoſe who judged only by the Event, were ſuch whoſe Judgment he would never rely on.------

All of which, to the beſt of my Remembrance, is the Subſtance, which was ſpoken with a Dignity becoming Mr. P-tt, a Coolneſs and Firmneſs peculiar to himſelf, a Goodneſs which none of them could come up to, and was attended to with ſo much Silence, that had a Mouſe croſſed the Floor, he muſt have been heard. There was an inexpreſſible Satisfaction in the Looks of all preſent, except thoſe who oppoſed him; which ſufficiently ſhews the Deference paid him, and the Superiority his Character and Abilities gave him in that venerable Aſſembly.

In Conſequence of this Debate, the Money applied for was granted, by a very large Majority of Votes.

Oct. 2. At a late Aſſize Meeting, in a neighbouring County, at which were preſent, in one Company, 110 Gentlemen and Freeholders, one of the Gentlemen being called upon for his Toaſt, named a certain Great Man, who is not at preſent very highly in Eſteem, from his having ſucceeded to the Poſt of another Great Man, who has not loſt his Intereſt with his Power, and under whoſe very Noſe this Toaſt was given; when Ninety of the Company, including the Chairman, roſe immediately from their Seats, and, after a Minute's Conference, the Chairman made this remarkable Requeſt to the Toaſter, "Sir, you are deſired to "take Notice, that Ninety of the preſent Company, not ap- "proving of your Toaſt, have withdrawn themſelves; and you "are likewiſe deſired to inform the Perſonage whom you have "toaſted of your Succeſs."

A Perſon of Diſtinction, who loſt his Son a few Years ſince, in his Infancy, lately diſcovered him in the Service of a Chimney-ſweeper at Brentford, by ſome particular Circumſtances and Marks on the Body; from which he took him, and is now giving him an Education ſuitable to his high Rank and Birth.

It is ſaid that a Scheme will ſoon be laid before the Lords of the Treaſury, for raiſing Twelve or Fourteen Millions for next Year's Supplies, by which the Bank, the Bankers, and rich People, will get more than one Million Profit, at 3 per Cent. without any new Taxes, and without Gaming.

CHARLES-TOWN, SOUTH-CAROLINA, November 13.

From Virginia we learn, that the Murrain has lately made its Appearance amongſt the Cattle there. This Diſtemper broke out among our Cattle about 18 Years ago, and ſtill continues in the Province.

Laſt Tueſday Night the Baptiſt Meeting-Houſe, on Aſhley River, was burnt down to the Ground. The Fire was diſcovered about 9 o'Clock, and from Circumſtances, it ſeems as if it was the Work of ſome Incendiaries.

We are deſired to make it public, that George Lemond, and Joſeph Haw, who went as Hoſtages to Cape-Francois in 1758, for 2000 l. Sterling, on Account of Meſſieurs Papley and Boan, Merchants in Jamaica, remained cloſe confined in Goal the 21ſt of Auguſt laſt, only Part of the Ranſom Money having then been paid.

Nov. 20. On Thurſday laſt arrived here from Havannah, his Majeſty's Ship Mercury, Samuel Cranſton Goodall, Eſq; Commander (of whom Sir George Pocock writes very advantageouſly) being ordered hither by Sir George, as an additional Station Ship to the Succeſs and Bonetta. She has on board the Spaniſh Biſhop of St. Jago, and other Eccleſiaſtics, accuſed of dangerous Practices, and ordered to be landed at St. Auguſtine, whither we hear they will be ſent as ſoon as the Bonetta comes in from her preſent Cruize.

Sir George Pocock ſailed for England from Havannah, the ſame Day as the Mercury left it, in the Namure, and took with him the following other Ships of War, viz. Temple, Marlborough, Devonſhire, Infante, San Genaro, and Aſſumption Regiſter Ship (the two laſt, with the Regiſter Ship, taken at Havannah) with about 80 Sail of Tranſports and Merchantmen unhis Convoy: He was parted with in the Lat. of St. Auguſtine, the 14th Inſt. and had to that Time taken the moſt extraordinary Care of his Convoy-----The Ships left at Havannah are, the Belleiſle, Rippon, Hampton-Court, and Port-Royal Sloop.------ Lord Albemarle, we hear, goes Home in the Rippon about the 1ſt of January.---On the 24th of October, 3 Engliſh Tranſports were loſt, juſt as they came out of the Havannah, by the North Winds ſuddenly ſetting in; one of them was the General Wolfe (an old Indiaman) the Lion was another, the Name of the 3d we have not learnt.

The Spaniards that arrived here on the 6th and 8th Inſtant, in two Engliſh leaky Cartel Ships, from the Havannah, are all landed, and lodged in the new Barracks; and the New-England Provincials, that came in another leaky Veſſel at the ſame Time, are removed on board the Betſey Tranſport, to ſail with the firſt fair Wind for New-York.---Both the Cartel Ships and the Tranſport are to be refitted with all poſſible Expedition, to proceed on their reſpective voyages.

The other Cartel Ship that parted with the above two on this Coaſt, we hear, has got into Georgia.

A Tender belonging to the Eagle Privateer, Capt. Dibdin, of London, was on the 8th Inſt. loſt upon Cape Romain Shoals, but all the Crew were ſaved.

The Epreuve's Prize, we hear, is arrived at Savannah in Georgia.

Nov. 27. On Monday laſt two of our coaſting Schooners met with the Schooner Charming Sally (Lancelot Lawrence late Maſter) in Poſſeſſion of 8 Spaniards, who knew nothing of Navigation, and aſked Directions to go to St. Auguſtine; one of the Captains of the Coaſters told the Spaniards, if they would follow him, they ſhould ſoon get a Pilot; the fooliſh Spaniards accordingly followed him into the Harbour, where the Veſſel was immediately ſeized by the Tender belonging to Fort Johnſon. This Schooner, it ſeems, was bound from New-York for Havannah, laden with Beef, Pork, Wines, &c. and had been taken the 3d Inſtant, about 15 Leagues from the Port ſhe was deſtined to, by a Spaniſh Privateer Schooner of 4 three Pounders, called the St. Joſeph, belonging to St. Auguſtine, who put a Prize Maſter and 9 Men on board, but the Crew differing with their Prize Maſter, murdered him; ſoon after they fell in with the Privateer again, when the Crew was changed, and ordered to keep Company, but they parted in a Gale of Wind in the Gulph.---The Priſoners ſay, that beſides the Privateer they belonged to, two other Spaniſh Schooners ſailed out of St. Auguſtine, of 8 three Pounders each, and a French Sloop of 10 four Pounders; and that their Supplies of every Thing depend on the Captures to be made by theſe Privateers.

On Thurſday the 8th Inſtant, a Sloop from Havannah, bound for Georgia, was chaſed aſhore at the Mouth of Santee River, by the above Privateer St. Joſeph.

Capt. John Dickinſon from Barbados, informs us, That about the 1ſt Inſt. a Brig from Philadelphia, a Sloop from New-York, and another from Virginia, were taken off Oſtin's Bay, by a Spaniſh Privateer Brig and Sloop. The New-Yorker ranſomed his Veſſel, and was arrived at Barbados.

PROVIDENCE (in New-England) Dec. 11.

Laſt Saturday the Brig Britannia, Capt. Dudley Saltonſtall, arrived at New-London, in 40 Days from Coracoa; in whom came Paſſenger Mr. John Snow, of this Town, late Mate of the Brigantine Induſtry, Capt. Philemon Williams, who has been gone near twelve Months, without ever being heard of.----Mr. Snow gives the following Account of the Loſs of ſaid Veſſel, on the Voyage from Barbados to Saltertuda, and the many Difficulties and Hardſhips they afterwards underwent, viz. On the 3d of April laſt, they ſailed from Barbados in the Fleet for Saltertuda, and were to touch at Martinico, but their Veſſel being an extreme heavy Sailer, they ſoon loſt Sight of the Fleet; and after many fruitleſs Efforts to get into Martinico, they bore away for Saltertuda; but were by ſtrong Currents, and adverſe Winds, driven ſo far to Leeward, that on the 17th of April, about 4 o'Clock in the Morning, they unfortunately ran aſhore on the Spaniſh Main, at a Place called Cora; where they were ſoon after boarded by 150 Savages from the Shore, who plundered them of every Thing that could be of any Service to them, and turned them aſhore (ſeven in Number) without any Kind of Proviſion to ſubſiſt on, with Directions to go to Maricoy, a Spaniſh Settlement, about 300 Miles from thence. They accordingly ſet out upon their Journey, through a Country they were unacquainted with, and after travelling three Days, in the greateſt Diſtreſs for Want of Subſiſtence, and continually expoſed to wild Beaſts of Prey, and the more ſavage Natives, they were luckily overtaken by 7 Spaniards, who ſupplied them with Refreſhments, and conducted them to the Spaniſh Town. As ſoon as they arrived they were immediately impriſoned, without Diſtinction, in a loathſome Goal, where they all continued for five Months, except one, who embraced the Roman Catholic Religion, after a Month's Confinement, and was ſet at Liberty, and treated with great Kindneſs. At length the Spaniſh Governor ordered the ſix that kept faſt to their Faith, on board of a Dutch Sloop that was trading there, in which they got to Coracoa. Capt. Williams died on the 19th ult. on his Paſſage Home, after a few Days Illneſs.

BOSTON, Dec. 16.

Yeſterday arrived here Capt. Rogers, in 25 Days from Newfoundland, by whom we have Advice, that a French Frigate had been cruiſing on the Banks for ſome Time paſt, and taken ſeveral Engliſh Veſſels, but where belonging we cannot learn:---That Capt. Greatreaks in a Ship with a Letter of Marque from Briſtol for Newfoundland, came up with the Frigate, and engaged her; that Capt. Greatreaks fired a Broadſide into her, and carried away ſome of her Maſts; the Frigate then endeavoured to get off, but Capt. Greatreaks boarded and took her, and carried her into Trinity-Bay: The Frigate had above 200 Men on board.

NEW-YORK, December 23.

Laſt Monday the Prize Brigantine, called Le Bon, Donne de Dieu, from Bourdeaux to the Cape, was ſent in here by the Harlequin, Capt. Wright, which was taken the 30th of November laſt, at 5 o'Clock in the Evening, within a few Leagues of Fort Dauphin, and next Day, in proceeding for this Place, was brought to by Capt. Kennedy, in a Providence Privateer, who put 17 Men on board, and ordered her to Mangeneel Bay, where two other Providence Privateers claimed a Share, and each have put Prize Maſters on board. Her Cargo is about 40 Tons of Wines, with 160 Barrels of Flour.

Yeſterday the Ketch Mercury arrived in 30 odd Days from the Havannah, but in 17 Days from the Matanzas, where Captain Quill was chaſed in by a Privateer; there Capt. Quill learned the Schooner Juno, Capt. George Gregory, from Quebec to the Havannah, was caſt away about 70 Leagues to the Eaſtward of that Place; the Veſſel is entirely loſt; the People in about 3 Weeks got to the Matanzas, after ſuffering a great deal of Hardſhips, ſubſiſting on Crabs, Conks, or any Thing they could pick up.

Laſt Week the Ship Oliver, Captain Stirling, bound to Boſton, in going through Hell-Gate, ran on the Hog's Back, and received ſo much Damage, that the Hull will be entirely loſt.

Capt. Tucker, in a Privateer Brig belonging to St. Kitt's, has taken a Dutch Sloop from the Cape bound to Coracoa.

On the Death of JOHN MOLAND, Eſq; Counſellor at Law. To a LADY.

His ſaltem accumulem donis, fungarque inani
Munere--------- VIRG.

SUPPRESS, dear DELIA, thy too conſtant Sighs,
Nor pain thy Breaſt with unavailing Grief:
Stop the ſoft pious Sorrows of thy Eyes;
They cannot give thy wounded Heart Relief.
Can Floods of Tears, in bitter Anguiſh ſhed,
Excite Compaſſion in relentleſs Death?
Can Eloquence of Sighs, when once 'tis fled,
Back to its Dwelling call the parted Breath?
Sooner the Sun ſhall quit his flaming Courſe,
The firm Foundations of the Earth decay:
Sooner ſhall Rivers ſeek their diſtant Source,
Or wand'ring Stars forget their ſtated Way.
No more his graceful Form ſhall meet my Sight,
No more his poliſh'd Manners charm my Soul;
His chearful Converſe cheat the gloomy Night,
And bleſs the circling Hours as they roll.
For Knowledge ſpread to him her pleaſing Page,
To him her ample Treaſures all reſign'd;
The intellectual Wealth of ev'ry Age,
Whate'er adorns or dignifies the Mind.
Eaſy tho' learn'd, and elegantly wiſe,
With Wit polite, and good without Pretence;
His Worth eſcap'd the View of heedleſs Eyes----
Few are the Friends of Virtue and of Senſe.
Unvex'd by ſordid Cares, with equal Mind
By Reaſon's temp'rate Rules he learnt to live:
Ambitious Toils and gainful Arts declin'd----
He ſought the gentle Joys Content could give.
While Candour and Sincerity ſhall pleaſe;
While Honeſty beſtows the nobleſt Name;
His ſacred Memory ſecur'd by theſe,
The juſteſt Tribute of Applauſe ſhall claim.
Life's buſy Scenes with ſpotleſs Honour paſt,
Too gen'rouſly for others long employ'd:
Retirement's peaceful Shades obtain'd at laſt,
Each dear domeſtic Bleſſing he enjoy'd.
On rural Thoughts intent, that little Field
To wave with future Harveſts he deſign'd;
And there, his Garden blooming Flow'rs to yield,
Where yonder Oak is o'er the Brook reclin'd.
Scarce glow'd the pleaſing Proſpect in his Breaſt----
And ſunk for ever in a ſudden Grave----
Beneath the common Turf now laid at Reſt:
For him no Flow'rs ſhall bloom, no Harveſt wave.
O fleeting flatt'ring Life! thy Hopes how vain?
Thy Promiſes how faithleſs, and how fair?
Juſt when Succeſs our warmeſt Wiſhes gain,
Thy melting Viſions vaniſh into Air.
What tho' no ſculptur'd Urn, or breathing Buſt,
No Pomp of Woe o'er his Remains appear;
Yet all the Worthy that approach his Duſt,
At MOLAND's Tomb ſhall drop a tender Tear.
What tho', on modeſt Merit unbelov'd,
Neglecting Pride and Folly ever frown;
The good Man, by his gracious God approv'd,
Unfading Wreaths of Happineſs ſhall crown.

On hearing the ORGAN, at St. PAUL's CHURCH, on CHRISTMAS Day, 1762.

HAIL Heav'n-born Science! whoſe enliv'ning Touch,
Thro' Nature felt, makes all her Pow'rs rejoice,
And fills the Soul with Harmony, and Bliſs
Extatic.----When Joy tumultuous revels
In the ſwelling Breaſt, then thou, ſweet MUSIC,
Majeſtically ſmooth, and ſoft as Zephyrs,
Thy Voice aſſuaſive to the Heart apply'ſt:-----
If jarring Paſſions, like diſgorging ETNA,
Wage War inteſtine, and with Rage deſtroy
Their Mother Nature, inſtant at thy Call
They loſe their Fury, and ſubſide in Peace:-----
A ſov'reign Balm thou pour'ſt into the Wounds
Of bleeding Love, and ſooth'ſt the Heart-felt Pain.
And thou, majeſtic ORGAN! taught by thee,
We raiſe our Thoughts on Fancy's Wing,
Soaring beyond the darkſome Veil of Time
Up to the empyreal Heav'n, where GODHEAD habits,
High thron'd above all Height, encircled round
By SERAPHIMS, whoſe well-inſtructed Choirs
To pleaſing Numbers tune their Harps of Gold.-----
-----Surely, if ought of Heav'n on Earth we taſte,
'Tis when we join in holy Acclamation
With deep-ton'd ORGAN, to rehearſe the Praiſe
Of GOD Omnipotent, who rules the Heav'ns;-----
When ev'ry ſwelling Note bears us enraptur'd
To the bleſt Abodes of Saints imparadis'd.-----
When GOD his ſix Days Work, a World had finiſh'd,
Attended by a Band of heav'nly Muſic,
The Harp ſymphonious, and the ſolemn Pipe,
The Dulcimer, all Organs of ſweet Stop,
Along the ſtarry Pavement up he rode;
While infant Nature heard the Song harmonious,
And liſt'ning Planets ceas'd to fill their Orbs.-------

------Whilſt Harmony divine knows to controul
The boiſt'rous Paſſions of the human Soul;-----
Whilſt ORGAN's dulcet Notes the Breaſt inſpire
With true Devotion, and a ſacred Fire;-----
Thy Name, O FYRING, ‡ thy deſerving Name
Shall ſhine conſpicuous in the Roll of Fame;-----
Ages to come, and Men in future Days
Shall grateful pay their Tribute to thy Praiſe.

To the PRINTERS.

GENTLEMEN,

I LATELY arrived from the Iſland of New-Providence at Rhode-Iſland, and from thence came to this City, where I landed, and at every other Place I came to, I found a moſt malicious, falſe and infamous Report had been propagated, and with many worthy Perſons ſeemed to gain Credit, charging me with Cowardice, in a late Engagement I had upon the high Seas with two French Frigates, by me taken, and carried into Providence, with the Privateer Snow General Shirley. The villainous Author of this Report I cannot diſcover, or ſhould not have given you this Trouble; but, on my coming to this City, had the Pleaſure to meet with ſeveral of the Officers then on board, who, of their own Accord, have on Oath declared that whole Affair: Wherefore, in Juſtice to the Character I hitherto have, and ever hope to preſerve (I mean of daring to be brave againſt any of my Sovereign's Enemies) I pray you will inſert the following Depoſition of my Officers, which will put to Silence a baſe Report, founded in Falſhood, and which the Author dares not avow publickly, or to my Face. Herein you will greatly oblige,

GENTLEMEN,
Your very humble Servant,
JOSEPH FRENCH.

Philadelphia,
December 23, 1762.

BE it remembered, That on the 23d Day of December, in the Year of our Lord 1762, before me HENRY HARRISON, Eſquire, Mayor of the City of Philadelphia, perſonally appeared George Izbeſter, Second Lieutenant of the Private Snow of War, called the General Shirley, of and belonging to the Iſland of New-Providence, commanded by Captain Joſeph French; Robert Forſyth, the Maſter of the ſaid Snow; Charles Henry, Second Mate of the ſame Snow; and John Lyle, Midſhipman on board the ſame Snow; who being ſworn, on the holy Evangeliſts of Almighty God, did depoſe, declare and ſay, That about the Firſt of of June laſt paſt they ſailed, in the Stations above mentioned, on board the ſaid Private Snow of War, from this City of Philadelphia, on a Cruize againſt his Majeſty's Enemies: That during the ſaid Cruize, on the 17th Day of Auguſt laſt, in the Evening, they did eſpy, on the high Seas, two large Ships to Windward: That the next Day, in the Morning, theſe Deponents, in the Snow aforeſaid, came up with and paſſed them twice, in order to obſerve what they were, and diſcovered them to be two French Frigates: That Captain Joſeph French thereupon called a Council of the Deponents, and the other Officers of the Snow: That Captain French, and all his Officers in Council, agreed and determined to attack, and if poſſible take, the ſaid Frigates; and thereupon Captain French, with the Deponents, and other Officers and Snow's Crew, did proceed to, and engage with, the ſaid Ships, and exchanged ſome Broadſides with them, then boarded the Frigate that appeared to be the Commodore, took, and manned her, and immediately after took the other Frigate, who then made no further Reſiſtance, and brought them both ſafe to Providence, where they were condemned and ſold. And the Deponents further ſay, that during the whole Chaſe, and Engagement with the Frigates aforeſaid, the ſaid Captain Joſeph French kept the Quarter Deck, gave the neceſſary Orders and Commands, and behaved with the Spirit and Bravery becoming a worthy Sea Officer and Commander, without the leaſt Mark or Sign of Timidity, Cowardice, or Want of Bravery, either on this or any other Occaſion, during the Cruize aforeſaid. And further the Deponents have not to ſay.

GEORGE IZBESTER,
ROBERT FORSYTH,
CHARLES HENRY,
JOHN LYLE.

Sworn to, before me,
the Day and Year above,
HENRY HARRISON, Mayor.

From Virginia we learn, that a Veſſel is arrived there in five Weeks Paſſage from Liverpool, which brought Advice, that there was no Likelihood of a Peace ſoon taking Place, when ſhe left England.-----Alſo that a Brigantine was aſhore near their Capes, ſuppoſed to be a Spaniſh Privateer.

The Snow Pitt, Captain Pines, for St. Chriſtophers, and the Charming Nancy, Captain Craig, for Martinico, both from Maryland, are taken.

Captain Higgs, from this Port for St. Chriſtophers, was taken, but afterwards retaken, and carried into that Iſland.

The Brigantine Suſannah, Captain Sutton, from this Harbour for Jamaica, was taken on her Paſſage.

And Captain Montgomery, in a Veſſel belonging to New-York, and a Veſſel from Rhode-Iſland, are both ſaid likewiſe to be taken.

⁂ On Saturday, the 11th of this Inſtant, a young Man, named ARCHIBALD WILSON, was drowned about Nine o'Clock at Night, as he was ſtepping into a Boat out of a Sloop, lying almoſt in the Stream, oppoſite to Cheſtnut-ſtreet Wharff; he was about ſix Feet high, a well made Man, had on a new Pair of Buckſkin Breeches, a blue Coat, one Silver and one black japanned Buckle in his Shoes, and had in his Pocket a conſiderable Quantity of Paper Currency; his Corpſe are not yet found. Whoever will make Search and find the Corpſe, and take Care of the Money, which muſt be in Danger of periſhing, ſhall be handſomely rewarded, by applying to JAMES BELL, in this City, near the Drawbridge, or by WILLIAM M'KENNAN. ¶

For the Entertainment of the CURIOUS,

A COURSE of ELECTRICAL EXPERIMENTS, with explanatory LECTURES, is propoſed to be exhibited at the College, in this City, on Tueſday and Wedneſday next, provided the Air be dry enough; or, if not, on the two firſt dry Days after.

By EBENEZER KINNERSLEY, M. A. Profeſſor of Engliſh and Oratory in the College and Academy of Philadelphia.

This Courſe will be divided into two Lectures; in which, among many other Particulars, it will be ſhown, that the ELECTRIC FIRE, produced by the Friction of Glaſs, or any other Electric Subſtance, is not the ſame with CULINARY FIRE, but is real LIGHTNING, the very ſame, in all Reſpects, with that which is ſeen and heard in a THUNDER-GUST; and that our Bodies, at all Times, contain enough of it to ſet a Houſe on Fire.

Above fifty curious Experiments will be made on LIGHTNING; the principal Laws by which it always acts will be exhibited and explained; and a practicable Method ſhewn, and an Inſtance given of the happy Succeſs thereof in this City, whereby Houſes, Ships, &c. may be preſerved from being damaged by LIGHTNING.

As no one need feel the Effect of any of theſe Experiments but thoſe who chooſe it, and as the Quantity of LIGHTNING made Uſe of will be but ſmall, the moſt timorous Perſon need not apprehend being either hurt or terrified. But, as the Knowledge of Nature tends to enlarge the human Mind, and give us more noble, more grand and exalted Ideas of the Author of Nature, it is preſumed that this Courſe will be, to ſome, an agreeable Entertainment.

Thoſe who deſire to have their Dwellings effectually ſecured from the deſtructive Violence of one of the moſt awful Powers of Nature, may, by theſe Lectures and Experiments, learn more of the Nature and Properties of LIGHTNING than was ever known in the World till lately; and, at the ſame Time, be fully convinced that the Method propoſed for their Security will, if put in Practice, be attended with the deſired Succeſs; and, conſequently, that Mankind, inſtead of having any juſt Objection thereto, have great Reaſon to bleſs GOD for ſo uſeful a Diſcovery. For, "A prudent Man foreſeeth the Evil, and hideth himſelf; but "the Simple paſs on, and are puniſhed." Prov. xxii. 3.

The Lecture to begin, each Day, preciſely at Eleven o'Clock. Tickets to be had at the London Coffee-Houſe, or at Mr. KINNERSLEY's Houſe, in Market-ſtreet; Price Half a Dollar for each Lecture.

Newtown, Bucks County, Dec. 20.

This Day is publiſhed, and ſold by ANDREW STEUART, at the Bible-in-Heart, in Second-ſtreet, Philadelphia,

A NARRATIVE of the unhappy Life and miſerable End of SAMUEL STODDARD, late of Egg Harbour, in the County of Burlington, and Province of Weſt New-Jerſey; who was tried at a Supreme-Court, held at Burlington aforeſaid, on Saturday, the Sixth of November, 1762, for the barbarous, cruel and inhuman Murder of JACOB GALE, late of Egg-Harbour aforeſaid; of which Crime he was found guilty, and, according to Sentence, was executed at the City of Burlington, on Tueſday, the 23d of the ſame Month.

¶ This Narrative, which is written with his OWN HAND, lays before you a Series of unheard-of Villainies, and moſt attrocious Crimes:---It appears, by his own Confeſſion, that he was a crafty, ſubtle Fellow, and carried on his ſinful Practices by Art and Diſſimulation, eſpecially with the Women.

Together with a moſt ſurprizing DREAM or VISION, which he had about 18 Months before his Death. And his laſt Speech and dying Words, which he ſpoke to the People, and delivered to the Sheriff, in his laſt Moments. To the whole is added, an Account of his TRIAL, before the Hon. ROBERT H. MORRIS, Eſq; Chief Juſtice of the ſaid Province.
